Freighter Reaches Crippled Tanker

MANILA — A British freighter reached the crippled American tanker Southern States in the stormy Pacific east of the Philippines Saturday and said she was "under way."

The New Westminster City was the first vessel to reach the 7,698-ton Southern States, which sent an SOS message Friday night saying she was drifting without steam about 250 miles east of Samar Island, U. S. Navy rescue aircraft and U. S. Navy ships also on the way.

The U. S. naval communications center at Sangley Point received a message from the British ship. The message did not describe the condition of the Southern States.

Dowell and Co., the ship's agent in Manila, said the Southern States had apparently sprung a leak in her boiler. She was en route from Portland, Ore., to Bombay, India, with a cargo of bulk grain, and planned to refuel at Cebu, a central Philippine port. She was believed to carry a crew of 35 or 40.

Former Top Red Arrested By FBI

NEW YORK — Irving Potash, onetime top American Communist who in 1955 chose voluntary exile to Red Poland, was arrested today by FBI agents Friday night for illegally re-entering the United States.

Government agents grabbed the 54-year-old Russian-born alien in a Bronxville, N.Y., restaurant, in Westchester County, just north of the New York City line.

It was the first official intimation that Potash had returned to this country since he sailed March 4, 1955, for Poland. Since then, he has been reported in various Iron Curtain countries, including Russia and Communist China.

He is now arraigned in federal court later today on charges of illegal entry.

Potash was one of 11 top American Communist leaders convicted Oct. 14, 1949, for conspiracy to teach and advocate the violent overthrow of the U. S. government. At the time of his conviction, Potash was a vice president of the old CIO International Fur Workers Union.

Body Of Slain British Officer Turned Over

NAPLES, Italy — The U. N. turned over to British authorities last night the body of 2nd Lt. Anthony Moorhouse, a young British army officer kidnapped by Egyptian guerrillas in Port Said four weeks ago.

The War Office in London announced today that a post-mortem conducted at the Naples city mortuary identified the badly decomposed body as that of Moorhouse. It was returned to England.

Egyptian newspapers have said Moorhouse suffocated when his abductors locked him inside a metal cabinet during a search of the Port Said Arab quarter by British and French troops.

Moorhouse, son of a wealthy British manufacturer, was abducted Dec. 11, as the British-French forces were completing their withdrawal from Egypt.

Preliminary Hearing Held For Fired Officer

CORVALLIS — A preliminary hearing was conducted here Friday for James A. Steadman, former Philomath police captain held for the grand jury on an assault and battery charge.

One witness, Philomath Police Chief Harold Avery, said he saw Steadman knock down Benton County Sheriff Clifford Lilly early New Year's Day and beat him.

The sheriff later suffered a heart attack that put him in a Corvallis hospital, where he was reported in fair condition Friday.

Firemen Guard Glendale Blaze

By MRS. GERALD B. FOX

The Glendale Volunteer Fire Dept. was called to the Thomas J. Tomberlin home on Sether Avenue Dec. 26 by a chimney fire. No one was at home when neighbors called the department.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlo Little and children of Azalea returned Sunday evening after spending the Christmas holidays with the Beryl Baker family in Phoenix, Ariz. The Bakers are former residents of Azalea and Grants Pass.

Marilyn Mehl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Mehl of Glendale, underwent an appendectomy in Josephine General Hospital in Grants Pass Dec. 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Life Edson of Glendale received a Christmas letter from John Behke, former Glendale fifth grade teacher. Behke is now superintendent of education for all civilian and Air Force schools in Bermuda and is, in addition, principal of one of the elementary schools there. The Behkes have a one-year-old boy.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Untereiner of Pasadena, Calif., visited during the Christmas holidays with her mother, Mrs. Mildred Cox and other members of the family in Glendale.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mullarkey and children of Azalea returned Dec. 31 from an 11-day trip to Esposito, Ill., where they visited with members of Mr. Mullarkey's family. It had been 10 years since the family had been in Illinois.

Larry Mullarkey of Azalea, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Mullarkey, left on New Year's Day to attend the University of Idaho, where he was seriously injured in an accident which occurred on Highway 99, north of Grants Pass, last summer. He attended the university at Eugene last year but found it necessary to transfer to SOC in order to be close to Medford where he must undergo regular treatment from his physician.

Both Sides Said Willing To Talk In Canada Strike

MONTREAL — Both sides in the crippling Canadian Pacific Railway (CPR) strike have expressed reserved willingness to consider any proposals for ending the walkout. But hope still appeared dim for an early settlement.

About 75,000 workers were idle Saturday as a result of the coast-to-coast strike by members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. The strike is in its fourth day.

Edward Gloss, a union official speaking here today, said the union is willing to consider any suggestion for an agreement provided there is no "sacrifice of the union's basic principles."

A CPR spokesman said the company is ready to consider "all constructive suggestions."

There have been no communications between company and union officials since a few hours before the strike started Wednesday afternoon. No government moves are expected before Parliament reconvenes Tuesday.

Heiress Arrives Pale And Shaken

MONTREAL — Dime store heiress Barbara Hutton, slighted from a transatlantic plane here pale and shaken. But her sixth husband, Baron Gottfried von Cramm, wasn't ruffled in the least. Miss Hutton said it was because husbands have no imagination.

The KLM airliner, with 49 passengers aboard, circled the airport for an hour Friday while the crew sought to remedy a defect in the landing gear indicator. Fire trucks and crash wagons stood ready when it finally landed safely.

"They told us of the trouble and I spent the next hour thinking about the way I was going to die," the heiress confessed in the airport lounge. "I confess I was very frightened."

"My husband told me I was being very foolish to imagine we were in any serious trouble and I told him he was the lucky one of the family—he has no imagination."

So few husbands do have any imagination.

The Von Cramms, who were married in November, 1955, were en route to Cuernavaca, Mexico, on a holiday.

Three Children Drown In Fall Through Ice

PALERMO, N. J. — Three children playing near their homes yesterday fell through an ice-covered irrigation hole and drowned in 14 feet of water.

The victims, two 4 years old and one 3 years, were children of officers stationed at the Air Force radar base here.

They were identified as Michael Jenne, 3, son of Capt. and Mrs. Theron L. Jenne of Detroit; Linda Kelley, 4, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Gerald V. Kelley, New Canaan, Conn.; and Rudolph Schorsch, Jr., 4, son of Lt. and Mrs. Rudolf H. Schorsch, Hansboro, Mich.

A fourth child, Linda Kelley's brother David, 1½, who was with the victims, ran home and told his parents. "Linda's in the water crying."

Government Clears Way For Poland To Buy Goods

WASHINGTON — The government today cleared the way for Communist Poland to buy surplus U. S. farm goods and hinted it would give similar privilege to other satellite countries loosening their ties with Russia.

Decision Expected Early This Year On Whether To Continue Marketing Areas

By GORMAN HOGAN

PORTLAND — A decision is expected early this year on whether the Bureau of Land Management's timber marketing areas are to be abolished, James F. Doyle, area director for the federal agency, said Friday.

"The controversial problem is one that should be settled promptly one way or the other," he said, but added that hearings first may be ordered.

Doyle declined to express an opinion on whether the marketing areas should be abolished. He said he might be asked to conduct hearings and could be accused of prejudging the issue before the evidence was in if he were on record either for or against.

Marketing areas were established in 1946 as restricted bidding on timber to mills in the area where the timber is grown. The purpose is to contribute to stability of local communities, which depend on lumbering for their economic life.

Oregon's marketing areas were made last summer by Paul F. Graves, head of the forestry management department of Syracuse University. His report now is in the hands of BLM officials in Washington, D.C.

Doyle said he had not seen a copy of the report and did not know its contents. But a previous unofficial report from Washington said Graves recommended that the marketing areas be abolished.

Eisenhower Makes Plea For Stand-by Powers

tions as a protector of small nations. "But in the light of the Soviet Union's 'callous indifference' to U.N. censure of its military oppression against Hungary, Eisenhower said:

"The United Nations . . . cannot be a wholly dependable proponent of freedom when the ambitions of the Soviet Union are involved."

Eisenhower said the Middle East "has abruptly reached a new and critical stage" — a situation which he said is made more threatening because "international communism needs and seeks a recognizable success."

His message, carried nationwide on television and radio, also asked Congress to authorize a regional program of "military assistance and cooperation with any nation or group of nations which desires such aid."

Eisenhower said his program is designed to deal with any case of Communist aggression in the Middle East, either direct or indirect.

He said it would authorize "employment of the armed forces of the United States to secure and protect the territorial integrity and political independence of such nations, requesting such aid, against overt armed aggression from any nation controlled by international communism."

Eisenhower did not mention Russia by name at that point but he did in other sections of his 3,200-word message—making it clear that the administration program is directed against any aggression or Communist subversion directly or indirectly led by the Soviet Union.

"Russia's rulers," Eisenhower said, "have long sought to dominate the Middle East."

At another point, the President said, "the reason for Russia's interest in the Middle East is solely that of power politics."

He added: "Considering her announced purpose of communizing the world, it is easy to understand her hope of dominating the Middle East."

Eisenhower also said: "The Soviet Union has nothing whatsoever to fear from the United States in the Middle East, or anywhere else in the world, so long as its rulers do not themselves first resort to aggression."

"That statement I make solemnly and emphatically."

There was general belief in Congress that Eisenhower will get the American troops to counter any direct Communist threat in the Middle East. But it appeared likely that Congress would weigh the request for weeks, possibly making a number of changes in the language.

In outlining his three-point program—calling for possible use of U. S. troops; military assistance; and economic aid—Eisenhower said:

"This program will not solve all the problems of the Middle East."

He said, for example, he would leave such problems as the Israeli-Arab dispute for handling in the United Nations—"and we are supporting the United Nations."

Eisenhower told the lawmakers he intends "promptly to send a special mission to the Middle East to explain the cooperation we are prepared to give" nations of that area.

He said Communist propaganda already are "grossly distorting our purpose" in the new program.

Declaring the Middle East "has abruptly reached a new and critical stage," Eisenhower said international communism "seeks to mask its purposes of domination by expressions of good will and by superficially attractive offers of political, economic and military aid."

He said "any free nation, which is the subject of Soviet enticement, ought, in elementary wisdom, to look behind the mask."

because they had little real effect on stabilizing the lumber economy since such a small amount of the state's timber is involved.

Marketing area restrictions already have been lifted on salvage timber to speed its harvest, and many mill operators, particularly in the Eugene area, have urged that the regulations be abolished for other timber as well.

But some small lumber operators argue that a lifting of restrictions would put them out of business because big operators from outside the area could outbid them for the timber.

However, the U. S. Forest Service, which follows a general program of not restricting bidding, said its experience shows that timber normally goes to mills in the area in which it is grown.

L. M. Gabel of the timber management division of the Forest Service said the profit margin is a major determining factor in the bidding. Timber which must be hauled long distances normally cannot be harvested profitably, he pointed out.

The Forest Service does have authority to set up the equivalent of marketing areas and has established two of them in the Pacific Northwest, one at Lakeview, Ore., and the other at Grays Harbor, Wash. These are called federal timber units.

This same legislation permits establishment of sustained yield areas where private land is intermingled with Forest Service land. The Simpson Logging Co. has such a unit in the Shelton, Wash., area. The company is given cutting privileges under a jointly managed program.

But generally Gabel said he feels competitive bidding maintains a healthy industry and fosters better timber utilization.

This latter factor, he believes, is an important one in determining whether individual mills are able to survive under a free competitive program.

Marie McDonald Found Along Desert Highway

state of mild shock when brought in. She was quite hysterical.

"She has an injury to the mouth — her two front teeth are cracked and her upper lip is swollen. The cracked teeth exposed the nerves. When she came to, she gave her glass of water and I caused great pain when the water touched the nerves."

"She has no bruises. In addition to the mouth injury, she has a small abrasion on the left knee and an abrasion on the instep of the right foot."

Johnston said that after talking to Miss McDonald, officers would go to the area where she was found to search for clues.

"We have no leads," Johnston said. "We have no descriptions. That is what we want to get when we talk to her brother."

Johnston said he had no doubt now that Miss McDonald had been kidnapped. Earlier the puzzling circumstances of the disappearance had caused police to consider the abduction possibility with caution.

Miss McDonald's apparel — a headdress, a nightgown and slippers — were taken to the sheriff's office for examination. A first report that she was blindfolded when found proved incorrect.

Miss McDonald's appearance on the desert highway came just about 24 hours after her disappearance from home was discovered.

Riverside County sheriff's deputies gave this account: A Los Angeles truck driver, Richard D. Corn, reported that a woman clad in night clothes ran in front of his truck near Cactus City, 17 miles east of Indio.

"It had a hell of a time stopping the truck," said Corn. "She was so hysterical I didn't know what was going on."

Corn took her to Cactus City. He said she was wearing slippers and a house coat over a nightgown.

From Cactus City the actress was brought to Coachella Valley Hospital here, where Dr. Allan Fisher reported her "in good condition, but bruised about the face and head."

Roadblocks immediately were set up around the area in which Miss McDonald was found.

Before she was placed under sedation, deputies said, Miss McDonald related that two men with wavy hair, wearing long dark jackets, blindfolded her and took her from her house in Los Angeles about 10:30 p. m. Friday.

This evidently was the house to which she was removed from her Encino home early Friday, and from which her telephone calls were made, officers said.

Then they drove her into the desert, she said, and the car, a light blue sedan, traveled 60 and 70 miles an hour.

During the ride, Miss McDonald related, she struggled with the two men, scratching their faces and chests. Deputies confirmed that her nails were broken.

Miss McDonald reported that the two men were probably in their 20s. She said they finally pushed her out of the car on a desert highway and she tumbled down an embankment, then saw Corn's truck approaching.

Wayne Oxford of Anchor, bus driver for the Canyonville bus which picks up the upper Cow Creek students, spent his Christmas vacation in the Bakersfield area.

McCarthy Makes Attack On Ike

WASHINGTON

Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis.) says the Republicans failed to win control of the Senate because President Eisenhower "deliberately" opposed former GOP Sen. Herman Welker of Idaho.

The Wisconsin lawmaker, in his first major attack on Eisenhower since the President's landslide reelection, interrupted Senate debate on a Messex change proposal yesterday to criticize Eisenhower for what McCarthy called the "purge" of Welker.

Welker was defeated by Frank Church, a Democrat, in November. The Democrats hold a 49-47 margin in the Senate.

McCarthy said Welker's defeat came after Eisenhower "placed his stamp of approval" on a magazine article last Oct. 26 by Paul Hoffman, a close friend of the President. McCarthy said Hoffman wrote that Welker "had no place in the Republican party."

There was no immediate comment from the White House. Both Welker and Hoffman declined comment.

Saddle Club Formed By Winston Group

A saddle club, called the Winston Wranglers, has been incorporated for the purpose of promoting good horsemanship.

Incorporation papers were filed by Boyd Balcom, Bob Watkins, Carmen Joers and Don Lyon. Balcom is presently president of the club and Lyon is drillmaster.

The club now has 22 members, according to Mrs. Joers, and meets the first and third Sundays of each month at the Douglas County Fairgrounds pavilion. New officers will be elected at a meeting Sunday.

Portland Police Plan To Call In Parents, Also

PORTLAND — Portland police, in an effort to curb an outbreak of juvenile violence, plan to call the parents of teen-agers who get out of line to police headquarters.

"We will get the reports from the officer who brought them in and from the delinquents, while the parents are there to hear first hand. If the teen-ager has been vicious or has caused serious damage, he will be held in custody."

"If not, maybe we will allow the parents to take him or her home with them," an officer said.

Rest, Travel Are Planned

Three retiring Douglas County officials, who broke their official ties with public life this week, may look upon their withdrawals as a "rest" and "vacation" phase of retirement which awaits them. They step out of office at midnight Sunday.

Carl C. Hill, county judge for the final six years of a 35-year period as a school, state and county official, says merely that he will "retire" to his home at Days Creek. He continues to maintain interests in several Canyonville establishments, including the South Umpqua State Bank, of which he is president, and in a hardware and furniture store.

The judge has been a teacher, principal and superintendent in various schools in the county. He served as a member of the county court.

Greatly Increased County Business Noted By Johnson

A 16-year office tenure, spanning war years and peace time prosperity, brought obvious changes to the county treasurer's office from which Oliver Johnson retired this week.

The monetary growth of the treasury followed the growth pattern of the county. Business increased steadily from 1942 through the war years in the county treasury with an increase in land sales and lumber.

Business transactions reached an all-time high of $23,116,928.03 in the county treasurer's office for the fiscal year ending June 1956. This was in marked contrast to Johnson's first year in office in 1941 when the treasury handled $3,500,000.

The biggest increase came through the
