Fire In Fairbanks Kills One Lodger; Nets Save Scores

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—Nearly 50 persons escaped by leaping into nets or climbing down shaky ladders in 51-below-zero weather yesterday as a midday fire sent columns of acrid smoke swirling through the city's largest apartment building.

One man died and 14 others were injured, including two women whose spines were fractured as they leaped into fire nets. The others were overcome by smoke or suffered cuts.

More than 200 persons were believed in the new nine-story Northward Building. Although the fire was confined to the basement, heavy clouds of smoke swept up elevator shafts and stairwells to fill the halls and seep into apartments.
