Canyonville PTA Holds Family Dinner, Meeting

By VIRGINIA PROCTOR
A large number of parents and teachers attended the family pot-luck dinner meeting of the Canyonville PTA Thursday evening at the Youth Center building.

Elkton HE Unit Sets Third Rug Workshop

The Elkton Home Extension Unit will hold its third and last meeting Jan. 24 on rug making, and on this day the demonstrator will show how the braiding is done.

It will be an all-day meeting, starting at 10 a.m. All ladies in the community interested in this work are invited to attend. The meetings are held in the Christian Church in Elkton.

Monger led a discussion on the proposed cafeteria and explained that it would be supervised by him and the school board and backed by the PTA, who would provide food ideas, interview cooks and purchase some equipment such as trays and silver.

Monger stated that some trays had been purchased and that the cafeteria will be located in the intermediate building where the intermediate, junior and senior high grades would eat. The food will be located in the intermediate building where the intermediate, junior and senior high grades would eat.

Mrs. J. R. Stonehocker has been interviewed for the position of head cook and is helping in this planning stage. Mrs. Stonehocker is well-known in restaurant work in the area.

Other business included plans for a benefit box social to include students from grade six through high school as well as all parents and teachers and interested patrons. The box social is set for Thursday evening, Feb. 28, at 6:30 and proceeds will be earmarked to purchase a piano for the new primary building. Bill Marsters is general chairman with Paul Hals, auctioneer; Eugene Southwell, entertainment; and Miss Donna Clough, decorations.

Also planned as a money-making venture is the cooked food sale scheduled to be held on Tuesday, Feb. 12, in front of or inside the Superette market, depending on weather.
