

Naming Of Sweetheart Slated At Pine Grove

By MRS. CHARLES FORREST
The "sweetheart" of the Pine Grove Church will be revealed next Sunday.
Last Sunday was the last day of the contest at the church, it was reported at the Sunday school meeting.
At the same meeting, a trombone duet was played by Albert Radcliffe and Grace Carol Smith. Boy Scouts and Cub Scouts were welcomed in recognition of Boy Scout Week by Supt. Mrs. Cora Colson.
Speaker at the evening service was the Rev. Arthur Hoensch of Roseburg. He and his wife also sang a duet.
The Pine Grove instrumental band practiced following the evening service. These sessions are open to all young people in the area.

It was also announced that the valentine party has been scheduled by the youth group at 7 p.m. Friday at the church. All young people of the Dixonville area are invited.

Causes Of Juvenile Delinquency Told Kiwanis Members

Six underlying causes of juvenile delinquency were spelled out at a Roseburg Kiwanis luncheon meeting Tuesday by Circuit Judge William S. Fort, the juvenile court judge for Lane County.
In concluding his talk Judge Fort emphasized that the six causes were facts that were present and could not seriously be changed, but that "we must be ready to create services that will handle juvenile delinquency on a preventive basis."
Two of the basic causes for the greatly increased amount of teenage delinquency in recent years are the changing of the nation's social pattern from rural to urban and the place of the motor car in the nation's life, Judge Fort said.
Judge Fort elaborated on the effect of cars on today's teenage youth saying that the auto has given the American people the most mobile civilization the world has ever seen. He added that many cases of juvenile delinquency arise from migratory families that are constantly on the move, which deny children the right to have "roots" in their life to grow.
In addition, Judge Fort said, cars are the greatest single source of the crime delinquency problem and that without a car most of the teenage offenses would not be committed. The car is the instrument that makes commission of the crime possible, the judge pointed out.
The other underlying causes listed by Judge Fort were divorce, which he says is found in families of over half the juveniles appearing in his court, the fact that many women are working on full time jobs, the increase in mental illness, and the restrictive child labor and compulsory school attendance legislation which forces "dull normal" children to remain in school where they are a detriment to themselves and the school and often "are easily led into trouble."
In other routine business an announcement was made that the Kiwanis Club's petition for Robindale School will be presented to the county court at 1:30 p.m. next Tuesday.

Gov. Holmes Says Tax Problem Not Too Great

Gov. Robert D. Holmes assured a state Democratic meeting at Coos Bay last weekend "that the tax problem facing the legislature is not insurmountable," according to Al Roll, Douglas County chairman.
Roll said Holmes told the Democratic gathering that the budget submitted by the outgoing Republican administration managed to use up most of the surplus left over from 1955. By a thorough going over, the Governor indicated, much of the money needed to finance proposed Democratic programs could be obtained without harming the state's operation.
Holmes made two talks in Coos Bay, Roll said, one to the state central committee while in session and the other to a luncheon open to the public. Roll added that a "key man" from both houses of the Legislature reported on the respective progress of their groups.

Rabbit Breeding Topic For 4-H Rabbit School

Rabbit breeding, showmanship, judging, and genetics will be included in the subjects presented to the Southern Oregon 4-H rabbit school Saturday at the Douglas County Fairgrounds. Frank von Borstel, Douglas County 4-H extension agent, stated the school is for 4-H and adult rabbit raisers.
Dr. Ralph Bogart, professor of animal husbandry at Oregon State College, will discuss rabbit breeding. Von Borstel said. He added that two members of the American Rabbit Breeders Assn., Steve West, a judge from West Linn, and Burt Searl, a judge from Molalla, will also talk at the school.
The Umpqua Rabbit Breeders Assn. is co-operating in the school's work.

4-H Clothing Leaders Training Meets Slated

Two 4-H clothing leaders training meetings were announced Tuesday for central and south Douglas County by Jane Gates, county extension agent. Two projects, the Just So Girl and Sew, it's Fun, will be covered at both meetings.
The Central Douglas meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Singer Sewing Machine Co., 55th St. Jackson St., Roseburg.
The meeting for South Douglas leaders will be at 10 a.m. Thursday at the home of Mrs. Buela Mitchell, Cherry Street, Riddle.

Wildcat Strike Ends

MEMPHIS, Tenn. — A two-day "wildcat" strike of city bus drivers ended Wednesday.
Buses began to roll shortly after 4 a. m. for the first time since a sudden strike early Monday. They carry about 100,000 passengers daily.
The strike was called after the Memphis Street Railway Co. suspended two drivers, charging they passed up passengers.

Flames Roar Through Jaguar Automobile Plant

COVENTRY, England — Swiftly spreading flames roared through nearly half of the big Jaguar automobile works Tuesday night, causing an unexpected setback in one of Britain's major export items.
A company spokesman said damage would reach "several million dollars." Four thousand employees worked at the plant, which normally produces nearly three million dollars worth of Jaguars a week — up to 80 per cent of them sold abroad to help Britain earn precious dollars.

Bottlenecks At Both Ends Of Oregon Coast Highway Discussed By Committee

SALEM — Traffic "bottlenecks" at both ends of the Oregon coast brought before the Oregon Legislature Wednesday strong support for a bridge across the Columbia River at Astoria and a demand for a 14.5 million dollar bond issue to improve Highway 101 in Curry County.
There was no opposition to the highway bridge proposal, sponsored by Rep. W. H. Holmstrom (D). Gearhart, at a two-hour hearing of the House Highway Committee.
There was, however, considerable discontent voiced by representatives of coastal county courts and development groups over the condition of Highway 101 between Gold Beach and Brookings.
The Highway 101 delegation unanimously approved drafting a bill calling for the bond issue after hearing State Engineer W. C. Williams tell them why only a small part of the revenue from an 8 million dollar bond issue now before the Legislature would be available for the coastal road.
The Astoria-Megler bridge plan — a 25-year vision — has been in a planning stage for several years, Williams told the Highway Committee. Several groups in Oregon and Washington shared the cost of a $150,000 survey to determine feasibility of the project three years ago, he said.
The survey envisioned a two-lane highway bridge 4.3 miles long and costing 30.5 million dollars. The cost, Williams said, is five times greater than it would have been in the early 1930's, when support first gained impetus.
Williams said the state is losing $85,000 a year on its ferries between Astoria and Megler. He said it was impracticable to replace or buy new equipment because of decreasing traffic.
Williams said traffic congestion indicated a bridge would be accommodating one million vehicles by 1988-28 years after completion. He estimated first-year travel at 413,000 vehicles, netting $770,000 in revenue from tolls.
The engineer said the revenue wouldn't be sufficient to meet the bonded indebtedness for the first several years, and Oregon and Washington probably would have to make up a deficit of about $500,000 yearly until traffic increased.
The "bottleneck" on Highway 101 caused by rebuilding south of Gold Beach brought an irate delegation to Salem. It besieged Williams and other Highway Department officials with questions on road fund allocations, construction delays, bonding and federal aid.
Williams told the delegation it took six years to build the Portland-Dallas Highway, and it would take as long to rebuild the Gold Beach-Brookings section if the state had funds to do the work without interruption.
The engineer reminded the delegation that Highway 101 is not an interstate road and only some of the federal road funds the state receives can be used on it.
Williams said the state's highway bond indebtedness now is $7 million dollars. The Highway Commission is asking the Legislature to approve another 8 million dollar bond issue so that it can participate in the federal aid highway program with matching funds for construction in Oregon for the next 2 1/2 years.

Republicans Omit Democrat Blasts On Lincoln's Day

WASHINGTON — Democrats came off today with only a few political scratches from Republicans who busied themselves dissecting their own party's differences in annual Lincoln Day efforts.
Traditionally, the observance of Lincoln's Birthday has been a time for GOP speakers to lambaste the opposition party. Instead, some of the GOP's top leaders spent yesterday discussing President Eisenhower's program of "modern Republicanism."
With the air of giving assurance to party conservatives, National Chairman Meade Alcorn said he and Eisenhower are only "modernizing the superstructure" of the GOP.
"We aren't changing the fundamental beliefs that were enunciated in Lincoln's day and continue to live today," Alcorn told a Pittsburgh audience.
Not to let the Democrats go unscathed, Alcorn said they were "visionless victims of the past... barren of new ideas."
At Cincinnati, Chairman Simpson (Pa) of the Republican Congressional Campaign Committee said that "irrespective of any new labels placed on Republican party activities I have been unable to detect anything that is wrong with the Republicanism of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft."
Taft was defeated by Eisenhower for the GOP nomination in 1952 but remains a symbol for the party's conservatives. Cincinnati was Taft's home town.

Former Governor Pierce's Widow Passes At 83

SALEM — Mrs. Cornelia Marvin Pierce, Oregon's first state librarian and widow of former Gov. Walter M. Pierce, died in a hospital Tuesday after a long illness. She was 83.
For 24 years she worked for the growth of the state library, first as the secretary of the Oregon Library Commission, and then as librarian.
A native of Monticello, Iowa, she worked six years with the Wisconsin Library Commission before coming to Oregon in 1905.
Pierce was governor in 1923-27. It was in the year following his retirement from the governorship that she and Pierce were married. She later served as his secretary while he was a member of Congress from Eastern Oregon, 1933-43.
Mrs. Pierce early developed her interest in library work, after education in public schools of Rochester and St. Paul, Minn., and a private school in Boston. From 1909-17 she was an instructor in the Arמוש Institute Library School, connected with the University of Illinois, before going to the Wisconsin Library Commission. She was the author of a book on library buildings.
Oregon's educational system drew her interest, too, and she was for some years a regent on the old normal school board and served three years as a member of the Board of Higher Education.

Key District Plan Draws Criticism From Two Boards

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
School boards at Portland and at Klamath Falls heard harsh words Monday night for the so-called key district school bill now in the Oregon legislature.
The Portland district board voted to oppose the plan after hearing its chairman, Herbert M. Schwab, describe the proposal as one which could "very possibly cripple the Portland school system."
Arnold Gralapp, superintendent of the Klamath Falls system, told his board that, in effect, "schools within Klamath County would be financially penalized for having organized their districts to operate in an efficient and well organized manner."
He urged board members to go to Salem and appear in opposition before the Senate Education Committee Thursday evening.
The proposed bill would set up a state basic school fund based on $230 a child and require taxation by all schools equal to the millage rate of the "key district" — Portland.
Schwab said Portland now contributes 12 million dollars yearly to the basic support fund and gets 6 millions back. The proposed measure, he said would "impose upon taxpayers of Portland an additional tax burden running into millions of dollars every year."
Gralapp, saying Klamath County schools also would lose money, told the board that the proposed method would give districts with lowest valuations the first call on the state funds.

French Execute Four Algerians At Dawn

ALGIERS — The French executed four more Algerians at dawn Wednesday for acts of violence in the nationalist rebellion.
The executions followed 12 others since French authorities bowed two weeks ago to demands of many French settlers to go ahead with capital punishment for condemned rebels.
French headquarters announced 90 rebels were killed in engagements with French troops throughout Algeria.

Moroccan Sultan Ends Tour Of Mediterranean

MADRID — One of Spain's two royal Arab visitors flew home Wednesday after a round of conferences that Spanish observers saw as a move to wrest the leadership of the Arab world from Egyptian President Nasser.
Sultan Mohammed V of Morocco ended a tour of western Mediterranean countries with a four-day visit to Madrid. The sultan and his foreign minister, Ahmed Bala' fref, held intensive meetings here with Spanish and Libyan officials and King Saud of Saudi Arabia, who is here on a state visit.

CAIRO — The newspaper Al Gumbhurriya said Wednesday the United States will sell Saudi Arabia 30 million dollars worth of arms under agreements reached between President Eisenhower and King Saud.
