Ex-Gov. Smith Buys Albany Paper

ALBANY, Ore. — Former Gov. Elmo Smith Saturday purchased an interest in a daily newspaper here and promptly announced he was out of elective politics.

Smith said his politics now will be centered on the Albany Democrat Herald, an afternoon newspaper with 11,000 circulation. He added he will be active in community affairs.

Sources here said Smith obtained his interest in the paper and its publishing plant for about $250,000. Ralph H. Cronise retains partial interest, and will stay on as an advisory editor.

Cronise retains complete control of radio station KWIL here. Smith still owns weekly newspapers in Madras and John Day that he operated while serving six years in the Oregon Senate. It was about 10:30 a. m. Saturday in January, 1956, that he became Oregon's chief executive when Gov. Paul Patterson died of a heart attack.

When Smith stood for election last November, he was defeated by Democrat Robert Holmes. Smith said he plans to make his home here.

'Stove Repairmen' Bilk Elderly Woman Of $40

Roseburg police were looking for two "stove repairmen" today who, they said, had taken $40 from an 83-year-old woman.

The police reported that Mrs. Tina Hoffmeister, 83, 1779 SE Eddy St., Roseburg, telephoned them about 10:30 a. m. Saturday to say that two men had taken two $20 bills from her above the $49 she paid them for repairing her stove.

She told the police the men had come by Saturday morning and offered to do some work. She had them repair the stove and they charged her $49 for the job, the police stated. Somehow the men managed to get the two extra bills from her without her knowing it, they said.

Mrs. Hoffmeister signed a complaint against the two men described as about 40 and 25, the police said. The police added that the investigation was continuing today.

Lana's Daughter Goes AWOL In School Revolt

HOLLYWOOD — Lana Turner's tall, auburn-haired daughter went AWOL with her mother early today after she wandered alone through the slum sections of Los Angeles rather than return to school.

Juvenile officers said that three men were following 13-year-old Cheryl Christina Crane down Main Street when a motorist gave her a lift that ended at a police station.

Officers said the girl got out of a cab last night en route back to her exclusive girl's school, telling a school chum:

"I'm not going back to school."

School authorities called Miss Turner, who called the girl's father, broker Stephen Crane, who called police. They broadcast a missing persons report on the girl shortly before she was found.

Miss Turner and Crane were divorced in 1944.

Birmingham Hit By Transit Strike; Segregation Hurts

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. — A strike of 500 Birmingham Transit Co. bus drivers and mechanics left thousands of Birmingham area residents without transportation Monday.

The walkout at midnight Sunday night came only three days after the company notified the City Commission it was going out of business because of declining revenues, segregation and labor troubles.

Members of the Amalgamated Assn. of Street, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees struck in support of wage demands. They had asked a pay increase of 46 cents an hour which the company said it couldn't meet. Present pay is $1.50 per hour.

Birmingham Transit buses are the major means of public transportation for 500,000 residents of Greater Birmingham. A company official estimated that they carry 30 million passengers a year.

Company spokesmen told the city government that their passenger load has declined since Dec. 26, when 21 Negroes deliberately violated Birmingham's bus segregation law.

Whites apparently resented the effort to end the practice of separating Negroes on buses and Negroes were concerned over the possibility of violence, the spokesmen said.

Liner Queen Mary Feels British Strike Effects

LONDON — Union bosses refused Monday to lift a ban on handling the 81,000-ton liner Queen Mary and the Cunard Line said it would disembark 1,150 British-bound passengers in France.

The ship reached Cherbourg Monday from New York, bypassing Southampton, her home port on the Atlantic run.

The Confederation of Shipbuilding and Engineering Workers (CSEU), which has called nationwide strikes paralyzing shipyards and many dollar-earning industries, has blacklisted the Queen Mary. It contends the liner was built at a struck shipyard before repairs were completed.

Meanwhile, the snowball strike of engineering workers in factories entered its second week and the shipyard stoppage its third. There was no sign of a break in either dispute, centered on wage increase demands.

The independent, influential Times predicted Monday that Prime Minister Macmillan's government will run into a new crisis there in an inflationary settlement of the strikes.

Pakistan Joins Pact Under Ike's Mideast Policy

KARACHI — Pakistan has agreed to let U. S. help defend it if necessary to repel any armed attack by international communism. The agreement was worked out under the Eisenhower Doctrine.

The decision was announced in a joint communique at the conclusion of a three-day visit here by Ambassador James P. Richards, President Eisenhower's special envoy to explain the doctrine to countries in the Middle East.

The communique said Pakistan and the United States reaffirmed the "determination of both governments to oppose aggression from any quarter." The United States also agreed to furnish certain economic and military aid and to build fertilizer factories and to finance some joint regional projects.

The two countries signed a one-year agreement in May 1954 for the United States to help equip and train Pakistan's armed forces.

Richards has left Karachi for talks with Afghanistani leaders in Kabul. He had already received endorsement of the Eisenhower doctrine from Lebanon, Libya, Turkey and Iran.

The Eisenhower doctrine is under strong fire from Russia, Syria and Egypt.

Commission To Probe Claim Of Recipient

PORTLAND — The claim of a 31-year-old welfare recipient that his welfare payments had been reduced illegally will be investigated by the Oregon Welfare Commission.

At its monthly meeting here Friday, the commission accepted a petition which the elderly man had circulated in the town of Vernonia asking dismissal of Mrs. Eva Tice, Columbia County welfare administrator, on a charge of "illegal administration of her office." Some Vernonia residents signed the petition.

In other action Friday, the board announced that its new schedule of rates for treatment of welfare patients at nursing homes and homes for the aged will go into effect April 1.

The new schedule provides for a 20 per cent increase in rates paid for nursing home care and a 15 per cent increase in rates for care in homes for the aged.

They are Rex Burrows, a sales promotion man, and Bill Scott, a steamfitter. They are seeking contributions.

Woolridge was shot in the head while napping on a living room couch. Mrs. Woolridge ran in the kitchen and was shot in the face. Little Paul tried to scurry out of the house and was cut down. The two girls were felled in the living room.

Joseph Woolridge, 18, found the carnage when he came home at 6:50 from a date in Kansas City. He called police and an ambulance.

One of the ambulance crew was Milton Woolridge, oldest son of the family. He tried to help Doris and drove her to the hospital.

Investigators said the boy had no police record. He has been in the eighth grade at South Park School and a regular at Sunday school.

Daniel is in jail. No charge was filed immediately, pending determination of his status as a juvenile.

Sources at NATO headquarters said Speidel would arrive at his new headquarters Wednesday. Although Allied officials would not say so openly, Speidel's delay was apparently arranged to throw off plans for a Communist demonstration against the former Nazi general.

SALEM — The Senate completed legislative action last week on a bill to let the state Game Commission declare emergency open seasons on marauding deer, elk and antelope.

Sen. Walter C. Loh (R), Monmouth rancher, said the legislation would give relief to farmers in foothill areas who have been plagued by animals foraging for food. He said some farmers have suffered extensive field and crop damages.

Supported by the Oregon Wildlife Federation and the Isaac Walton League, the bill would limit the take of any one type of animal to 75 spots during tags would be issued by draw.

Traffic Mishaps List 5 Vehicles; One Person Hurt

Two traffic accidents involving five vehicles were reported over the weekend.

Martin Olin Stockdale, 34, North Bend, injured his right leg and knee in a two-car collision at 5:30 p. m. Sunday, state police reported.

Stockdale's car was going north on U. S. Highway 99 near Myrtle Creek, the police said, when a second vehicle, driven by Edmund Joseph Keller, 54, Myrtle Creek, pulled onto the pavement.

The right front of Stockdale's vehicle, collided with the left rear of Keller's, the police said, causing moderate damage to both vehicles.

In a second weekend accident, at 11:45 a. m. Saturday in Roseburg, three vehicles were damaged, Roseburg police said Monday.

According to the police the three, a car and two pickup trucks, were all northbound on Northeast Stephens Street at the Diamond Lake intersection. The first vehicle involved, a car driven by Chris Martin Clausen, 156 Currier St., Roseburg, was the last in a line of cars halted for a red light.

The police added that two pickups, driven by Gary Gene Bliss, 2026 NE Morris St., and Elwyn Harvey Poocek, 176 NE Flagg St., both of Roseburg, slid on the slick pavement causing Poocek's truck to strike the rear of Bliss' truck which in turn struck the rear end of Clausen's car.

The police said that the vehicles received front and rear end damages.

Another car went over a nine-foot bank into Rattlesnake Creek up Little River Saturday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Gaare, Glide, were visiting friends, when Gaare looked out a window and saw the car was gone. It had coasted backward down an incline and into the creek. News-Review correspondent Mrs. Arthur Selby said.

Late Sen. Taft, Marine Corps Hit By Ted Williams

NEW ORLEANS — The New Orleans States said Monday Boston Red Sox slugger Ted Williams spat at the name of the late Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) because the senator did not help him get out of Marine service during the Korean War.

"You think Sen. Taft was a great man?" the States said. Williams asked executive sports editor Crozet Duplantier. "Well, here's what I think of him," Duplantier said. Williams then spat on the floor of the lobby at Moisant Airport shortly before he departed for Sarasota, Fla.

"He was afraid to even try to do anything for me. But he would do anything to bat for some other guy. But not me. I was too important," Williams was quoted.

The player was in New Orleans with the Red Sox Sunday for an exhibition baseball game with the class AA New Orleans Pelicans. Duplantier asked Williams if he had any resentment toward the Marine Corps, which interrupted his baseball career twice, calling him up for service during World War Two and the Korean War.

"You're damned right I do," the States said Williams answered. "Resentment against the Marine Corps and the whole damned government."

After spitting at the name of Taft, the States said Williams then said:

"And the same goes for Harry Truman. And the whole United States government. The whole damned thing is phony."

Duplantier asked if Williams was still in the Marine reserves.

"Boy, you know I'm not," the States said Williams answered. "When I got out last time and they gave me a chance to pick up that paper (his discharge) I grabbed it."

14th Amendment Plea Frees Elk, Deer Slayer

ASTORIA — Jewell farmer Glenwood Engbretson, using the Constitution, was found innocent by a justice court jury Saturday of killing deer and elk out of season on his property.

His attorney, Paul Jones, based Engbretson's defense on the 14th Amendment to the Constitution, which provides that "No state shall make or enforce any law which shall abridge the privileges or immunities of citizens of the United States."

State law prohibits unlicensed killing of deer and elk. Engbretson testified that the animals were eating his pastures and cattle feed.
