Spring Fashion Show And Card Party Held

The spring fashion season was ushered in Friday evening at the beautiful fashion show and card party sponsored by Xi Tau Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, in the Elks Terrace Ballroom.

Benefiting from the second annual event was the Roseburg High Band Uniform Fund. Costumed by Miller's Department Store, the models were members of Beta Sigma Phi, their daughters and high school band members.

Each group of models in the "Hit Parade of Fashions" was heralded by "Ty" Cornwall, playing a trumpet fanfare.

Following refreshments Mrs. L. Lacey welcomed the audience and introduced Mrs. Jack Wharton, sponsor of the group, who drew for the door prize. The prize donated by Miller's was awarded to Margaret Engle.

Outstanding aspect of the show was the unusual fast moving presentation of over 50 eye-catching costumes cleverly narrated by Mrs. Morris Bowker. Highlight of the evening was the appearance of Mrs. Henry Darby in a stunning suit, accompanied by Dark Boy, her French poodle.

Mrs. Bowker commented that "her usual accessory, Dark Boy, as well as her suit, both come from a long line of champions."

In addition to featuring fashions from all departments of Miller's, including the latest creations in style, shoes, lingerie and jewelry, were the clever props for the sports costumes supplied by J. C. Sporting Goods.

During the show, Miss Marjorie Bowker, modeling a light blue dress, carried a huge bouquet of yellow daffodils, which she shared with several persons at their tables.

Girls modeling fashions were escorted by Larry Fordickson and Dave Forrest, also modeling suits from Miller's. Showstopper was petite model, three-year-old Louise Griffin, who made a spectacular flight across the room after her entrance, when she discovered her father.

A musical interlude was provided
