Riesel Regains Light Perception In Right Eye

NEW YORK, (AP) — Victor Riesel, labor columnist blinded by an acid thrower a year ago this morning, disclosed here that he has regained some light perception in his right eye.

"It is a great difference from the complete darkness after I left the hospital," Riesel said. "Now I have to turn off the light before I go to bed. I can see a bright light and moving shadows in front of it."

Riesel said the improvement was noticed about the time he went to London early this year to consult an eye surgeon to get the view of "another school of medicine."

He said the "light retention" is becoming stronger and stronger, and the light now is to keep it. He said there was no vision in the sense of being able to read, but "now when I enter a room I can guide myself by light from the windows or a bright light placed in a corner of a room."

Navy Building Large New Radio Telescopes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy announced Tuesday it is building near Riverside, Md., one of the largest radio telescopes in the world to pick up radiations from the planets and celestial bodies.

The antenna, which will be constructed principally of aluminum, will look like a dish about 84 feet in diameter and will be mounted on top of a steel tower.

The radio telescope was designed by the D. S. Kennedy Co. of Cohasset, Mass. The Navy said it will be the largest radio telescope in the United States and the largest known of its kind to be mounted with one axis parallel to that of the earth. This mounting will permit automatic tracking of celestial objects, a system followed in many large astronomical telescopes.

The Navy said the new radio telescope will permit detection of fainter radio signals than is possible with systems now in use. The southern Maryland site was chosen because it enjoys comparatively low radio interference.

Using smaller and less powerful radio telescopes, the Naval Research Laboratory has in recent years reported the first detection of radiation from the planets Mars and Venus.

Traffic Accidents Take 38 Lives During March

SALEM (AP) — Thirty-eight persons died in Oregon traffic accidents in March, making it the second worst March on record, the state Traffic Safety Commission said Tuesday.

The toll was 10 more than in March of last year.

There have been 92 deaths in the first three months this year, compared with 86 in the similar period last year.
