REPLACEABLE "HEART"—A new solution to design problems of an atomic plane has been suggested by three of America's top scientists. To eliminate contamination dangers, the nuclear power plant would consist of a capsule unit in the front of the ship. It is removable and replaceable as shown in this sketch, originating in Hawthorne, Calif. The crew would be at a point farthest away from the "hot" fuel. Their quarters, a small unit in the tail section, could detach and glide to safety in emergency.

TV OR NOT TV?—That was the question facing C. J. Buckley of Casper, Wyo., who, while he could receive the TV programs from his local outlet, wanted to be able to view the wider variety of programs offered by Denver stations (225 miles) and others farther away. His immediate problem was a 250-foot Casper Mountain, so Buckley, lower left in picture, enlisted the help of three friends to construct this 112-foot-high antenna tower. The tower, including a specially tuned all-channel antenna and controls, cost $800 and was completed in five days. Bill Wilson, a Casper TV expert, believes that the tower, located in Buckley's backyard, should receive a clear signal from a radius of 500-600 miles and skip signals from up to 1,000 miles. If he's right Buckley should be able to see what some Texas and Alabama stations are telecasting.

School Fire Damage Blamed On Vandals

ELLENSBURG — A fire believed to be started by vandals burned through three rooms at the Morgan Junior High School early Sunday. Fire Chief Jack Caldwell estimated damage at $15,000. Caldwell said the building had been entered through a gymnasium window. Investigation disclosed that attempts had been made to set fires at eight places in the school.

Holmes Would Include Farm Work As Hazardous

PORTLAND — Gov. Robert Holmes told the Oregon Industrial Safety Conference recently that it might be a good idea to designate legally the operation of farm equipment as a hazardous occupation. The governor also called for a farm safety campaign similar to that which he said had reduced accident rates in industry. Stephen J. Hall, Seattle, vice president of the Simpson Timber Co., told the conference that management has the major responsibility for industrial safety. "If management cannot afford a safety program, it cannot afford to be in business," he said. The conference continued Friday.

WRECKER — The helicopter has been successfully tested at San Diego, Calif., as a flying salvage craft for amphibious landings. The Vertol H-21 towed an amphibious tank off the beach to the water.

ANOTHER CONQUEST—Britain's Princess Margaret, whose name has been linked romantically with a number of men since the end of her romance with Capt. Peter Townsend, adds another admirer in this Cub Scout rubbing his nose in her admiration. The princess, as president of the Church of England Youth Council, visited the group of Girl Guides and Wolf Cub Scouts at the Harcliffe Housing Estate in Bristol, England.
