July Circulation Of Library Gains

July circulation in the Douglas County Library system was 30,955, almost double what it had been in July 1956, the first month of operation of the county system. Heading the community list of users was Glendale. It had the highest circulation for July of any of the community libraries, with 1,301 books, reports Librarian Carol Trimble.

Meanwhile, all library service in the county has been suspended until Sept. 3. Library personnel has gone on vacation. The suspension was taken by the Douglas County Library board in an effort to meet a curtailed budget. During the vacations Marion Walcott, a librarian at Roseburg, will attend the Pacific Northwest Library Assn. meeting in Bozeman, Mont.

A highlight of the summer in the system has been the award of certificates to 330 children in the county who have read eight or more books in the summer vacation. Parties were given for the young readers. The parties carried out the circus theme used in the summer reading program.

SHEEP DOG TRIALS will be held again this year, with dogs working against a stop watch penning sheep. The dog's judgement and assistance from owner will also be considered.

Working Dogs To Compete

With two of last year's winners not expected to return to competition this year, the sheep dog contest should have a wide open field. Neither Gordon Baker or Art Rychar, both of Yoncalla, have planned to return to defend the honors they won last year. About 10 entrants are expected. The contest will be held Friday at 2 p.m. in the grandstand.

The contest will show off the abilities of working sheep dogs from the county. A total of $210 in prize money will be awarded to the owners of the top six dogs. The winner will get $60, the second place entrant $50, and so on to $10 for sixth place.

Sheep for the event will be provided by the Douglas Livestock Market. All sheep used will be similar and none will be used twice. Dogs will work with about five sheep.

Dogs must fetch sheep from the arena corner, run them through a gate and pen them. The handler may assist the dog in any way. However this will be taken into account in judging, and excess assistance will count against the dog. Judging will be based on judgment of the dog, obedience to signals from the handler, time, and assistance from the handler. There will be three judges. There will be a 10 minute time limit and a two minute warning signal.
