

Patterson, Rademacher Calm On Eve Of Unique Heavyweight Title Fight

By JACK HEWINS
SEATTLE — While the boxing world still seethed and fumed over Thursday's world heavyweight title fight between champ (pro) Pete Rademacher, the word Wednesday for the two principals was "unconcerned."
Their training ended, both made Wednesday a day of rest.
Patterson loafed at the quiet resort on Star Lake, 20 miles south of Seattle, where he has headquarters during his get-ready program.
Rademacher, admitting he is "just a country boy," lolled around the house at North Bend, Wash., where he has lived for the last two weeks. At the back door a steep, fir-clad mountain called Mount Si stood vigil over the big audacious Olympic champion who has turned the world of boxing topsy-turvy.
"It is the first to step out of the amateur ranks into a heavyweight championship bout."
Husky Pete worked out Tuesday, going two fast rounds with his spar mates. Asked by surprised writers why he had continued heavy work so long, Pete replied easily, "I always have."
Patterson worked, too, but lightly, with no sparring. The champion (pro) will stay at Star Lake until Thursday morning, driving to Seattle just in time for the noon weigh-in. Rademacher plans to move into the city Wednesday night.
D'Amato, Patterson's manager, said his titleholder probably will be at his heaviest for this fight. The former middleweight weighed 183½ when he met Tommy Jackson last month and D'Amato expects him to be a few pounds heavier for Rademacher.

"Expected Weight 210."
The champ (amateur), who has no manager and does his own talking, expects to weigh 210, neither his heaviest nor his lightest. He was 205 when he earned Comparing this day to the eve of his Olympic successes, Rademacher said he felt no excitement or tenseness.

"This is not like a tournament where you have two or three fights a day and have to keep winning to stay in the running. I'm ready. I have been ready for a week. I feel I have nothing to lose, everything to gain."
Pete Smiles At Self
Then he grinned at his own audacity. "I don't know if it's all in my head or whether I really have the stuff to win the title."
The quiet, uncommunicative Patterson showed no signs of tenseness and D'Amato pronounced him fit "physically and mentally."
About the kindest thing its critics have called this fight is a "mismatch." Betting odds were being reported as 1 to 10 in Patterson's favor, but, as one downtown Seattle business man put it, "nobody is betting—while sober."
But criticism and lack of betting have not shortened the lines at the ticket windows. The 25,000-seat Sicks' Seattle Stadium has a been scaled to bring in $400,000 at $20-$15-$10. With about $200,000 in the till now and the "cheap seats" not going on sale until Thursday, prospects are good for a near-sellout.
Weather Excellent
The weather has been excellent all week and promoter Jack Hurley expressed no worry over the possibility of rain on fight night. "The people up here are used to rain, anyway," he said. "A little of it never hurt anybody."
But just in case of a downpour he has set Friday night as the postponement date.

Vets' 3-Run Rally In 7th Brings Win In Twi Playoff

A three-run rally in the top of the seventh inning gave the Vet All-Stars a close 4-3 victory over City Drive in Market in the second-half championship game of the Twilight League.
The win for Vet All-Stars marks the first time in five attempts this season that they have been able to defeat the City Drive In.
Each club scored a single run in the third inning, but City Drive in added single runs in the fourth and sixth innings to take a 3-1 lead.
In the top of the seventh for the Vets, the City Drive in pitcher, Don Hess, had a wild streak and walked three batters before giving up a line double by Bill Bates to give the All-Stars a 4-3 lead.
In the bottom of the seventh, the best City Drive in could do was to put two runners on, but winning pitcher Frank Sobczak bore down and got the final two batters of the game to give the Vets the close win.
The Vets will now meet the Christian Church in church's first game of the Twilight League tournament Thursday night, while City Drive In will go against Mark's in a Friday game.
Bates with 3-4 was the top Vet batter of the game followed by Bill Brickey with 2-4 and Sobczak with 1-2. Chick Monnier with 2-3, including a triple, was the top City Drive in batter.

Engineers Survey Ebbets Field

BROOKLYN — City engineers have been quietly surveying Ebbets Field and the surrounding area for the past two weeks, an official of the Brooklyn Dodgers revealed today.
"It's possible that the city will offer to renovate the ball park and provide the parking facilities we have been lacking," said the official, who asked not to be named.
Brooklyn President Walter O'Malley has said that the main reasons he is contemplating switching his club to Los Angeles are: 1. Inadequate parking. 2. Antiquated ball park. O'Malley already has sold Ebbets Field, but he still has a year

New Umpqua Boating Rules In Effect On Upper River

New boat regulations for waters of the North Umpqua River which were adopted recently by the Oregon Game Commission became effective Tuesday.
The new rules will open up to boat angling all of the North Umpqua above Soda Springs Dam, with certain exceptions.
In effect the new rules will open up reservoirs on the North Umpqua, of which the major ones are Soda Springs, Toketee and Lemolo. Little or no boating will be done on the river proper since the water is too fast and turbulent.
In the past the North Umpqua has been closed to boat angling above Winchester Dam through legislative act. During ensuing years the impoundments were constructed and were effected by the legislative closure. As a result the fisheries in the impoundments could not be fully utilized by sportsmen.
At the request of the Game Commission, the Legislature during its last session repealed this act to permit the Game Commission to establish new rules on the reservoirs.
The new boating rules for the North Umpqua call for a complete boating closure between Winchester Dam and Soda Springs Dam. This closure is to protect spawning and brood areas of salmon and steelhead located between these two points.
Boatmen will have complete access to Soda Springs reservoir, but the upper arms of Lemolo and Toketee will be closed except to bank anglers. An excellent bank angling area has been developed in the upper arms which might be destroyed if boatmen were allowed in these clear, shallow areas. Other reservoirs will have no closures.
The closure on Toketee is 600 yards below the head of the reservoir. At Lemolo the closure is 1,200 yards below the head of the arm in the North Umpqua channel and 625 yards below the head of the arm in the Lake Creek channel. Markers established by the Game Commission designate these lines.

The Northwest League's blue-plate special series of the year opens at Eugene Wednesday night with the second-place Emeralds and the front-running Wenatchee Chiefs tangling in the first game of a set that could decide the pennant.
The Emeralds, who climbed to within four games of the Chiefs Tuesday night, will be going for broke in the series opening Wednesday night. They won the first half of the split season and can take all the marbles without a scuffle by winning the second half.
The season ends Sept. 2. If Eugene wins the second half, it's all over. If Wenatchee or another team wins the second half the Emeralds will have to take their chances for the pennant in a playoff.
The Emeralds clobbered Salem's Senators 17-1 Tuesday night while Yakima was hanging a 7-0 whitewash job on the Chiefs. Lewiston's Broncs drubbed the Tri-City Braves twice, 7-4 and 7-3.

Dempsey Has Doubts About Thursday Fight

FOND DU LAC, Wis. — Jack Dempsey, obviously not afraid of a fight at the age of 62, said Tuesday night he doesn't think the Pete Rademacher-Floyd Patterson heavyweight title bout should have been scheduled.
Giving the champion the edge Dempsey said, "Somebody should get knocked out in the first round."

Camas Valley Sets Grid Drills Soon

Camas Valley football practice is scheduled to open Thursday, Aug. 29, with new coach Bert Irwin handling the coaching chores in place of Bud Parsons, who resigned his position at the end of last season.
The first game for Camas Valley will be Sept. 20, when the Hornets will be host to West Fir in an afternoon contest.
Irwin has been a teacher in the seventh and eighth grades for the past two years at Camas Valley and will continue to hold down the same job this season in addition to his coaching chores.

Rademacher, Patterson Point System Revealed

SEATTLE — Judging for the Floyd Patterson-Pete Rademacher heavyweight championship fight will be on the 10-point-must system.
Under it, the winner of each round receives 10 points and the loser nine or less depending upon his showing.
Referee Tommy Loughran, former light-heavyweight titlist and the sole official Thursday night, said the victim of a knockdown would collect just five points.
He said he would not stop the bouts because of cuts. Tommy received severe lacerations during his career but still won bouts.
