

Individual Home Builders To Remain Lumber Industry Backbone, Producers Told

PORTLAND — Individual home builders will remain the backbone of the lumber industry, A. B. Hood, president of the Western Pine Assn., said here Friday. "We must show them and their families that the home and not the gadgets is the foundation for a sound American way of life," he said in his message to the semi-annual meeting.

Hood said the industry now is going through a period of readjustment since large tract home building has ended. While lower FHA down payments for homes probably will improve building conditions it "certainly will bring no boom to the lumber industry," Hood, an Anderson, Calif., lumber company manager, said.

Doesn't Expect Wage Demands
Hood said he does not expect organized labor to push for general wage increases despite some local-area demands. "The unions recognize our problems and are generally working with us," he said.

W. E. Griffie, Portland, assistant secretary-manager of the association, forecast "some improvement by next spring" in housing starts. "Few in the lumber industry expect a worthwhile upturn before then," he said, "but it seems to me we are going through the worst of the slump right now."

Officials of the association agreed there is need for new methods of advertising, new markets, new products and improvement of old ones.

C. A. Gillett, managing director of the American Forest Products Industries, Inc., told the association members 1957 "was the roughest year since 1946" for many Western pine region operators.

"We really need mortgage money available with low down payments," Gillett, of Washington, D. C., said. "Many potential home owners simply won't do what it takes to save the down payment for conventional financing. The automobile, appliance or some other salesman gets it first."

Attending the meeting are more than 300 lumbermen from 12 western states.

By MRS. BRITAIN SLACK

A reception for teachers of Non-pariel, Sutherlin High School and East Sutherlin Elementary School will be held Sept. 16, 8 p.m., in the multipurpose room of the West Elementary School.

All parents are invited to come and meet the teachers. Also planned for September is a membership drive which will result in additional contact between Sutherlin's homes and schools. This will increase the effectiveness of the PTA organization in behalf of the young people of the area.

Plywood Stocks Twice Unfilled Orders File

PORTLAND — The unfilled order file for the Douglas fir industry totals half a billion board feet. Stocks on hand at the end of August to fill those orders were twice that, the West Coast Lumbermen's Assn. reports.

At the same time two years ago the spread between orders and inventory was less than 100 million feet. Last year it was 368 million.

Weekly orders in August averaged 146,270,000 board feet, down somewhat from July. August production, however, averaged 160,034,000 feet, compared with 134,843,000 the previous month.

For the first eight months of this year, production and orders were each down 500 million feet, the association said.

Negro Student Tells Why She Quit High School

CHARLOTTE, N. C. — "I got tense when I walked in the corridors because then I was all alone and I never knew what they were going to do."

"They never came in front of me. They always stood in back. If I turned around, there were 20 or 30 of them. How could I say which one did something?"

That, in a few sentences, is why Dorothy Counts, 15-year-old negro, says she isn't going back to all-white Harding High School.

Her father, the Rev. H. L. Counts, an instructor in religion at Johnson C. Smith University here, made the withdrawal announcement last night.

"It is with compassion for our native land and love for our daughter that we withdraw her as a student at Harding High School," he said.

"As long as we felt that she could be protected from bodily injury and insults within the school walls and upon the school premises, we were willing to grant her desire to study at Harding."

"Contrary to this optimistic view, her experiences at school Wednesday disillusioned our faith and left us no alternative."

Dorothy started classes last week at previously all-white Harding, with 1,160 white students.

Northern Lights Seen In Northern California

SAN FRANCISCO — Northern lights — aurora borealis — spread across California skies early Friday and generated excitement among spectators, many of whom had never seen the phenomenon before.

Such lights appear on the West Coast infrequently.

The Weather Bureau here said it had received reports of the shimmering light curtains from all the way to the east coast, from out in the Pacific Ocean half way to Hawaii and from as far south as Paso Robles, almost 200 miles south of here.
