Hippopotamus Arrives At Zoo

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A brand new hippopotamus arrived at Swope Park Zoo Friday. The long awaited event came around 4 a.m. when Cleo II gave birth unassisted. Estimated weight of the offspring: 50 to 60 pounds.

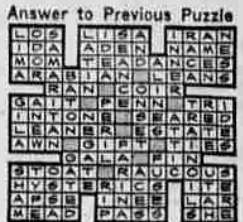

Father hippo—Mark Anthony—slept in an adjoining cage. Boy or girl?—attendants were unable to say. They planned to wait a while before trying to examine the new arrival. The birth ended the most spectacular pregnancy in these parts in a long time. Unusually large crowds visited the hippo wallow after Cleo's interesting condition became known.
