Sputnik Stays On Schedule

WASHINGTON — Sputnik stayed right on schedule Thursday completely oblivious to dire predictions by earthbound experts of changing orbits, weakening signals and possibly a sudden fiery death.

Scientists at the Naval Research Laboratory here said the Russian satellite was still holding to its original orbit and speed which carries it around the world every 96.1 minutes.

The laboratory's tracking station at Blossom Point, Md., reported that it intercepted strong and clear radio signals from Sputnik starting at 6:49 a.m. EST and lasting until 7:01.

The tracking station said Sputnik's radio signal was the same as Wednesday, strong in the 40 megacycle band and more of a steady signal instead of the original "beep...beep...beep...beep."

All of Thursday's crossings of the United States were in a southeasterly direction. Sputnik will turn Thursday night and make several passes over the country in a northeasterly direction.

21 Crewman Saved From Stricken Ship

HONOLULU — Twenty-two of the 45 crewmen of the stricken tanker Mission San Miguel were safely transferred to a Navy LST which was maneuvered into position to take on the rest, the rescue craft radioed early today.

Rising waves smashed into the reef that wrecked the Mission San Miguel. Its engine room was flooded, the LST messaged.

The tanker went aground Tuesday night on Moro Reef, a wave-swept area of rock and shoals some 12 miles long and 5 miles wide. The reef is 745 miles north-west of Honolulu.

Materials-For-Mayhem Business Closed Down

SPOKANE — Sheriff's officers said Wednesday they have closed down the business enterprise of an 11-year-old boy in the Spokane Valley.

They said the youngster was turning out two makeshift products for sale to friends, complete with a price list and instructions on how to use them:

1. Blackjacks made from pieces of rubber hose and bits of lead, price 50 cents each.
2. Metal knuckles made from lengths of dog chain, suitable for "slashing and choking," price $1 each.

School Evaluators Receive Report Of Subcommittee

The preliminary report of the curriculum committee was received and a general discussion followed its acceptance at the regular meeting of the Roseburg School Evaluation Steering Committee Wednesday night.

Those present agreed that due to the length of the report it would be advisable for each member of the committee to study the report over the weekend, and if time is available next Wednesday, to have a more complete discussion at that time.

The final report of the cost and accounting subcommittee is due to be heard next week, and Chairman Harold E. Schmeier stated that this would be the fourth subcommittee to complete its report.

However, it stressed the fact that there are 12 committees in all and if the work of the evaluation committee is to be brought to a successful conclusion in the next 60 days, it is necessary for the other committees to complete their reports.

Fingerprint Rule Lifted For Most U. S. Visitors

WASHINGTON — The Eisenhower administration ordered an end to fingerprinting for virtually all visitors to the United States Thursday. A few exceptions were made.

The new rules are expected to become effective next weekend.

Under them, visitors could come here from the Soviet Union, which has complained for years against the fingerprinting requirement, without being fingerprinted.

Furthermore, if the government decided as a matter of policy to let them come, newsmen from Red China, Olympic athletes and the like would come within the waiver.

Car Crashes Into Airport Window Injuring Women

PORTLAND — Two women suffered minor injuries Wednesday when a car in which they were riding smashed into a big window at the Portland International Airport Wednesday.

The impact sprayed the glass on several persons in the United Airlines terminal. None was hurt seriously.

According to police, Mrs. Herbert McDowell, Portland, apparently stepped on the accelerator by accident when she slid across the seat to admit her husband, just home from a plane trip. The vehicle crashed into the window after lunging across a sidewalk.

Mrs. McDowell and a friend in the automobile were injured.

WIN CONTRACTS

KLAMATH FALLS — Eugene and Midland men Wednesday received contracts for road projects on the Klamath Indian Reservation.

F. H. McEwen of Eugene received a $109,600 contract that calls for construction of a bridge and surfacing of two miles of road.

A $272,335 contract went to Barney Hooper, Midland, for grading and basing 17 miles of road.

Pleven Abandons Crisis Of Cabinet

PARIS — President Rene Coty today resumed his search for a new French premier after Rene Pleven abandoned his attempt to end the 10-day Cabinet crisis by forming a government.

Sources close to the President said Coty had no likely candidate in mind to head France's 24th postwar government.

The political crisis provoked by the parliamentary defeat of Premier Maurice Bourges-Maunoury deepened with failure of Coty's second choice to win enough support in the National Assembly.

The President's first nominee, Socialist Guy Mollet, refused even to try to form a Cabinet.

Pleven, a member of the Small Democratic and Socialist Union of Resistance, gave up last night after 36 hours. He said he quit because the Radical Socialists, of Bourges-Maunoury, who is serving as caretaker premier, refused to back his program.

Pleven had demanded that all parties except the Communists and the extreme-right Poujadists join his Cabinet and unit in a one-year political truce.

Grant Of $3,000 Made By State

A child guidance clinic has been established in Douglas County to help emotionally disturbed children, according to Dr. Mary Soules, Douglas County health officer.

The clinic was started at the suggestion of a citizens' committee and advisory group to the health department on mental health problems. Marlen Yoder, Glendale, is chairman of this committee.

Grant Made
A grant of $3,000 was made to Douglas County from state mental health funds to carry out the project.

The clinic will be administered by the health department and will be conducted by Dr. Harry Danielson, a child psychiatrist from the Oregon State Board of Health. Two psychologists, Dr. Lewis Aumack and Dr. Harold Dyckman, and two psychiatric social workers, Walter Barker and George Posse, from the Veterans Administration Hospital will contribute their help to the clinic.

The clinic will be held once a month at the public health office in the Douglas County Courthouse, with Dr. Danielson in charge. The first clinic will be Oct. 15. Psychological testing and other special psychiatric interviewing will be carried on each Saturday morning. It began last Saturday.

Will Be Referred

Children needing help may be referred by their private physician, the health department, schools, parents or any agency interested in the child. Public health nurses will work closely with parents on each referral.

"We hope that this clinic will fulfill a need that has been felt in Douglas County for a long time," says Dr. Soules.

Funeral For Glendale Logging Victim Saturday
