

Glendale Residents Escape Serious Injury In Accident

By MRS. GERALD FOX
Mr. and Mrs. Dean Smith of Glendale escaped with minor bruises from an accident which completely wrecked their new car Thursday evening.

The two were driving north on Highway 99 at about 7:30 p.m. when they went into a skid on the bridge just above the Pleasant Valley-Merlin cut-off road. The car spun into the opposite lane of traffic, striking the front of a south-bound car. The other car received considerable damage, but the Smith vehicle, with only 19 miles on the speedometer, was a total loss. However, insurance will cover its replacement.

Mrs. Smith received several severe bruises. Her husband was not seriously hurt.

Forced-Down Flier Tells How Ice Coated His Plane

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP)—Texas flier William Wyatt told his employer by phone Saturday he made a dead stick landing after the engine of his small plane quit near the coast of Spain.

Wyatt received only minor bruises, he told Hal Rachel, whose firm made the Mooney Mark 20 plane at Kerrville, Tex.

Wyatt said his plane began picking up ice over the coast of Spain. He climbed to 10,000 feet but the icing worsened and he began losing altitude. He put on arctic gear and prepared to ditch. He spotted the fishing boat and was circling it when his engine quit.

After landing he stood on a wing but the wake of the boat knocked him into the water. He was picked up in about 15 minutes.

The boat hooked onto the plane and towed it into Coruna where it was beached. He said the plane appeared to have only minor damage.

Explosion Of Artillery Shells Routs Residents
PIEDMONT, Ala. (AP)—Scores of artillery shells in a burning freight car exploded at intervals during the early morning hours here Monday with more noise than damage.

No injuries were reported, but around 200 residents were evacuated from their homes as a safety measure.

Sixty tons of 105 millimeter shells were in the car, which caught fire as a Seaboard Airlane freight eastbound from Birmingham pulled into Piedmont, about half way between Birmingham and Atlanta.

Trainmen discovered the blaze quickly and risked their lives to detach the car from the other two ammunition-carrying cars next to it.

Shells began exploding as the blaze progressed.

Ants From Japan May Join Food Items In U. S.

TOKYO (AP)—Chocolate-coated ants may be catching on as a delicacy in the United States, but there's no market for them in Japan.

The "ant king" of Japan admits it.

He's Taichi Ishikawa, head of the Alps Provision Co., ant exporters.

The chocolate-coated insects are appearing in U. S. stores that stock such articles as rattlesnake meat and roasted bumblebees.

Ishikawa says he thought it was pretty silly when he got the first inquiry about chocolate ants; up to then his market was largely in plain fried ants.

"We've managed to make them taste good," he says. "Americans like them."

The processing is done in Ishikawa's jam factory. The ants are fried first, then coated.

The ants come from highlands around Nagano where they have plagued residents for years.

Spokane Gas Line Repairs Progress

SPOKANE (AP)—Spokane Natural Gas Co. employees continued their round-the-clock work Monday to get service restored to some 10,000 families without fuel for heat or cooking since Friday.

Service was disrupted Friday when a 16-inch feeder line exploded near Edwall, 30 miles west of here. The company turned off all outlets to eliminate any danger of further explosions.

The cause of the initial explosion, which ruptured the feeder line under Rock Creek, has not been determined.

With the feeder line repaired, company servicemen have been working to get gas into each outlet in some 10,000 homes and relighting individual pilot lights for each gas fixture.

Nathan H. Gellert Jr., president of Spokane Natural, said the company expected to have service restored to all of the 10,000 homes by late Monday night. He said the outage has cost the firm $13,500 a day in lost revenue and extra labor costs.
