300,000 U. S. Seniors To Take National Test

EVANSTON, Ill. — The most intensive talent hunt in our nation's history starts Tuesday with the testing of 300,000 senior students in 14,000 high schools. The examination, called the "Scholarship Qualifying Test," is the first hurdle in the 1958 National Merit Scholarship Program. More than 4 million dollars in merit scholarships, including those granted by some 70 business and industrial companies, will be at stake.

Scholarship Tests Starting Tuesday

The qualifying rounds for the National Merit Scholarship test are scheduled Tuesday at Roseburg High for all those wishing to participate. At an earlier registration date, 50 Roseburg High seniors had signed up to take the test. The testing starts at 8:40 a.m. in the school library. Based on scholastics, the top 13 seniors will be given the test free. All other seniors will pay a dollar for the right to take the test. Roseburg is only one of schools all over the nation which participate in the testing program, and the stakes are high. Students receiving scholarships have their choice of United States colleges. Their scholarships range from $100 to $2,200 a year. This is the third year, the scholarship tests have been given.
