

Country Doctor Becomes New Governor Of Haiti

By LARRY ALLEN
PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti (AP)—Francois Duvalier, 48-year-old country doctor, became Haiti's 34th president in simple inauguration ceremonies Tuesday. He called for an end to political feuding which has torn this island republic since last December.

Duvalier himself rejected the pomp that goes with presidential inaugurations because of the nation's economic straits.

After the ceremonies before the Haitian Congress, Duvalier was cheered by thousands of Haitians for 10 minutes. Twenty-one guns boomed a salute.

Duvalier said he would form a "national union" cabinet tomorrow. It faces serious economic and financial problems created by a long series of general strikes and bitter political feuding.

Problems Listed
The main problems are:
1. The national treasury is virtually bankrupt, the nation's economy wrecked. The government's domestic and foreign debts total about 122 million dollars, a sizable sum for four million poverty-stricken people.

Judge Claims Slip Of Tongue

MAEBASHI, Japan (AP)—The presiding Japanese judge said he made a slip of the tongue Tuesday at U. S. soldier William S. Girard's manslaughter trial.

Judge Yuji Kawachi said the slip came when he told Girard, who is accused of shooting a Japanese woman, scrap collector: "The court does not feel that you fired this shot with intent to hit anyone."

The statement seemed a gain for the defense. But Kawachi told newsmen later:

"I did not mean to suggest a possible verdict by my statement. I only wanted to remove Girard's nervousness and fear and to suggest to him that the court has not yet decided what the charges and verdict should be."

Girard, testifying in his own defense, said it was right for the court to assume that his story of the shooting was that it was negligence or an accident.

Motorcycle Patrolman Causes Pedestrian Death

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—While chasing a speeder, a motorcycle patrolman hit a pedestrian Monday night, knocking him under the wheels of an oncoming car. Both the car driver and the speeder got away.

Henry Yee, 60, died two hours later.

Patrolman Edward Poltz abandoned the chase for the speeder after his cycle hit Yee. The car that ran over Yee did not stop.

YOUR Independent AGENT
"SERVES YOU FIRST"

Remember this SYMBOL

Displayed only by Professionally Trained Independent Insurance Agents

Only an independent insurance agent is free to choose, from a number of companies, the policy best suited to your individual needs.

Because your independent agent is not the employee of any insurance company, he will represent your interests in the event of a claim or loss. Alert to the new developments in the fast-changing insurance industry and directly aware of local conditions, your independent agent—

Serves You and Serves You Best

The official emblem of the 96,000 members of National Association of Insurance Agents

Douglas County Association Of Insurance Agents

- | | |
|--|---|
| ROSEBURG
Ken Bailey Insurance Agency
Roy O. Young & Son
Umpqua Insurance Agency
Dwayne Buell Agency
Rolf's Insurance Agency
Emery-Poley Agency
Tipton Insurance Agency
Quinn and Company
Commercial Insurance Agency | Ralph L. Russell
Roseburg Realty & Insurance
Thompson Insurance Agency

OAKLAND
Harry Smith Insurance

SUTHERLIN
Petherick Insurance Agency

MYRTLE CREEK
Jones & Dyer Insurance |
|--|---|

Langley Admits Paying Maloney As An Informer

PORTLAND (AP)—Thomas E. Maloney was paid $1,200 a month as an undercover vice investigator here in 1955, former Dist. Atty. William M. Langley said Monday.

The statement came as the defense in Maloney's bribe conspiracy trial presented evidence to buttress its theory that Maloney and Langley were framed by gamblers who feared Langley was closing in on them.

Langley said he paid Maloney in a series of 14 checks as Maloney tipped him on where gambling, bootlegging and other illegal operations were conducted. The checks were placed in evidence.

Langley said he used Maloney's information to demand action from Police Chief James Purcell Jr.

Langley, who was removed from office last spring after being indicted of failure to prosecute gamblers, said gambler Jim Elkins once came to the Langley house, carrying some of the letters Langley had written Purcell. He said Elkins complained about the letters.

The former district attorney was on the stand all day. Maloney is accused of conspiring with Langley and Joseph McLaughlin of Seattle to accept bribes from gamblers. The trial is in its third week.

Spokane Area Hit By Blizzard

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A surprise snow storm that reached blizzard proportions at Spokane swept across parts of the Pacific Northwest Tuesday, as temperatures dropped far below freezing.

The snow came down with an Arctic cold front and the Weather Bureau said the storm can be expected to last most of the day and perhaps into the night with some clearing Wednesday.

Temperatures at low as 20 degrees were forecast for Tuesday night.

At Spokane, 25 cars were reported stalled in a traffic jam on the Grand Boulevard hill in the early-morning rush to work. Highways leading out of the city were covered by snow and reported very slippery.

Visibility in downtown Spokane was cut to two blocks by 8:30 a. m. as the snowfall increased and looked like a mid-winter blizzard.

High winds brought snow drifts up to three feet at Sandpoint, Idaho and at Kalispell, Mont. gusts of 60 miles an hour whipped up the snow.

There was snow at Coeur d'Alene, Idaho and Omak, Wash. and it was expected to spread to other inland cities as the day wore on.

The Weather Bureau said Tuesday night there will be snow showers throughout Eastern Oregon and in the mountain areas of the western part of the state.

Rain is expected at the lower elevations of Western Oregon, the bureau said.

The snow showers will be short-lived, the bureau said, extending only until Wednesday morning.

But the bureau warned that colder weather will accompany Wednesday's clearing skies.

Lows ranging from 25 to 35 will cover Eastern Oregon Tuesday night. In the western part of the state the mercury is expected to range from 32 to 42.

Daytime temperatures Wednesday also will be low—32 to 42 east of the mountains and 40 to 50 in the west.

The bureau said the cold air mass may be dispelled by a Pacific storm front, which is expected to reach the Oregon coast Thursday.

The season's first snow storm brought falls up to six inches and wintry temperatures to western Montana, but moderated some as it rolled into the Northern and Central Plains Tuesday.

The Weather Bureau issued warnings of four to eight inches of snow by Tuesday night and 20 to 30 degree temperatures in western and central Montana, Wyoming and northwestern Nebraska.

Light Rifle Fired
A 22-caliber rifle is supposed to have been used to frighten Lewis away from Chase. The weapon, investigators had been told, had been fired out the door of the railroad car.

Johnson admitted owning a rifle which he said was kept in his locker. He denied loading it and said he had not given it to Watkins. He said he didn't know if anyone else had taken the rifle from the locker.

Lewis was represented in the proceeding by Donald Kelley, Bert Burgoyne, deputy district attorney, represented the state.

18 Americans Injured In Saigon Bombings

(Continued from page one)
or burned. Grenades were thrown at the houses of Embassy families.

These attacks were blamed on Communists or Communist sympathizers and those opposed to the U.S.-recognized government of President Diem.

On July 20, 1955, Mrs. Perle Mesta, the former U.S. ambassador to Luxembourg, was trapped in a room in Saigon when a rioting mob sacked two hotels housing foreigners.

Mrs. Mesta talked her way out of a tense situation after convincing the rioters she was an American. That riot developed out of an anti-Communist student demonstration. But 28 Americans, including officers of the U.S. military aid mission to Indochina, lost all their possessions.

Boy Freezes To Death In His Father's Arms

GLENWOOD SPRINGS, Colo. (AP)—A father-and-son hunting trip ended in tragedy in the mountains near here early yesterday when an 8-year-old boy froze to death in his father's arms.

Coroner Jack Farnum said the boy, Richard Leroy Scott, died of exposure. The temperature in the area was "about the middle 20s and froze water," Farnum said.

The father, Junior Scott, told Farnum he held his son against his own body in an effort to keep him warm while they were stranded Sunday night in the rain-swept rimrocks. The child, Scott said, lapsed into unconsciousness and ceased breathing sometime before daylight.

TO HAVE JUDGMENT

The Chapel of the Roses
ROSEBURG FUNERAL HOME
FUNERALS Phone ORchard 3-4455
Oak and Kane St. Roseburg, Oregon
Adequate Free Parking

Sutherlin Man Dies In Roseburg Sunday

Noble (Pete) Carter of Sutherlin died in a Roseburg hospital late Sunday evening. He suffered a heart attack while at work for Martin Bros. Container and Timber Products Corp. at Oakland early Saturday morning. He was born May 4, 1897, and had lived in Douglas County all his life.

He was a veteran of World War I and married Mary L. Damewood Sept. 7, 1918, at Tacoma, Wash., during his war service. He was a past commander of the American Legion of Drain, Ore. and currently a member of the Oakland Vet. He was also a member of the Veterans of World War I of Roseburg, and was active in Boy Scout work.

He was a rancher near Drain for many years, having filed on a homestead near Gunter in 1932. He came to Sutherlin in 1946 and had been employed by Martin Bros. since that time.

He is survived by his wife, three sons, Merle Carter, Idevid Park, Morse Carter, in the U.S. Air Force, and Milo Carter of Sutherlin; five daughters, Marie Davis, Mary Lou Sellers, Marion R. Carter and Edna Mae Heldrick, all of Roseburg; and Marjorie Rusk of Niles, Ill.; two brothers, George of Redding, Calif., and Royal of Eugene; three sisters, Beulah Spacht of Empire, Ill. Quirk of Redmond, and Jennie Cinnamon of Napa, Calif., and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at 11 a.m. at the Neighborhood Church of Christ in Sutherlin with the Rev. Lloyd Whitford officiating. Burial will follow at the Masonic Cemetery at Canyonville. Stearns & Little Mortuary of Oakland is in charge.

Killing Bald Eagle Charged To Rancher

(Continued from page one)
federal action Monday after local ranchers accompanied the couple to Geddes' law office. She said she hopes to have at least 50 signatures before next week.

Mrs. Bell said, "I just don't see how they can try a man for protecting his bread and butter."

Geddes agreed.

"One of the issues involved, of course, is whether a man has a right to protect his property regardless of federal law," he said.

Eagle Slain In March
Bell said the incident occurred last March and he does not know why government officials waited as long as they did to take action.

Describing the incident, Bell said:

"The sun had just come up over the mountains when we spotted the eagle attacking one of my lambs. The eagle caught the lamb and dropped it three times before it settled down and started eating."

"My father, L. L. Bell, was a witness to the whole thing. He was watching through field glasses from the house."

"As I approached, I saw the ewe circling around the eagle and the dead lamb. I kept out of sight by the clearing around the eagle and the lamb and shot the eagle with a scope-sighted rifle from 200 yards away."

Drain Man's Funeral Services Held Today
Dennis David Bodie, a long-time resident of Drain, died at his home last Thursday. He was 73.

Bodie moved to Drain in 1901. He was born June 15, 1884, at Pennfield, Penn. He was engaged in the lumber industry until his retirement several years ago. He had been Tyler of Sunset Lodge No. 144, AF and AM, Drain, for many years.

Surviving are a brother, Jonas Bodie, Port Orchard, Wash., and several nieces and nephews.

Funeral services were held today, at Drain Methodist Church. Officiating was the Rev. E. C. Echlin. Interment will follow at Drain Cemetery. Masonic ritualistic services will be conducted by the lodge. In charge of funeral arrangements is Mills Funeral Service, Drain.

Transportation, Growth Of Industries Talked

(Continued From Page One)
concluded that "by and large, the problem we have in this area is rail—getting our goods out of here."

Area At "Tail-End"
But then he offered that "the railroad which serves the area locally, Southern Pacific, cannot afford to serve this any better than economically feasible." He said the situation of the Southwestern Oregon area, on "the tail-end of a branch line" of the Southern Pacific's main line, "a barrier."

He said that the history of industry has been to locate where transportation is best, and the tendency of industry has been "not to locate south of Eugene in the state."

Because of the local area's geographical situation, Walton concluded that "the likelihood of establishing industry prior to the time that this railroad situation is corrected, is practically none."

He did point to the "need for a good route to the sea...to get Coos Bay to be an open port." To this end, Walton continued, "it is to the interest of all Southern Oregon to get that, and add to our transportation, to use to the fullest extent either Coos Bay or some other port at the sea."

Douglas County Sailors Complete Boot Training

Three Douglas County sailors graduated recently from recruit training at the U. S. Naval Training Center, San Diego.

They are Charles L. Thompson, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Thompson, Riddle; Gary G. Whelchel, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Whelchel, 2152 W. Foothill Dr., Roseburg; and David L. Colby, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Colby, 439 W. Agee St., Roseburg.

BIRTHS

Forest Glen Hospital
MADDUX — To Mr. and Mrs. Walter Maddux, Myrtle Creek, Oct. 19, a daughter, Catherine Marie; weight 6 pounds 14 ounces.

Syrians Reject Mediation Offer Of Saudi Arabia

By WILTON WYNN
CAIRO (AP)—Reliable informants said Tuesday Syrian President Shukri Kuwally accepted the Saudi offer of mediation in the Syrian-Turkish dispute but his government apparently vetoed the idea.

The informants said Mecca Radio broadcast Monday night the text of a Kuwally cable to King Saud accepting the Saudi mediation.

The Syrian government has emphatically denied acceptance of the mediation offer. The Syrian government line is that the Saudis are already lined up with Syria and so cannot act as go-between.

Informants here speculated that pro-Soviet elements in the Syrian government rejected Saudi mediation in favor of pursuing the question in the United Nations to make maximum propaganda capital.

They apparently hope to blacken Turkey's name completely and present any future rapprochement between Turkey and the Arab states.

If Saudi mediated it would make Turkey too respectable in Arab eyes to suit pro-Soviet Syrian leaders.

Funeral Arrangements Made For Mrs. Arciaga

The remains of apparent suicide victim, Mrs. Mary Jane Arciaga, will be cremated in Eugene Wednesday and interred in Gardena, Calif.

Mrs. Arciaga, who was born Jan. 27, 1913, in Neenah, Wis., apparently took an overdose of sleeping pills Friday while awaiting prosecution in Roseburg on a bad check charge.

She and her husband, Trini, resided at 2485 NE Diamond Lake Blvd.

Mrs. Arciaga's remains will be interred in the home town of a brother, John Nickel.

Surviving, besides Nickel and Mrs. Arciaga's husband, are a daughter, Mrs. Judith Martin, San Gabriel, Calif.; her mother, Mrs. Glen Shively, Peru, Ind.; and her father, Edwin J. Nickel, Santa Ana, Calif.

Teamster Attorney Accuses McClellan In Hoffa Case

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—A Teamsters attorney charged Tuesday in federal court that Senate Racke Committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) and counsel Robert F. Kennedy wanted James R. Hoffa kept from the union presidency "at all costs."

Martin O'Donoghue, the union's lawyer, said plaintiffs in a suit challenging Hoffa's recent election were relying on an interpretation of the union's constitution reached by McClellan and the racketeers' committee chief counsel.

"This construction is a product of Sen. McClellan and Robert F. Kennedy," O'Donoghue told Federal Judge F. Dickinson Lettis.

Lettis has issued a temporary restraining order against Hoffa taking office. He is hearing arguments on whether to extend the ban as an injunction.

The suit was brought by a 13-man rank-and-file New York Teamsters member group, represented by Godfrey P. Schmidt. They say the entire Teamsters convention procedure was void because delegates were seated illegally.

The Teamsters attorney said he was in no way trying to defend Hoffa or retiring union president Lettis from scandals charges against them because this has no part in the present case challenging legality of Hoffa's election and the convention proceedings.

Teamster Attorney Accuses McClellan In Hoffa Case

(Continued From Page One)
concluded that "by and large, the problem we have in this area is rail—getting our goods out of here."

Area At "Tail-End"
But then he offered that "the railroad which serves the area locally, Southern Pacific, cannot afford to serve this any better than economically feasible." He said the situation of the Southwestern Oregon area, on "the tail-end of a branch line" of the Southern Pacific's main line, "a barrier."

He said that the history of industry has been to locate where transportation is best, and the tendency of industry has been "not to locate south of Eugene in the state."

Because of the local area's geographical situation, Walton concluded that "the likelihood of establishing industry prior to the time that this railroad situation is corrected, is practically none."

He did point to the "need for a good route to the sea...to get Coos Bay to be an open port." To this end, Walton continued, "it is to the interest of all Southern Oregon to get that, and add to our transportation, to use to the fullest extent either Coos Bay or some other port at the sea."

Teamster Attorney Accuses McClellan In Hoffa Case

(Continued From Page One)
concluded that "by and large, the problem we have in this area is rail—getting our goods out of here."

Area At "Tail-End"
But then he offered that "the railroad which serves the area locally, Southern Pacific, cannot afford to serve this any better than economically feasible." He said the situation of the Southwestern Oregon area, on "the tail-end of a branch line" of the Southern Pacific's main line, "a barrier."

He said that the history of industry has been to locate where transportation is best, and the tendency of industry has been "not to locate south of Eugene in the state."

Because of the local area's geographical situation, Walton concluded that "the likelihood of establishing industry prior to the time that this railroad situation is corrected, is practically none."

He did point to the "need for a good route to the sea...to get Coos Bay to be an open port." To this end, Walton continued, "it is to the interest of all Southern Oregon to get that, and add to our transportation, to use to the fullest extent either Coos Bay or some other port at the sea."

Teamster Attorney Accuses McClellan In Hoffa Case

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON (AP)—A Teamsters attorney charged Tuesday in federal court that Senate Racke Committee Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) and counsel Robert F. Kennedy wanted James R. Hoffa kept from the union presidency "at all costs."

Martin O'Donoghue, the union's lawyer, said plaintiffs in a suit challenging Hoffa's recent election were relying on an interpretation of the union's constitution reached by McClellan and the racketeers' committee chief counsel.

"This construction is a product of Sen. McClellan and Robert F. Kennedy," O'Donoghue told Federal Judge F. Dickinson Lettis.

Lettis has issued a temporary restraining order against Hoffa taking office. He is hearing arguments on whether to extend the ban as an injunction.

The suit was brought by a 13-man rank-and-file New York Teamsters member group, represented by Godfrey P. Schmidt. They say the entire Teamsters convention procedure was void because delegates were seated illegally.

The Teamsters attorney said he was in no way trying to defend Hoffa or retiring union president Lettis from scandals charges against them because this has no part in the present case challenging legality of Hoffa's election and the convention proceedings.

Teamster Attorney Accuses McClellan In Hoffa Case

(Continued From Page One)
concluded that "by and large, the problem we have in this area is rail—getting our goods out of here."

Area At "Tail-End"
But then he offered that "the railroad which serves the area locally, Southern Pacific, cannot afford to serve this any better than economically feasible." He said the situation of the Southwestern Oregon area, on "the tail-end of a branch line" of the Southern Pacific's main line, "a barrier."

He said that the history of industry has been to locate where transportation is best, and the tendency of industry has been "not to locate south of Eugene in the state."

Because of the local area's geographical situation, Walton concluded that "the likelihood of establishing industry prior to the time that this railroad situation is corrected, is practically none."

He did point to the "need for a good route to the sea...to get Coos Bay to be an open port." To this end, Walton continued, "it is to the interest of all Southern Oregon to get that, and add to our transportation, to use to the fullest extent either Coos Bay or some other port at the sea."

Teamster Attorney Accuses McClellan In Hoffa Case

(Continued From Page One)
concluded that "by and large, the problem we have in this area is rail—getting our goods out of here."

Area At "Tail-End"
But then he offered that "the railroad which serves the area locally, Southern Pacific, cannot afford to serve this any better than economically feasible." He said the situation of the Southwestern Oregon area, on "the tail-end of a branch line" of the Southern Pacific's main line, "a barrier."

He said that the history of industry has been to locate where transportation is best, and the tendency of industry has been "not to locate south of Eugene in the state."

Because of the local area's geographical situation, Walton concluded that "the likelihood of establishing industry prior to the time that this railroad situation is corrected, is practically none."

He did point to the "need for a good route to the sea...to get Coos Bay to be an open port." To this end, Walton continued, "it is to the interest of all Southern Oregon to get that, and add to our transportation, to use to the fullest extent either Coos Bay or some other port at the sea."

Teamster Attorney Accuses McClellan In Hoffa Case

(Continued From Page One)
concluded that "by and large, the problem we have in this area is rail—getting our goods out of here."

Area At "Tail-End"
But then he offered that "the railroad which serves the area locally, Southern Pacific, cannot afford to serve this any better than economically feasible." He said the situation of the Southwestern Oregon area, on "the tail-end of a branch line" of the Southern Pacific's main line, "a barrier."

He said that the history of industry has been to locate where transportation is best, and the tendency of industry has been "not to locate south of Eugene in the state."

Because of the local area's geographical situation, Walton concluded that "the likelihood of establishing industry prior to the time that this railroad situation is corrected, is practically none."

He did point to the "need for a good route to the sea...to get Coos Bay to be an open port." To this end, Walton continued, "it is to the interest of all Southern Oregon to get that, and add to our transportation, to use to the fullest extent either Coos Bay or some other port at the sea."

Teamster Attorney Accuses McClellan In Hoffa Case

(Continued From Page One)
concluded that "by and large, the problem we have in this area is rail—getting our goods out of here."

Area At "Tail-End"
But then he offered that "the railroad which serves the area locally, Southern Pacific, cannot afford to serve this any better than economically feasible." He said the situation of the Southwestern Oregon area, on "the tail-end of a branch line" of the Southern Pacific's main line, "a barrier."

He said that the history of industry has been to locate where transportation is best, and the tendency of industry has been "not to locate south of Eugene in the state."

Because of the local area's geographical situation, Walton concluded that "the likelihood of establishing industry prior to the time that this railroad situation is corrected, is practically none."

He did point to the "need for a good route to the sea...to get Coos Bay to be an open port." To this end, Walton continued, "it is to the interest of all Southern Oregon to get that, and add to our transportation, to use to the fullest extent either Coos Bay or some other port at the sea."

Library Convention Set For Roseburg

Roseburg has been chosen by the Oregon Library Assn. for the 1958 two-day convention to be held in the Hotel Umpqua May 9-10, and plans for the convention were made at the Douglas County Library workshop Saturday.

The morning session was held in Yoncalla. Miss Carol Trimble, Douglas County librarian; Miss Muriel Mitchell, assistant librarian; Miss Charlotte Hyre, Mrs. Marie Kort, Mrs. Irene Tisdale and Miss Marion Walcott, from the Douglas County Library staff, conducted the workshop.

The Junior Chamber of Commerce "Operation Library" program and various routine library policies were discussed. Mrs. J. Metz and Mrs. Hugh Warner were hostesses at the morning coffee break, after which Miss Mitchell gave the book talk.

The afternoon meeting took place at the Drain library, following a noon luncheon in Drain. National Book Week, Nov. 17-23, was discussed in addition to plans being made for the state convention here in May.

Attending the meeting besides those from the Douglas County Library staff were branch librarians Mrs. Robert Harris, Glendale;

Library Convention Set For Roseburg

Mrs. LeRoy Morris, Canyonville; Miss Wilma Gore, Myrtle Creek; Mrs. Dean Smith, Sutherlin; Mrs. Evangeline Smiley, Reedsport; Mrs. Hugh Warner, Yoncalla, and Mrs. John Transberg, Drain.

Lone Sea Voyager Found Off N. Carolina Coast

MOREHEAD CITY, N. C. (AP)—A never-say-die adventurer once believed lost in the Atlantic on an outboard motorboat voyage hoped to reach his goal of Bermuda today after being sighted by a merchant ship and given fuel and food.

Melvin West, a radio disc jockey making a 580-mile trip in the 17-foot, 30-horsepower craft was located Monday afternoon by the merchant ship Aldervan 240 miles east of Cape Lookout, N.C. That was 31 hours after his three-day supply of fuel and food was to have run out.

West, father of two children, put out from here Thursday on a projected 40-hour trip intended to prove the seaworthiness of outboard motors and small boats. His wife said she couldn't dissuade him, "so I just shut up."

Lone Sea Voyager Found Off N. Carolina Coast

(Continued from page one)
concluded that "by and large, the problem we have in this area is rail—getting our goods out of here."

Area At "Tail-End"
But then he offered that "the railroad which serves the area locally, Southern Pacific, cannot afford to serve this any better than economically feasible." He said the situation of the Southwestern Oregon area, on "the tail-end of a branch line" of the Southern Pacific's main line, "a barrier."

He said that the history of industry has been to locate where transportation is best, and the tendency of industry has been "not to locate south of Eugene in the state."

Because of the local area's geographical situation, Walton concluded that "the likelihood of establishing industry prior to the time that this railroad situation is corrected, is practically none."

He did point to the "need for a good route to the sea...to get Coos Bay to be an open port." To this end, Walton continued, "it is to the interest of all Southern Oregon to get that, and add to our transportation, to use to the fullest extent either Coos Bay or some other port at the sea."

Lone Sea Voyager Found Off N. Carolina Coast

(Continued from page one)
concluded that "by and large, the problem we have in this area is rail—getting our goods out of here."

Area At "Tail-End"
But then he offered that "the railroad which serves the area locally, Southern Pacific, cannot afford to serve this any better than economically feasible." He said the situation of the Southwestern Oregon area, on "the tail-end of a branch line" of the Southern Pacific's main line, "a barrier."

He said that the history of industry has been to locate where transportation is best, and the tendency of industry has been "not to locate south of Eugene in the state."

Because of the local area's geographical situation, Walton concluded that "the likelihood of establishing industry prior to the time that this railroad situation is corrected, is practically none."

He did point to the "need for a good route to the sea...to get Coos Bay to be an open port." To this end, Walton continued, "it is to the interest of all Southern Oregon to get that, and add to our transportation, to use to the fullest extent either Coos Bay or some other port at the sea."

Lone Sea Voyager Found Off N. Carolina Coast

(Continued from page one)
concluded that "by and large, the problem we have in this area is rail—getting our goods out of here."

Area At "Tail-End"
But then he offered that "the railroad which serves the area locally, Southern Pacific, cannot afford to serve this any better than economically feasible." He said the situation of the Southwestern Oregon area, on "the tail-end of a branch line" of the Southern Pacific's main line, "a barrier."

He said that the history of industry has been to locate where transportation is best, and the tendency of industry has been "not to locate south of Eugene in the state."

Because of the local area's geographical situation, Walton concluded that "the likelihood of establishing industry prior to the time that this railroad situation is corrected, is practically none."

He did point to the "need for a good route to the sea...to get Coos Bay to be an open port." To this end, Walton continued, "it is to the interest of all Southern Oregon to get that, and add to our transportation, to use to the fullest extent either Coos Bay or some other port at the sea."

Scotsman 2-door six-passenger sedan $1795*

Again, Studebaker-Packard beats the field in value with America's lowest-priced full-sized cars!

Studebaker Scotsman for '58

A complete sell-out in 1957... America's lowest-priced full-sized car offers even more to value-conscious car-buyers in '58! For here is new '58 Scotsman styling, operating economy of up to 29 miles per gallon plus the lowest depreciation factor in the industry.

But low initial cost and economy in action provide only part of the answer to why today's Scotsman is America's greatest automobile buy. There's complete comfort for six in its stylishly functional interior, new ease of braking and handling on city streets or highways... plus the extra Studebaker craftsmanship that assures lowest upkeep while you drive—highest value when you sell.

Test the '58 Scotsman today—you'll want to drive it home tonight!

Scotsman 4-door six-passenger sedan $1874*

Scotsman Station Wagon... 93 cubic feet of luggage space in a wagon that saves you hundreds of dollars $2055*

*Halter/Defroster is included, as are directional signals, spare tire and wheel, double wipers, mirror. Pay only local taxes, if any, and transportation from South Bend.

RIVERSIDE MOTORS, 988 N. E. Stephens, Roseburg, Oregon

©1957, Studebaker-Packard Corporation