

Domestic Russian Upheaval Needs U. S. Alert: Dulles

WASHINGTON — Secretary of State Dulles said Tuesday that in a period of domestic Russian upheaval the United States and the rest of the free world must be on the alert for possible foreign moves by the Soviet.

Dulles told a news conference he would not want to give the impression that war is just around the corner. He said he does not really think that is true.

But whenever a great nation has internal troubles, he said, it is historical fact that such troubles sometimes lead to external acts. Under such conditions, Dulles said, the United States is always on the alert for what the Soviet Union might do.

No Special Alert

The present situation—revolving around the mystery of the reasons for Marshal Georgi Zhukov's dismissal as defense minister—has not required any special alert, Dulles said, because all the top people in the U. S. government are aware of the possibilities.

Dulles also made these statements on the current Soviet situation and other international issues:

1. If President Eisenhower is invited to attend the NATO Council meeting in Paris in December he will give the invitation sympathetic consideration.

Sputnik's Radio Dead For 4 Days

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. — The Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said Monday night that satellite Sputnik has not been seen or heard since its radio went dead four days ago.

Only one observation of Sputnik's rocket—by a moonwatch station near Lima, Peru, Monday morning—has been reported since last Friday.

Despite the lack of news of the elusive space travelers, observatory officials said they doubted an Australian report that the satellite may have crashed.

Alaska and Canada—neither of which have organized moonwatch teams in operation—are the only areas in North America where the baby "moons" can now be seen.

The observatory said the rocket, which is circling the earth every 94.87 minutes, will lap the satellite Tuesday over the South Pacific.

Scientists here say the rocket has at least a month of life left and the satellite several weeks beyond that.

TRIAL SCHEDULED

Trial on a charge of drunken driving for Leo Bartlett Shager, 54, of Myrtle Creek, was set for Friday, Nov. 15, at 1:30 p.m. after he entered a plea of innocent in appearing before Municipal Judge Gerry Myllybeck Monday. Shager had posted $250 bail earlier.

Truant Elephant Surrenders Meekly

MITCHELL HOLLOW, N.Y. — Sima, the Catskills elephant, munched today on whiskey-soaked feed while residents of this area relaxed. The unlikely safari was over.

The 2½-ton female, considerably chastened by a cold and hunger, submitted meekly to her captors Monday.

This was not the same girl who had been romping in the Catskill Mountains for 13 days, defying safaris of all sorts, aircraft and her trainers.

Today she was back at the farm she fled Oct. 16. After a week's response "to settle her mind," she again will take up the television and circus life that she had forsaken for a simple pastoral existence.

A posse trailed the tired animal several miles through woods until she finally halted near a quarry. She had been caught and broken away twice during the day.

Trial Delay Granted To Injured Defendant

A trial on a charge of drunken driving for Joel E. Chapman that was scheduled to be held Friday before Myrtle Creek Municipal Judge G. D. Myllybeck has been postponed because of injury to the defendant.

It was learned that Chapman incurred a broken shoulder on an arm in an industrial accident while working for the highway department near Myrtle Creek. Bail of $350 bond has been continued by Myllybeck. A new trial date will be set upon consultation with Chapman's attorney.

SHOPPING BAG STOLEN

Theft of a shopping bag containing seven books was reported to Roseburg police Monday by Molly Wingham, 141 Tully Rd. She said the theft occurred at the Roseburg Woman's Club where she had left the bag outside the kitchen door.

New Chevrolets Will Be Longer, Lower, Wider

DETROIT — The completely new automobiles with which Chevrolet hopes to regain top place in output and sales are longer, lower and wider and emphasize flowing sculptured lines from dual headlamps to flared rear fenders.

Prices are up an average of 4.5 per cent over the 1957 level.

The new cars, topped by a sport coupe and a convertible under the Impala nameplate, go on dealer display Oct. 31. The Impala is in the Bel Air series, with six models.

In the middle range of the low-price car bracket is a Biscayne series, with two sedans. The bottom end of the price spread will have three models comprising the Delray series. These two were known in 1957 as the two-ten and one-fifth series, respectively.

Over-all length of the cars has increased nine inches to 209 inches; wheelbase is up 2½ inches at 117½ inches. Roof lines have been lowered as much as 2½ inches. All have an X-shaped frame.

Republicans Ask 25 Per Cent Tax Reduction

basic school aid to $105. This one would provide some school tax relief.

Both bills might be considered by the House Wednesday where a 36-24 Democratic majority probably will approve them.

Trouble in Senate

But in the evenly-divided Senate, they will run head-on into the Republican demands for an in-respect "to settle her mind," she again will take up the television and circus life that she had forsaken for a simple pastoral existence.

Democrats began to hedge a little on their estimates that the surplus would total 69 million dollars next June 30.

After Gov. Holmes told the joint session Monday that widespread unemployment this winter could prune that surplus, Rep. Clarence Barton (D), Coquille, House taxation chairman, followed suit.

This is part of their answer to the Republican argument that taxes should be cut 50 million dollars instead of about 24 millions, as proposed by the governor and his fellow Democrats.

Following the lead of the House, the Senate voted to give its rules committee power to prevent any legislation from reaching the floor.

Oppose Unprecedented Power

Only five House Republicans and four Senate Democrats opposed this granting of unprecedented powers to the two rules committees. The leadership of both houses proposed powers as a means of achieving the governor's wish that the special session confine itself to tax relief.

While the Democrats control the House Rules Committee, 4-3, the Republicans won their demand for equal representation on the Senate Rules Committee.

The Senate committee will be split 5-5, while during the regular session, it had three Democrats and two Republicans.

The Democrats also control the Taxation and Ways and Means committees of the two houses.

The Senate received two controversial bills Monday.

One, by Sen. Harry D. Boivin (D), Klamath Falls, and Warren Gill (R), Lebanon, would remove the state from the property tax field.

Oregon hasn't had a state property tax since 1949 and it could levy one up to 6 mills if other revenues fall short.

A similar bill was passed 26-3 by the Senate at the regular session, but was bottled up in the Democratic House Taxation Committee.

The other new Senate bill was introduced by Gill. It would grant property tax exemptions on homes of persons over 65 years old, who have less than $2,400 annual income.

Sen. Monroe Sweetland (D), of Milwaukie, announced he would introduce a bill Tuesday to give "honors of the surplus" to the state Veterans Department for farm and home loans to veterans. He says this would give a shot in the arm to the ailing lumber economy.

FLUE FIRE

The Winston-Dillard Rural Fire Department Monday afternoon was called to the home of Donald Pyrer, Highway 42N near Kelley's Korner, where there was a flue fire. No damage was reported, according to Mrs. Lee Wilson, News-Review correspondent.

BOO! — Bob Raffensperger, president of the Roseburg Junior Chamber of Commerce, rigged himself in one of the Jaycees' Indian costumes and played the role of medicine man in calling for good weather Halloween night. The Jaycees Thursday night will again sponsor the Neewollah parade. 1,000 children are expected, and some 200 prizes will be distributed. (Paul Jenkins)

Movie Executive Mayer Passes At Age Of 72

Schary did. It turned out to be an artistic success, but a box-office flop.

If Mayer's productions were sometimes called artistic, they were seldom called successful.

His films were among the biggest moneymakers in history. A few examples are the Andy Hardy series, with Mickey Rooney; the Dr. Kildare series, with Lionel Barrymore; "Mrs. Miniver," with Greer Garson, and "Boom Town," with Clark Gable.

Born in Minsk, Russia, July 4, 1885, he was taken at three months to St. John, N.B. That was where he joined his father's business after a short public school education.

He entered the fledgling movie industry as an exhibitor in Massachusetts in 1907. He became a film distributor and finally — needing more films to show — the co-organizer of a production company.

Came To Hollywood

He came to Hollywood in 1917 and from 1924 to 1951 was executive in charge of production at Metro - Goldwyn - Mayer Studio. MGM climbed to greatness under the production genius of Irving Thalberg. When he died in 1936, Mayer took over direct control of production.

His great talent as a discoverer of stars brought under the MGM banner the greatest galaxy in film history.

Among them were Marie Dressler, Mae Murray, Norma Shearer, Greta Garbo, John Gilbert, Lon Chaney, Nelson Eddy, Jeanette MacDonald, Clark Gable, Jeanette MacDonald, Clark Gable, Judy Garland, Greer Garson, Hedy Lamarr. Others were Luise Rainer, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Robert Montgomery, Joan Crawford, Rosalind Russell, James Stewart, Robert Taylor, Mickey Rooney, Spencer Tracy, Lana Turner, Walter Pidgeon, Esther Williams, Van Johnson and Margaret O'Brien.

group of districts in Central Douglas County had more than enough valuation to meet the law. Secondly, the Roseburg district has enough laboratory space, but the science departments are inadequate in several areas which would be necessary for a junior college. Thirdly, he said, the library stock would have to be expanded at a cost of possibly $6,000.

Deller said he would recommend conducting a survey of prospective use and requirements before any other steps are taken. If these are favorable, he said, he would recommend use of present facilities until use of the junior college started.

$550 Per Pupil
He estimated it would cost about $550 a year for each pupil. He said the program should include a minimum of 200 students. Based on these figures, he said the district's program would get approximately $27,500 assistance from the state.

Tuition, he said, would bring in another $36,300, and the district or districts involved would have to add $46,200. If limited to the Roseburg district, this would be about 2¼ mills. He estimated an additional $20,000 would be needed to fashion the Roseburg facilities for junior college purposes.

Deller also outlined the history of the junior college program in Oregon.

Thousands At Funeral For Christian Dior

PARIS — Funeral services were held Tuesday for Christian Dior in a church scented with Lily of the Valley and filled with invited guests seated as carefully as for a fashion showing.

Thousands packed the church of Ste. Honore d'Evieux, and thousands more filled the sidewalks for blocks outside. Most were women, many in elegant, Dior-inspired clothes and furs, others modest in the headscarves post-war fashion's most famous designer detested and denounced.

Armstrong Says U. S. Is Run By Southerners

BUENOS AIRES — Trumpeter Louis Armstrong says the U. S. government could "put its foot down" to stop race disturbances "but, you know, the government is run by Southerners."

Touring South America with his band, the famous Negro musician told newsmen after his arrival Monday night that American Negroes are beginning to refuse to be pushed around.

"We don't take that view now," he said, adding "I'll tell the same thing to anyone I meet down here."

The jazz player's arrival here for a two-week engagement touched off a near-riot as Argentine fans mobbed him at the airport. Undeterred by fire hoses, the crowd burst through police and fire lines and almost forced Armstrong to the ground in their welcome.

Purse Relieved Of High Position

WASHINGTON — Victor Purse changes jobs in the State Department today after official findings that he showed "bad judgment" but still legally may keep a gift car from King Saud.

His transfer from deputy chief of protocol to a post in the Bureau of International Organization Affairs puts the 38-year-old Purse back in the line of work in which he started in the department 14 years ago.

The switch was announced last night by the department after two hearings. It climaxed a feud which had been quietly going on between the energetic Purse and his boss, Protocol Chief Wiley T. Buchanan.

The department announcement said Purse's new job was temporary "pending further consideration." It said it had been planned for months in the interest of Purse's career development, and had no direct relation to the acceptance of Purse's wife of a 1957 Oldsmobile from King Saud of Saudi Arabia last June.

American GI Convicted Of Negligent Shooting

SEOUL — U. S. Army Specialist 3.C. Raymond L. Bailey of Brownsburg, Ind., today was convicted of negligently shooting and killing a 15-year-old Korean school boy and sentenced to nine months at hard labor.

An Army general court-martial also ordered a bad conduct discharge for Bailey, who was guarding a military train at the time of the shooting Oct. 3.

The sentence is subject to review by higher military authorities.

Centennial Meet Slated Sunday At Canyonville

By VIRGINIA PROCTOR

All South Douglas organizations are being invited to send representatives to the Canyonville Centennial meeting Monday, Nov. 4, in the Youth Center building at 8 p.m.

Object of the coming meeting is to elect a permanent board for the centennial celebration, according to Carl Hill, spokesman for the group.

State Meetings

Canyonville administrators are scheduled to attend two meetings during the next week.

Supt. O. J. Monger will attend administrator's meeting at Sutherlin Thursday and, in the company of Principal John Haakanson will attend the state building conference at Erb Memorial in Eugene Thursday and Friday of next week.

The senior Camp Fire girls of Canyonville took a picnic-hike Friday close to the home of their leader, Mrs. Harry Johnson.

This activity was a part of their "trail-seeker's" requirement. The group includes girls in seventh and eighth grades and meets every two weeks.

To See Circus

Two buses will be made available to Canyonville school children who wish to attend the Webber Bros. circus' 2 p.m. performance in Roseburg Saturday, according to Supt. O. J. Monger.

Members of the Canyonville PTA will chaperon the children, Monger said.

2 Salem Boys Charged With Eugene Car Theft

Two teen-age runaway boys from Salem who allegedly stole a car in Eugene were taken into custody early this morning by state police.

The boys, 16 and 17 years of age, were apprehended after they had wrecked a car north of Roseburg on Highway 99, state police report. The vehicle was stolen in Eugene and had been abandoned by the boys who were walking toward Roseburg when arrested.

Taken to the Douglas County jail where they were booked on auto theft charges were Donald Gene Schwab, 17, and his 16-year-old companion, Richard Alvin Hill.

The car, which had been damaged considerably, was brought to Roseburg.

Defense To Rest Maloney Case

PORTLAND — The defense expected to rest its case some time Tuesday in the bribe conspiracy trial of Thomas E. Maloney.

That would leave only rebuttal witnesses of the prosecution to be heard before final arguments in the trial, now in its fourth week.

Maloney, a former Seattle and Spokane race track clerk, is accused of conspiring with Joseph McLaughlin, Seattle, and ousted Multnomah County Dist. Atty. William Langley to profit from gambling.

McLaughlin and Langley also face trial later on the same charge. All were indicted in the Portland vice investigations.

The jury heard a long parade of defense witnesses Monday and a deposition in which Leo Plotkin, a night club employe, told of once furnishing information about a Portland after-hours club to Maloney.

Plotkin's deposition said he also talked to Maloney about houses of prostitution in the city.

Jury Being Selected To Try Sherry Fong

PORTLAND — Selection of a jury was expected Tuesday in the second degree murder trial of Sherry Fong, being tried for the fourth time in the 1954 slaying of her 16-year-old baby sitter, Diane Hank.

The body of the Hank girl was found in February, 1954, wrapped in a blanket and dumped alongside a country road near Washougal, Wash.

One of Mrs. Fong's previous trials ended in a mistrial. In the others, she was convicted, but the findings were reversed and new trials ordered.

Her husband, Wayne, is free after winning a directed verdict of acquittal in his second trial on a murder charge in the same case.

AMBULANCE KILLED KOREAN
SEOUL — The U. S. Army said today one of its ambulances struck and killed a 3-year-old Korean child yesterday near a bridge on the Han River.

The Army said the child, Bo Sun Yi, darted from behind an ox cart into the path of the ambulance. The Army did not announce the identity of the driver.
