

Tempe Arizona State College Team Claimed Best By Tempe

TEMPE, Ariz. — Spend an hour with any of the folks in the Phoenix area and they'll try to convince you of two things: The sun shines here every day. Arizona State College at Tempe has the nation's best football team.

Then drive a few miles to the suburban town of Tempe, spend an hour with Coach Dan Devine and he'll try to convince you: The sun shines here every day. It's a miracle that his Arizona State squad is still one of the nation's two undefeated, untied major college teams.

Both Arizona State and Auburn, the nation's top-rated team, have 8-0 records.

The Arizona State fans a loyal and rabid lot, point to these facts to back up their claim of having the nation's best football team: Total score of 309 points in eight games for an average of 38.6 points — best in the nation. A total offense average of 452.5 — best in the nation. Fourth in the nation in rushing offense.

Eighth in the nation in passing. The nation's leading ground gainer in halfback Leon Burton. And Dan Devine as coach.

Devine took over the Arizona State team in 1955. His record to date — 25 victories, 3 defeats, one tie.

The 33-year-old former assistant coach at Michigan State is often irritatingly pessimistic: "I don't know how we'll finish the season. The situation is desperate. It's a miracle that we are still undefeated."

But when cornered, he will refreshingly honest: "For 30 minutes our football team could hold its own against any team in the nation. But just for 30 minutes." Why? "We just don't have the reserve strength."

"Can you imagine," Devine says, "the other night I let 14 of my boys, the ones who had played most of the game against Texas Western, skip practice. With a few others on the injury list, I didn't have enough men left to scrimmage."

Last week the Sun Devils, who have clinched a tie for the Border Conference title, moved up to 17th place in The Associated Press football poll. The fans snorted, "If places too low."

Devine admitted, "We deserve to be at least that high."

Should the Sun Devils get through the next two games it would mark their first undefeated, untied season since 1904—eight years before Arizona was admitted to the union.

Los Angeles Dodgers Announce 77-Tilt Sked

LOS ANGELES — The Los Angeles Dodgers, still not sure just where they're going to play game home schedule that includes 35 night games and only 3 double-headers.

The expectation is that the transplanted Brooklyn team will play most — if not all — of its home games at spacious Memorial Coliseum. The big bowl holds more than 100,000 people, about four times as many as the alternate playing site, Wrigley Field.

The Dodgers said in announcing the schedule Wednesday that a decision on the playing site, or sites, probably will be made in two weeks or less.

"The big factor," said Business Manager Harold Parrott, "is availability and adaptability of the Coliseum. Our engineers are studying the problem. That's all I can say now."

The Dodgers will open the National League season in San Francisco against the Giants April 15 and will play their first home game against the same team April 18.

Ticket prices here will be $3.50 for box seats, $2.50 for reserved grandstand and $1.50 for general admission. The box seat prices were set 50 cents higher than those of some other clubs because of the additional expense of flying teams into California.

Parrott said advance ticket sales are the heaviest in the history of the club.

There will be no free television and the question of whether pay-as-you-see TV will be inaugurated next season has not yet been settled.

Six-Meet Schedule Slated For Skiers

WENATCHEE — A six-meet schedule has been scheduled this winter by the Northwest Intercollegiate Ski Assn.

Elvin (Bob) Johnson, executive committee chairman who was winter sports coach at Whitman several years until his move to Wenatchee Valley College this fall, announced the meets.

Members of the NWISA will open their season Jan. 4-5 in University of British Columbia's invitational at Rossland B. C.

Other meets will be the Wenatchee Invitational at Squilchuck Bowl Jan. 18-19; the University of Alberta meet at Banff, Alta., Feb. 1-2; the combined WSC-Idaho intercollegiate at Kimberly, B. C.; the NWISA championships, to be hosted by the University of Washington Feb. 22-23, and the Montana State College Invitational at Bozeman, March 8-9.

In addition to Johnson, the membership of the executive committee which approved the schedule includes Karl Stungl of the University of Washington; Don Wells, Washington State; Al Fischer, UBC and Robert Sprenger, College of Puget Sound.

Because of unpredictable late-season weather conditions in the east, the National Intercollegiate championships will be held earlier than usual, Johnson said. The dates are Feb. 28, March 1-2, at Hanover, N. H., with Dartmouth as host school.

All schools in the NWISA will be allowed to use freshman skiers in varsity competition, Johnson said, although first-year men are prohibited from entering a national championship meet.

New coaches in the conference include Ken Hunter of Idaho and Bob McCall of Yakima Junior College.

Johnson has replaced Frank Cumbo as Wenatchee Valley coach. Cumbo is dropping out of active participation after nine years as a leader in high school and college skiing here.

Nation's Weather Back Near Normal Today

The nation's weather appeared back to near normal today, said in most areas and a little wet in a few sections. Skies were partly cloudy to fair in most of the country.

This was in marked contrast to the three days of torridness, rain, snow and windstorms and floods in the Midwest and Southern areas.

The blustery weather since the weekend was blamed for at least 40 deaths. Damage to property and crops was extensive in Southern sections hit by tornadoes and floods. The heavy snowfall in the Midwest paralyzed highway travel, closed schools and damaged unharvested crops.

Bookkeeper For Teamsters Says Special Fund Kept In Vault For Dave Beck Sr.

SEATTLE — A bookkeeper for the Teamsters Union testified Wednesday he is keeping $6,600 in a vault for union president Dave Beck, and denied the story was fabricated to answer grand jury charges against Beck's son.

The bookkeeper, Fred Verschuere Jr., was a witness for Dave Beck Sr., who is being tried on charges of embezzling $4,650 from sale of two union-owned Cadillacs. Beck Sr. is scheduled to be tried Dec. 2 on charges of misappropriating $1,900 from sale of a third car.

Verschuere told the jury the elder Beck gave him the $6,600 in three installments and indicated it came from car sales.

"Isn't it true," Deputy Prosecutor Laurence D. Regal asked, "that this is a story concocted by you and Mr. Beck to answer the charges here?"

"No sir, it isn't," Verschuere replied.

Colorado Governor Says Now Is Time To Develop Big Reclamation Projects

DENVER — Now is the time to develop reclamation projects—and especially their power features—because such a course will permit tapping natural resources which can strengthen the nation's defenses against aggression, Gov. Steve McNichols of Colorado says.

McNichols voiced the view in responding to a news conference question Tuesday about the possible effect of increased federal spending for research and missiles on the reclamation program.

"How ill-considered it would be," chairman of the Western Governor's Conference, "to go all out on a crash program of scientific development on the one hand and on the other rob the nation of one of its greatest resources which is not only closely related to defense but development of new wealth, with its power potential."

The governor emphasized he has no information that any such step is under consideration.

McNichols said development of reclamation projects which generate power is "all wound up with resource development which can make this nation more independent of others."

Referring to the West as "the nation's storehouse," he said power development coincident with reclamation could stabilize mining and make the United States less dependent upon foreign imports of strategic materials.

As an example, he observed it will take between 250,000 and 300,000 acre-feet of water to develop fully Colorado's oil shale industry.

His statement came on the eve of an organization meeting of a 62-member advisory committee on natural resources which he appointed last week. The committee will meet at the capitol in Denver.
