et Presbyterian Church with the Rev. Wayne Wattman, pastor of the church, officiating with the impressive double ring ceremony. (Fox Photo).

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Harold Estes of Glendale. She was attended by Mrs. Robert Peil of Grants Pass, matron of honor, and by Miss Lenie Reagan of Glendale, bridesmaid.

Ralph Stokes of Grants Pass, brother of the bridegroom, acted as best man and Robert Paul of Grants Pass and Vernon Wilkerson of Glendale were ushers.

Miss Linda Estes, 8, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The church was beautifully decorated with tall white baskets of variegated chrysanthemums and fern placed in front of the altar, and with low white baskets of chrysanthemums and fern on either side of the dias.

Mrs. Wayne Wattman played several appropriate selections at the piano before the ceremony began. Just before the traditional wedding procession, the Rev. Wattman sang "O Perfect Love."

The bride wore a ballerina-length gown of powder rose colored lace. A small hat and veil exactly matched the gown in color. The skirt of the dress was full below a wide satin sash which ended in a large bow in the back. The simple bateau neckline and cap sleeves were set off by a single strand of pearls. She wore pink gloves and brown slippers. Her bridal bouquet was of dainty white chrysanthemums and pink rosebuds tied with silver ribbon and white streamers onto a small white Testament.

The matron of honor wore a pink dotted Swiss ballerina-length gown set off below the bodice by a satin band which ended in a large bow in the back. She wore a dainty pink hat, pink button earrings and black slippers. Her bouquet was a nosegay of exquisite miniature and larger daisies in rose and white, tied with pink ribbon streamers.

The bridesmaid wore a full-skirted ballerina-length pink dress of nylon net and lace over satin and a ruffle of pink net in her hair. She carried a nosegay of rose and white daisies. Her accessories included a rhinestone necklace, white gloves and white slippers.

The flower girl was dressed in a pink brocade dress trimmed with white lace on the bodice and with rhinestone buttons down the back. She wore a dainty rhinestone necklace and a velvet ribbon tiara trimmed with white flowers.

The mother of the bride wore a well-tailored grey suit with a pink scarf at the throat, a pink hat and veil and white gloves. Her corsage was of white chrysanthemums.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. The couple cut a three-tiered white cake trimmed with white garlands and flowers and with pink roses. Exquisite bride and bridegroom figurines on top of the cake were set within a heart-shaped frame of orange blossoms topped by a white wedding bell.

Guests were served from a long table set at one side of the room, which featured, in addition to the cake, a large cut-glass punch bowl, gleaming silver, and napkins printed in silver in appropriate designs. Mrs. Harold Estes, sister-in-law of the bride, served the cake, while Mrs. Alta Wilkerson served punch and Mrs. Bill Blomme, sister of the bride, served coffee. July Blomme, 7, had charge of the guest book.

After guests were served, the couple, assisted by the bride's mother, opened the wedding gifts.

Today hair coloring is accepted as another kind of make-up—one of the most important—Now we can change our hair to suit our personality or our costume. A bronze tint can be sprayed on for a festive evening and brushed out in the morning for everyday living. For the fading older woman who does not prefer to go grey there are many rinses that range from pewter to platinum or smoke grey or mauve blue. These can be so flattering that greying hair becomes an asset.

Wonder why you sometimes don't look as radiant as others? Remember that the most important elements in beauty coloring are time and light. Plan ample time for careful make-up and place the mirror near a bright window or a high voltage light. It will pay off later.
