

Bandit Slayer Of 3 Americans Killed In Fight

TEHRAN, Iran — Bandit leader Dardshah, accused of murdering three Americans last March, was killed by gendarmes Saturday in a midnight fight near the Pakistan border, police reported.

He had been sought since the three were slain in Iran's southeastern desert. They were Kevin M. Carroll, 37, of Issaquah, Wash., a Point Four area development adviser, his pretty wife, Anita, and Brestary A. Wilson, 35, of Portland, Ore., a specialist of the Near East Foundation and contractor for the International Cooperation Administration in Iran.

Gendarmes commander Gen. Aligholi Golpira, announcing Dardshah's death, said four of the tribal bandit's aides were captured in the gunfight near Haft Kuh. He said the fighting lasted several hours.

Ambushed Americans
Iran's "desert fox" and his band ambushed the Americans March 21 as they drove in a bus station wagon across wild mountainous country.

The bandits knifed to death Carroll, Wilson and two Iranian men in the party. They kidnaped Mrs. Carroll.

A week later Iranian authorities reported she had been found shot to death six miles from the scene of the ambush.

The government had broadcast offers of amnesty and unlimited ransom to Dardshah for her safe return. He replied that she was safe. The government was trying to get in touch with him when her body was found.

Dardshah made his living by camel breeding and occasional holdups in a remote section of Iran. He was over 60.

He was said to have a following of about two dozen at the time of the murders. But when Gendarmes began hunting him, the gang split up.

Golpira had personally supervised the hunt for Dardshah and his nomad band.

Since the all out hunt began Dardshah has several times been reported encircled in rocky mountainous regions along the Pakistan border. Each time he has managed to slip through the net.

Dardshah's brother, Ahmed Shah was captured in Pakistan last week after the March 24 ambush. He is now in a Tehran jail awaiting trial.

Dardshah had been outlawed since 1947 when he married his young wife, Bahi, a man who had been her lover, and three members of the man's family.

The Shah of Iran personally ordered a stepping up of the hunt for Dardshah after the Americans were killed.

Costly Grenades No Good, Have To Be Destroyed

WASHINGTON — The General Accounting Office says the Army has decided to destroy 12 million dollars worth of defective foreign-made grenades which GAO says the United States paid too much for in the first place.

The agency also reports 1 1/2 a military sea transports are sailing with empty troop space because servicemen are being flown overseas.

The reports from the GAO, watchdog over government spending, were submitted to Congress during the Congressional recess.

They were made public after the new session began this week.

Involved in one report were high explosive antitank and practice rifle grenades ordered by the U.S. Army in Europe from a Belgian firm, S. A. Belge de Mecanique et d'Armement, and a Portuguese subsidiary. More than 45 million dollars worth of orders for the grenades were said to have been placed over a three-year period, starting during the Korean War.

The GAO said the Army received one report in 1954 that 32 per cent of some of the grenades tested were duds. A 1955 investigation, GAO said, found the grenades became so dangerous after drops during shipping that they might blow up in the course of normal handling.

The Army said it decided to destroy the defective grenades that year. By Jan. 21, 1957, it said some 852,000 of the grenades still on hand would be destroyed within 18 months.

Alaska Storm To Bring Rain

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A new storm from the Gulf of Alaska bearing down on Oregon is expected to bring rain to Western Oregon Saturday night and up to 8 inches of snow in the mountains.

The Portland Weather Bureau said strong westerly winds will whip up mountain snow in heavy drifts.

Snow showers are likely in Eastern Oregon as the storm moves across the state.

Sergeant Convicted On Nine Charges Of Cruelty In Prison

YOKOSUKA, Japan — A convicted Marine Sgt. Robert J. Barbuti on nine charges of cruelty to prisoners in a Navy brig. He was acquitted of 17 other cruelty counts and two of assault.

The court said it would sentence the 23-year-old leatherneck from Schenectady, N.Y., Monday. He faces a possible nine years imprisonment, one for each count on which he was convicted. The case will be reviewed automatically.

Specifications on which the former assistant brig warden was convicted included hitting prisoners in the stomach, stepping on bare feet and slapping inmates in the Navy brig at Sasebo, South Japan.

Some Charges Dismissed
Barbuti was acquitted of charges that he had pushed a pencil up a prisoner's nose until it bled, squirted shaving cream into a sailor's mouth and ears, banged inmates' heads together and threatened prisoners with bayonet and pistol.

Barbuti had denied all the cruelty charges.

During Friday's summation, Barbuti's civilian defense attorney objected the defendant as a "strict disciplinarian" but pleaded that the testimony against him was "exaggerated and built up."

The Navy prosecutor, Lt. Leo F. O'Brien of Kansas City, Mo., argued that the alleged offenses "constitute more than cruelty, but cruelty is the only word we have."

Barbuti was the 13th of 16 former brig guards to be court-martialed. Eight were convicted and six acquitted of lesser charges but the Navy Pacific Command at Hawaii reversed four convictions.

The last trial, of Sgt. Adrian A. McLane, 23, of Philadelphia, is scheduled to begin next week.

Mrs. Opal McKinney Of Oakland Succumbs

Opal Irene McKinney, 46, Oakland, died in a Roseburg hospital Friday evening.

She was born at Jefferson Jan. 25, 1911, and grew up there. She was married to Merwin McKinney at Oregon City in 1931. Following their marriage, they lived at Reed, Ore., where they operated an archery shop.

In 1937, they moved to Oakland, where they started an arrow shaft factory. They have operated it since that time.

Surviving are her husband; two daughters, Mrs. Irene Pryor of Kansas City, Mo., and Nita Wolford of Oakland; two brothers, Kenneth Durman of Oakland and Edson Durman of Seattle; five grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 2 p.m. at the Neighborhood Church of Christ in Sutherlin with the Rev. Lloyd Whitford officiating. Interment will be in Roseburg Memorial Gardens, Stearns and Little Mortuary, Oakland, in charge of arrangements.

Typhoon Lashes Away At Western Pacific

GUAM — Typhoon Ophelia continued to lash away at islands in the Western Pacific Saturday with 50 mile an hour winds.

One island in the Marshalls group reported all buildings were destroyed.

A trust territory officer here said emergency funds and rations are being flown to the various stricken areas from the U.S. National Atlantic Oceanic and Eastern Pacific Steamship and Navigation Co.

The typhoon passed through Ponape and Truk in the Marshalls Saturday, leaving extensive damages to three islands. Jalut Island received the greatest damage, the trust territory officer said. It was covered by three feet of water at the height of the typhoon and all buildings on the small island were destroyed.

Music Teachers Assn. To Sponsor Two Concerts Here

The Roseburg district of the Oregon Music Teachers Assn. is presenting two concerts by Oregon artists, Amy Lee Arney and Diane Spencer, both pianists.

Mrs. Arney's concert will be given Sunday afternoon Jan. 19 at 3 o'clock at the Methodist Church. Mrs. Spencer's concert will be at the same time and place Feb. 9.

Mrs. Arney received her Master of Music degree from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music. She is a right piano at Greenbrier College for Women at Lewisburg, W. Va., before coming to Oregon. She was head of the piano department at Linfield College from 1945 to 1956. She has twice served as adjudicator in Roseburg for syllabus examinations given by the OMTA.

Mrs. Spencer, formerly Diane DeMott, is an artist pupil of Nellie Tholen of Portland. She is a senior at Lewis and Clarke College. She has won piano contests since she was eight years old. She played the Schumann A minor concerto with the Portland Junior Symphony and the Bach D minor concerto with Dr. Boris Sirpo's Chamber Orchestra. She has given solo recitals frequently and is giving sonata recitals this year with Raphael Spiro, Chicago violinist, who came to Portland this season to play with the Portland Symphony Orchestra.

The public is invited to attend both of these concerts. The expenses of presenting them is being covered by gifts of patrons and patronesses. Anyone willing to assist in this way may contact Cloyd Riffe, president of the local Music Teachers Assn., or Mrs. Myrtle Burr at Graves Music Store. It is being financed in this way so that all music students, as well as music lovers, may be able to attend, it is announced.

Seattle Jukebox Operator Arrested; Violence Charged

SEATTLE — A Seattle jukebox operator, who went into the business only six months ago and now has 25 locations, was charged Friday with having muscled-in on other operators with threats of violence.

The arrest of Frank Colacurcio, 40, culminated a six-week investigation by police and the prosecutor. Eugene state styles director, arm tactics in Seattle's lucrative jukebox industry.

Both Police Chief H. J. Lawrence and Prosecutor Charles O. Carroll said they believed the danger of a jukebox "war" had been averted, at least for the time being. They said there is no evidence of actual assaults. Colacurcio was free on $5,000 bond Saturday awaiting continuation of a Justice Court hearing on the complaints against him. Justice John W. Croome recessed the case late Friday until Monday morning.

Denies Threats
Colacurcio denied in court having made any threats either against his competitors or proprietors of places where he wished to install his machines, and said his attorney will prove "the whole thing is a farce."

The dark-haired music machine operator is a partner in the Colacurcio Brothers Amusement, Inc. His brother, Bill, 34, has a large pinball route and an interest in the jukebox business.

Charges against Colacurcio were based on complaints lodged against him by two music-machine operators, a cafe owner and a tavern proprietor.

Two of the complainants testified Friday, and described Colacurcio as a man who tried to place his machines by boasting of "influence" with the State Liquor Control Board, and who openly claimed he was "going to run First Avenue."

Recitation of the Rosary for Madeline Lois Zoeter will be held in the Chapel of the Roses Sunday at 7 p.m.

Requiem mass will be held Monday at 9 a.m. in the St. Joseph's Catholic Church. The Rev. Edmund Hyland will officiate.

Mrs. Zoeter died Friday in a local hospital. She was born Sept. 28, 1889, in Minneapolis, Minn. She was married to John C. Zoeter in Kansas City, Kan., on Sept. 30, 1914, and came to Roseburg in 1922. She was a member of the Catholic Church.

Surviving are her husband, John C. Roseburg; three sons, Thomas A., Roseburg; Felix, Chicago; and John C. Jr., Alameda, Calif.; four daughters, Mrs. Mary Alice Morrissey, Prairie Village, Kan.; Mrs. Jack (Marion) Battaglia, New York City; Mrs. Glenn (Theresa) Smith, Madero, Calif.; and Mrs. Robert (Madeleine) Williams Las Angeles; two brothers, Charles Plator, New York City; and Robert R. Plator, San Francisco; two sisters, Mrs. Alice P. Fulton, Kansas City, Kan.; and Mrs. Marion Dwyer, Detroit, Mich.; 10 grandchildren and one great-granddaughter.

Vault interment will be in the Roseburg Memorial Gardens.

An 18-year-old youth, wanted by Alameda police in connection with larceny of an automobile is being held in Douglas County jail this morning pending extradition to California.

The suspect is Larry Donald Stone, Concord, Calif. He was arrested in Canyonville after a state officer recognized the 1952 sedan he was driving as fitting the description of the stolen car.

Marine Sergeant Sho? By Private Whom He Accused

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. — A Marine sergeant was shot and killed in his barracks Friday by a private he officially had accused of disrespect, the Camp Lejeune public information office said Saturday.

The PIO identified the victim as Sgt. Paul Eugene Grant, 31, a 13-year veteran of the corps. A Marine spokesman said Pvt. Isaiah Andrews, 19, was being held without charge pending the outcome of an investigation.

The PIO said the shooting occurred shortly after the two men returned to their barracks from a hearing during which Andrews was ordered tried by a special court-martial for disrespect.

Shared Same Barracks
Both men were members of the 1st Motor Transport Battalion, Force Troops Fleet Marine Corps, Atlantic, and lived in the same barracks.

The Marine spokesman gave this story:
After the hearing, Andrews returned to the barracks where he loaded his M1 rifle, walked to where Grant was in the barracks and fired one shot. Grant was pronounced dead shortly afterward.

Any charges against Andrews will be filed by the commanding general of the Force Troops Fleet Marine Corps on the basis of the report by the investigating board, the PIO said.

Grant is survived by his widow, Mrs. Lois Grant of Bladenboro, N.C., and his mother, Mrs. Lillie Grant of Columbia City, Ind.

Andrews' home address is Newark, N.J.

Curran Admits He Voluntarily Landed Plane In Albania

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — U.S. Air Force Maj. Howard Curran said here Saturday that he voluntarily landed his T33 jet trainer in Communist Albania after a fuel problem with his radio communications broken.

Curran arrived from Albania by leaving behind his plane which had been reported forced down by Red fighters.

Curran said that when he landed in Albania he did not know that he was over that Communist territory but had to land on the first landing gear.

He was "treated very fairly" during his 19 days' stay in Albania, Curran said.

He explained that he was unable to fly out of Albania in his T33 jet trainer plane because of a landing on Dec. 23 his left main landing gear tire burst. Otherwise the plane was undamaged and he could have flown out if he had a new tire, he said.

Curran said the Albanians told him that they would give him a replacement tire but later they claimed that they did not have one.

During his stay in Albania, Curran said, he was constantly under military custody.

The first five days he stayed in the Albanian capital of Tirana and for the last 14 days near the city of Durres on the Adriatic Sea, Curran reported.

Test Tube Birth Not Adultery, Court Decides

EDINBURGH, Scotland — A Scottish judge ruled Friday that a wife who gave birth to what was described as a "test tube" baby after separating from her husband had not committed adultery.

Lord Wheatley upheld the defense of the wife in a case that he admitted was "unique in the annals of our law."

Ronald G. MacLennan of Glasgow sued his wife, Margaret, for divorce charging adultery. She now lives in Brooklyn, N. Y.

The couple separated in March 1954. On July 19, 1955, she gave birth to a girl. She said the birth was a result of artificial insemination — without her husband's consent or knowledge.

Wheatley said "there are manifestly grave moral, ethical, social and personal considerations involved in the practice of artificial insemination in its various forms which will no doubt be fully deployed elsewhere."

But the judge said he was dealing only with the legal aspects of the case.

Before ruling on the divorce, however, Wheatley continued the case for two weeks until a further investigation could be made into other details of the case.

Jury Foreman Says Statement Caused Misunderstanding

SEATTLE — Charles Hickling, foreman of the jury of the Dave Beck grand larceny trial last year, testified Friday that he was confused by the charges against him on a misunderstanding.

Hickling's working companions, Robert S. Paulson of Edmonds and Clarence H. Lauby of Seattle, both testified they heard Hickling, a Bellevue boatbuilder, say before Beck's trial that "they ought to hit the book at."

Beck, convicted of grand larceny late last year on charges he misappropriated the proceeds from the sale of a union-owned car, is seeking a new trial. The motion is being heard by Superior Judge George H. Revelle.

Both Paulson and Lauby, who once worked with Hickling at an Everett, Wash., aircraft plant, said they heard him say, on separate occasions before the Beck trial, that "they ought to throw the book at" Beck.

Questioned by Judge Revelle, Hickling said on two occasions about the trial and I said that if I did not want to be on Mr. Beck's trial (sic) I could just make the statement, "They should hang the boy."

"Apparently that is what these gentlemen have been talking about," Judge Revelle said.

Judge Revelle said he hoped he could make a decision on Beck's motion for a new trial by Monday morning.

Roseburg Bus Service To Resume On Monday

Monday, Smith said. The schedules on routes will remain as they were before the service was terminated Dec. 31 by J. W. Sayre, former operator.

Today, he talked with City Atty. Paul E. Geddes about details of a city franchise. A franchise proposal probably will be submitted to the City Council Monday night.

Smith said he will seek a one-year franchise with a five-year option. He said he will ask that the franchise be flexible regarding schedules and routes.

Man, Wife To Operate
He has prepared articles of incorporation naming himself as president and his wife as vice president and secretary-treasurer.

The new operator said he and Mrs. Smith, who will drive, will have a third driver on the routes.

The two buses to be used already have been purchased from Sayre. They are Volkswagens, which also are in use in bus lines in Bend and Klamath Falls.

Sayre started the company last August, with the franchise to last until the end of the year. When the company appeared to be losing money, he terminated the service.

The City Council and a committee of businessmen tried to find means of continuing the service in December, but failed.

Smith Requests Money
Smith, who had sought aid from businessmen, then announced that he would try to borrow the money to keep the buses running.

The lady read Smith's plea for aid in The News-Review, and this week had offered to loan the money.

The businesses which contributed money include: Herman's Men's Store, J. C. Sporting Goods, Roseburg Realty, Hotel Umpqua, Montgomery Ward and Co., J. C. Penney Co., Roseburg Jewelers, Nielsen's Market, Ricketts' Music Store, J. J. Newberry Co., Knudtson's Jewelry, Carsten's Furniture, Jess Matthews' suspended her immediately after the incident but did not suspend the Negro girl.

White Girl Suspended For Pushing Negro Girl
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — A white girl student reported yesterday she was suspended from Central High School because she pushed a Negro girl who got in her way in a corridor.

Darlene Holloway, 17-year-old junior, told her mother that Principal Jess Matthews suspended her immediately after the incident but did not suspend the Negro girl.

Parents to reach school officials for comment were unsuccessful.
