'Missing Body' Report Regarded 'Dead Drunk' Case

State police were unable to find the corpus delicti when called Sunday afternoon to investigate a report of a dead man in a car. After interrogating witnesses, the conclusion was reached that the "victim" probably was just "dead drunk."

The case of the "missing body" came to state police in a roundabout way. They were called by the sheriff's office which had been informed of the case by Roseburg police.

Roseburg police had received their information from Terry Day, 290 NE Fulton St. The circle was completed when a state police officer contacted Day and was given this story:

Man Seen in Car
Day had been stopped about three miles east of the city on NE Douglas Avenue by a man who was looking in a red and white station wagon. The man asked Day to call police as there was a dead man in the vehicle.

Another car was parked nearby with a woman in it. Day told the officer he made the call and returned to find both vehicles gone and then observed them going east on the North Umpqua Road.

Residents near the scene of the "crime" said the man had climbed into the station wagon, pushed the "body" over and drove off with the woman, following in the other car.

Bombers Harass Negro Folks In Two Cities

planted—exploded last night in the front yard of a Negro family which recently moved into a predominantly white neighborhood.

There were no injuries. John Gable, 44-year-old service station operator in whose yard the bomb exploded, said he did not believe it was racially inspired.

Trouble From Start
District Fire Chief Don Fuller said neighbors of Gable told investigators the family had been having trouble with white neighbors since they moved into the house two months ago.

The blast left a crater about two feet deep about five feet from the Gable's front porch. It shattered windows in nearby homes and was reported heard and felt 11 blocks away.

Officers said three sticks of unexploded dynamite were found in a can in the front yard, leading them to believe the bomb possibly was planted.

WALLET TURNED IN
A wallet containing 32 cents and papers belonging to Alta S. Spindie, 644 W. Madrone St., was turned over to Roseburg police today by S. J. Bonkowski, 315 W. Riverside Dr.

POLIO MOTHER — Mrs. Dale Lander, 1549 NW Jefferson Ave., has been named honorary chairman of the Mothers' March of Polio Jan. 30. No Inflation Needed, Eisenhower Declares turn are visible, he said, including: "Strong, sustained consumer demand; 'very little' decline in incomes or total buying power; rising outlays by state and local governments; increased private spending on research and development; and strong business confidence, attested by the long-range programs of corporations for expansion and construction."

Summing up, Eisenhower predicted: "As we look ahead in 1958, there are grounds for expecting that the decline in business activity need not be prolonged and that economic growth can be resumed without extended interruption."

Other official sources, more explicit than the president, said the downturn is expected to continue until a turnaround point is reached in April-June quarter or the July-September period.

Tighter Labor Law Asked
The message repeated with emphasis the administration's request for a higher limit on the federal debt, a one-year extension at present corporation and excise tax rates, the farm program sent to the Capitol last week, and the new plan to aid science education.

The President urged enactment of Taft-Hartley Law amendments including a tightening of restraints on secondary boycotts and picketing—subject of a special message due later this week—and adoption of previously announced proposals for further loosening credit.

Other proposals—most of which were made in the earlier State of the Union and Budget messages—would:

Ease the tax laws in several minor ways to benefit small business. But a tax concession involving substantial loss of revenue must wait until a general tax cut is possible, Eisenhower said.

Make the Small Business Administration a permanent agency and enlarge its authorization to make business and disaster loans.

Extend the 51-hour minimum wage to some additional groups of workers, as provided in a pending measure.

Set up federal machinery to help cities with chronic unemployment problems.

Require large companies to notify the government before merging and otherwise tighten the anti-trust laws.

Extend the Trade Agreements Act for five years, authorize further reciprocal tariff cuts, and permit the United States to enter the proposed Organization for Trade Cooperation.

Wage-Price Warnings
The President turned to a problem that provided a recurring theme for the report: The hazard that wage negotiations may produce high settlements translated quickly into inflationary price increases, and that these in turn may discourage consumer buying and impede economic progress.

"Business management must recognize that price increases that are unwarranted by costs—not only lower the buying power of the dollar but also may be self-defeating by causing a restriction of markets, lower output, and a narrowing of return on capital investment."

The leadership of labor must recognize that wage increases that go beyond over-all productivity gains are inconsistent with stable prices, and that the resumption of economic growth can be slowed by wage increases that involve either higher prices or a narrowing the fact that two KKK crosses were burned near Indian homes during the preceding week.

Although Indians poured bullets for 10 minutes into a field where people milled in pitch darkness, only four men were wounded—none seriously.

War Record Cited
Simeon Oxendine, son of the mayor of the Indian community of Pembroke, proudly wrapped himself in a captured KKK banner and winked at newsmen.

Oxendine, commander of the North Carolina 8th district of the Veterans of Foreign Wars which includes six white clubs and one for Indians, had made 29 bombing missions over Germany in World War II.

There are about 40,000 white people, 30,000 Indians and 25,000 Negroes in Robeson County.

Most of the Robeson Indians are Lumbee. They are well known as the Cherokee Indians of Robeson County. Lumbee is taken from a river in the region.

Race relations in Robeson have been generally peaceful. But Indians were aroused last week by the cross burnings. One was in front of the home of an Indian woman who reportedly was dating a white married man. The other was burned in a white neighborhood where an Indian family had occupied a house. Klansmen were quoted as saying the burnings were a warning to Indians.

The Saturday rally was reported to be a final warning to Indians to watch their step.
