Klan Leader Charged With Inciting Riot

LUMBERTON, N. C. — A South Carolina Ku Klux Klan leader was ordered to surrender today on a charge of inciting a riot between Klansmen and Indians. Sheriff Malcolm McLeod said that if the Rev. James Cole, 33, of Marion, S. C., did not meet the deadline, he would begin legal proceedings for his arrest in South Carolina. Cole describes himself as head of the Klan in both Carolinas. A Robeson County grand jury composed of three Indians, two Negroes and 13 white men—indicted Cole and Klansman J. M. Garland Martin of Reidsville, N. C., Monday on charges of inciting riot. In addition, the grand jury cited others of the KKK "unknown to the state." The charges stemmed from the Klan's short-lived rally Saturday as several hundred Indians, firing shotguns and rifles, drove the Klansmen from the site, near Maxton, 30 miles from here. Four persons suffered slight injuries as the Indians fired mostly into the air and into the ground. State troops broke up the fracas. Authorities already had custody of Martin, a 37-year-old tobacco plant worker. Officers found him in a ditch after the shooting and charged him with drunkenness and carrying concealed weapons.

GREENVILLE, S. C. — Eleven white men, some of whom admitted Ku Klux Klansmen, come to trial today, charged in the flogging of a Negro farmer six months ago.

Solicitor prosecutor James R. Mann said he planned to call the case as soon as Greenville General Sessions Court opened, with Judge James M. Brailsford presiding.

Indictments charge all 11 with conspiring to commit assault and battery and conspiring to housebreak. In addition, five are charged with assault and battery and housebreaking. The victim was Claud Cruell, 58, a farmer, landowner and Baptist deacon.

Anonymous Call Causes Another Scare At School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — City police and school officials searched Central High School Tuesday after another anonymous telephone caller reported that dynamite was inside — this time capped and fused. Supt. Virgil Blossom said nothing was found.

The new search — second in 24 hours — was "touched off" by a phone call to the switchboard operator of the Arkansas Gazette, Mrs. Grace Bennett.

Mrs. Bennett said the caller sounded like a teen-aged white boy and had muffled his voice. "There's a bomb in Central High School and this time it has a cap and fuse," Mrs. Bennett quoted the caller.

Then he hung up, she said. The new search got under way as FBI agents began investigating the discovery of a stick of dynamite in a basement locker at the court-integrated school Monday.

At classtime the Central High scene was placid. Two outside patrols circled the campus and eight of the nine Negro students entered school without incident.

An anonymous telephone call Monday sent city policemen and federalized Arkansas National Guardsmen on a 1½-hour search. They found the dynamite, which had no cap or fuse, in an otherwise empty locker.

The Justice Department said at Washington last night that the federal law had been violated. The telephone caller's tip said two sticks of dynamite had been placed at the school but only one was found.

An explosives expert said it was possible but difficult to set off unfused, uncapped dynamite.

The Wednesday opening will be at 7 a.m.

Adm. Nimitz Favors 3-Man Chief Of Staff

WASHINGTON — Chester W. Nimitz, former top Navy officer, proposed Tuesday that the Joint Chiefs of Staff be reduced to three members.

He told the Senate missile-satellite inquiry that the post of chairman could be rotated among heads of the Army, Navy and Air Force.

"This would remove one layer in this pyramid of the chain of command," Nimitz said.

The white-haired Nimitz recalled that at one time during World War II, when he was a top commander in the Pacific, he favored a "single chief of staff."

That was when he "had a sense of frustration" waiting for decisions from Washington, he explained. But he said hindsight and experience have convinced him "I was wrong and I am now opposed to a single chief of staff."

After World War II, Admiral Nimitz served as chief of naval operations for two years and then retired.

Called For Testimony The Senate Preparedness subcommittee called him and Gen. Carl Spaatz, former Air Force chief of staff, for public testimony in its search for ways to streamline the Defense Department and speed missile-satellite programs.

At the same time, the House Armed Services Committee was continuing its separate inquiry aimed like the Senate subcommittee at finding ways to strengthen the defense set up. The House group called Secretary of the Army Bruce and Gen. Lynn M. Lemnitz, acting Army chief of staff, for closed door questioning.

Brucker had a prepared statement, given to newsmen, which said that "the Army has never subscribed to the theory that the ICBM (intercontinental ballistic missile) is or will be the ultimate weapon."

Brucker said the Nike-Zeus anti-missile on which the Army is working "will provide this country with its first effective defense against Soviet intercontinental ballistic missiles."

Winston Boy Caught In Shoplifting Act

Application of "a stick to the right place" was recommended to the mother of a 13-year-old Winston boy caught shoplifting at a Roseburg store Monday.

The advice was noted in an officer's report of the incident. According to the report, the boy had stolen two pens, three pencils and an eraser from Anderson Place Market, 1830 W. Harvard Ave. Total value of the merchandise was listed as $3.92.

He had been caught by the proprietor who allowed the merchandise to be returned and the boy to be turned over to his mother. She in turn asked the officer what he thought should be done about the affair. The answer was ready: "A stick applied to the right place."

Bellingham Woman Is Named Polio Mother Of Year

NEW YORK — Mrs. Dewey Huston, 35, Bellingham, Wash., was named 1958 National Polio Mother of the Year Tuesday by the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Mrs. Huston suffered a severe attack of paralytic polio in November, 1952, a month before her first son was born. The mother was an iron lung patient at the time of birth.

The selection of Mrs. Huston was announced prior to a luncheon in her honor at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Mrs. Huston, a brunette, uses a wheelchair in caring for her two sons and tending to household chores. She said she and her husband designed their ranch-style home with one floor and no steps so she could reach every part of it from her wheelchair.

Mrs. Huston is a graduate of the Rochester, N.Y., Institute of Technology Art School and still does some commercial art work from her home. She also bowls once weekly from a wheelchair.

Her husband, a graduate of Kansas State College, is a chemical engineer for the Puget Sound Pulp & Timber Co.

The National Foundation said Mrs. Huston was selected because she exemplified this year's March of Dimes theme: "Survival is Not Enough."

The theme is intended to point up the need of tens of thousands of polio victims who can be aided by rehabilitation.

The couple, with their two children, Michael, 5, and Jonathan, 16 months, flew to New York Saturday and expect to remain here until the end of the week.

House Group Approves Added Missile Funds

(Continued from Page 1) rines capable of firing the Polaris ballistic missile. The committee described the missile-toting subs as "a major deterrent to any nation that threatens the peace and a retaliatory weapon of great magnitude." Actually, it added, the Polaris becomes an intercontinental missile when used by submarines that can sneak within firing range of an enemy's shore.

The House will consider the committee's action Wednesday and there are indications of a strong drive to provide even more money.

Space Age Weapons

The new weapons will be made available to the Defense Department immediately to finance a space age weapons program which are developing faster than anticipated.

In a report written by Rep. Mahon (D-Tex.), chairman of the subcommittee that drafted the measure, the committee said "our military strength as of today, in the over-all, is superior to that of the U.S.S.R." although in the critical areas of space satellites and ballistic missiles "we are generally behind Russia."

In those vital areas, the committee added, "we cannot afford to be in second place."

The present superiority of the United States over Russia, the committee said, is due to the striking power of the Strategic Air Command.

Leona Grocery Store Break-in Is Reported

A second break-in of Parks Grocery Store at Leona in recent weeks was reported to the sheriff's office today. Deputies were told that a hasp had been pried off a rear door but that apparently nothing was taken in the Monday burglary.

Officers noted that about three weeks ago there was a similar occurrence with nothing missing from the store.

PROCLAIMS NURSES DAY

BLM Must Wait Jury Decision On Rock Creek Road

PORTLAND — The federal government will have to wait for a jury's decision on how much the land is worth before it can take possession of some 20 miles of Rock Creek logging road near Roseburg.

U. S. Dist. Judge William G. East Monday refused the immediate possession asked by the Bureau of Land Management.

The BLM sought the road, owned by a number of logging companies and individuals, to provide access to timber on Oregon and California Revested Lands. It got title by condemning the road and depositing $342,900 which it estimated the value to be.

But under the law, a judge may say whether possession should be given immediately or be deferred. Judge East said Monday the government could wait until a jury rules on the value — and how much money should be given to each of the several owners.

The companies owning an interest in the road are Umpqua Plywood Corp., Weyerhaeuser Timber Co., Douglas County Lumber Co., and Evans Products Co.

Court Acquits John Yarbrough

Acquittals were won by John L. Yarbrough, 26, 1303 SE Pine St., in two district court trials Monday.

Judge Warren A. Woodruff found Yarbrough innocent of vagrancy and of driving on the wrong side of a road.

His former wife, Evelyn, had accused him of vagrancy in a complaint alleging Yarbrough had used obscene and abusive language in her home at 1617 SE Eddy St.

The driving complaint was signed by Clifford Pennell who charged that Yarbrough had been driving on the wrong half of Weaver Road, two miles north of Riddle, on Jan. 11. It was brought out in testimony that cars driven by Yarbrough and Pennell had collided.

Judge Woodruff ruled that testimony in the driving case did not conclusively show that Yarbrough had been driving on the wrong side. In the other case he said that there was no evidence that the road had been disturbed by Yarbrough as had been charged in the vagrancy complaint.

Chief At Canyonville Resigns After 9 Years

Ted Nimmo, Canyonville chief of police for nine years, resigned the position Monday night.

His resignation was accepted by the City Council. It will become effective Feb. 28, according to correspondent Virginia Proctor.

Nimmo told the council he will go into business for himself as a commercial fisherman in Winchester Bay. He had formerly been a fisherman in California.

The retiring chief said he would begin fishing March 1. He had been police chief since September of 1949.

Meanwhile, his family will remain in Canyonville until the Nimmo property can be sold.

Portland Woman Found Strangled To Death

PORTLAND — Mrs. Bessie Vivian Hammonds, 36, apartment house manager, was found dead Monday with her bathrobe belt knotted about her neck.

A coroner's deputy said she apparently was strangled to death after a struggle, but scheduled an autopsy to make sure of the cause of death.

Disarrayed furniture led police to believe there had been a struggle.

DRUNK METED FINE

Jack Henry Freeman, 55, Portland salesman, pleaded guilty in district court today to being drunk on a public highway and was fined $25 by Judge Warren A. Woodruff. Freeman was arrested Monday night by a deputy sheriff.

Unions To Be Asked To Make Financial Statements Public

VANCOUVER, Wash. — Congress will be asked to pass legislation requiring unions to make public their financial records, Secretary of Labor Mitchell said here Monday. That is a recommendation President Eisenhower will make in his labor message to Congress later this week, the secretary added.

Mitchell was guest speaker at a Republican fund raising dinner. In his speech at the $25-a-plate dinner he said 99 per cent of all money spent on missile development "has been spent during the Eisenhower administration" while only one per cent was spent during the preceding Democratic administration.

The secretary's outline of points the President will bring out in his labor message was given earlier to a party meeting. He said the President will ask that penalties for refusal by unions to make public their financial records include loss of tax-free status and loss of certification as a bargaining agent by the National Labor Relations Board.

Mitchell said other things the President will ask include election of union officers by secret ballot every four years; and permission for state courts to take over in certain labor disputes where the NLRB does not take action.

As to the national economy, Mitchell said it should start picking up by mid-summer due to increases in missile and defense spending, continuation of the highway construction program and an increase in residential building.

175 4-H Officers, Leaders At Meet

Some 175 club leaders and officers of 4-H from the Central Douglas County District attended the annual officers training day last weekend at the county fairgrounds community building.

To launch the meeting, Frank von Borstel, 4-H extension agent, presented a film on the duties of club officers and business meeting procedures.

The officers were then split into four groups for special instruction. Speaking to the four groups were Von Borstel, Hope Tacchini, Jane Gates, county extension agents, and George Castillo, assistant editor of "The News-Review."

On returning to the main assembly, the leaders and officers heard Miss Gates outline important coming events. Included are special sewing and cooking classes, National 4-H Week in March, Achievement Day in May, 4-H summer school at Corvallis and 4-H camps.

On Achievement Day, all those hoping to compete at the Douglas County Fair will display and receive help and instructions.

About 40 leaders attended the meeting.

Rock Slide Provides Adventure In Mexico

A vacationing Green area family possibly was saved from more adventure than they had bargained for recently by the timely arrival of a bus on a lonely Mexican highway.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hartwig and their children, Val and Karen, left for their vacation Dec. 22. They entered Mexico at El Paso, Tex., and arrived in Mexico City in time to spend New Year's Eve in the Mexican capital.

En route home, reports News-Review Correspondent Mary Weikum, the Hartwigs came upon a pile of stones which blocked the highway.

A bus pulled up alongside just as the Hartwigs stepped out of their car to investigate. They were told by the occupants of the bus that such blockades are a favorite trick of Mexican bandits, who force a car to stop by such means then rob its occupants of their possessions.

The Hartwigs learned that they probably were saved from robbery by the arrival of the bus, which probably frightened off the bandits.

Blizzard Hits Two Midwest States Today

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS — The worst blizzard in five years swirled in Kansas and Missouri Tuesday, halting transcontinental road traffic and virtually paralyzing metropolitan Kansas City.

At least two deaths were attributed to the storm. The Weather Bureau in a special bulletin issued heavy snow warnings for northeast and north central Missouri and southeast Kansas, forecasting an additional four inches for an area in which depths already ranged up to 14 inches with some drifts of six feet.

The Weather Bureau had to go back 27 years to find a storm comparable to this one in Kansas City.

Fraser, Colo., high in the Rockies, had an early morning low of 32 below zero, the lowest in a nation. At lower elevations below zero readings were common over southern Wyoming and eastern Colorado.

Snow Falling At mid-morning, snow was falling from northeast Oklahoma, through eastern Kansas, into west and north Missouri, south east Iowa and northern Illinois.

Behind the storm a mass of cold, dry air hung over Colorado, Wyoming and New Mexico and was beginning to edge into western Kansas. It was expected to move eastward Tuesday night, bringing temperatures down from the present low 20s to from 5 to 15 above zero.

Air and bus travel through Kansas City came to a standstill and several of the main highways were blocked by high drifts and stalled vehicles. Schools were closed in many areas, including all of the greater Kansas City district and many businesses and factories failed to open.

Eisenhower Says Nation Is Strong Militarily

(Continued from Page 1) Public power groups opposed PNP's application on grounds Nez Perce would be better adapted to a comprehensive plan for development of the river. The FPC legal staff recommended its denial on similar grounds.

FPC Examiner Edward Marsh recommended issuance of the construction license to PNP. One of the five FPC members, Arthur Kline, dissented from the opinion.

K.M. Robinson, chairman of the board of PNP, said the "four companies comprising PNP must have their own greatly increased power supply in the 1960's."

Certainly, Robinson added in a statement, "it is not in the public interest to force them to steam power generation and bring about substantial increase in power costs to their customers simply because someone thinks a high dam at Nez Perce may someday be built."

The invitation in the FPC order to file on the Nez Perce site will have to be considered by the companies but such action will be sad news to the fish interests. The 800,000 customers served by the four organizing companies will certainly be disappointed that the companies are not being assured of the firm power supply that would result from favorable FPC action, which would produce power at a lower cost than by them.

"The statement of the commission that the denial... need not affect adversely the power situation in the Northwest seems not justified by the record of the hearing."

Discussing the party aim of doing for people what they can't do for themselves, Eisenhower said that during his administration there have been "improvements in social security, unemployment insurance," and in other social, health and labor areas.

The President made no mention of the economic report he sent to Congress just before traveling to Chicago from Washington yesterday. It took note of the current business decline, but predicted an upswing later in the year.

Stealing Money From Newspaper Rack Charged

Charged with stealing money from a newspaper rack, two Roseburg boys were arrested Monday night by Roseburg police.

The youths, 16 and 17 years of age, were released to their parents, with the younger boy ordered to appear at the juvenile office today with one of his parents. Julian Hellock, juvenile officer, asked that charges against the older boy be dropped if he can enlist in the service.

According to police reports, the two boys were taken into custody at the Greyhound bus depot shortly after officers were called to Churock Cafe, where the rack was reported rifled.

There witnesses said the younger boy had been caught picking up money from beneath the rack. He ran when surprised by R. G. Atwater who had walked out of the cafe. The lock had been broken from the coin tube and about $4 taken.

The 16-year-old said he was responsible for the theft and that his companion had not known about it until he told him. A statement to this effect was signed, police noted.

FPC Denies Two Snake Dams Applications

Nez Perce, which would impound waters of the Salmon River as well as the Snake, has been under study by Army Engineers since the 1940s.

It would cost upwards of 450 million dollars, impound 6 million acre feet of water, and have power generating capacity of more than 3,500,000 kilowatts.

Army Engineers never have recommended construction of Nez Perce because of opposition from conservationists and fishing interests. The dam would block runs of salmon and steelhead trout.

FPC said the outlook is promising for development of a way to get fish around high dams like Nez Perce.

Public Power Opposition Public power groups opposed PNP's application on grounds Nez Perce would be better adapted to a comprehensive plan for development of the river. The FPC legal staff recommended its denial on similar grounds.
