Bellboy Faces Assault Charge; $5,000 Bail Set

Charged with felonious assault, a 23-year-old Roseburg bellboy was arrested Saturday night by Roseburg police and sheriff's deputies. Taken into custody at a cafe south of Roseburg was Walter Leroy Higginbotham, 23, Rt. 4 Box 1430, Roseburg. He was arrested on a warrant issued by Sutherland Justice of the Peace Ward Watson.

Higginbotham is accused by Billy Ray Robertson, 177 SE Hoover, Ave., of assault by means of force likely to produce great bodily harm.

According to Roseburg police reports, Robertson claims Higginbotham beat him, inflicting cuts on his neck and stomach, and also kicked Robertson's wife, Rita, in the stomach. Higginbotham also is alleged by the complainants to have threatened Mrs. Robertson's life.

They told police the incident occurred while the three were riding in Higginbotham's car. The accused man, according to the report, is supposed to have stopped the car and crawled over into the rear seat where he started striking Robertson.

The couple told police that when Mrs. Robertson tried to interfere, Higginbotham ordered her to get back in the car. When she refused, he reportedly kicked her in the stomach and shoved her in the car, then drove to downtown Roseburg where she got out of the vehicle.

Police reports say the Robertson's claim the affray began after Higginbotham told Mrs. Robertson he would kill her and her unborn child if she didn't leave Robertson and go to California with him.

Higginbotham is being held in the Douglas County jail in lieu of $5,000 bail.

Robert Joffrey Theatre Ballet New Concept In Entertainment

A new company on the American dance horizon, the Robert Joffrey Theatre Ballet, will be seen in Roseburg Feb. 20 at 8:15 p.m. under Roseburg Community Concert Assn. sponsorship. The ballet will be at Roseburg High School, where the stage is more adaptable for dance presentations.
This ballet offers many fresh ideas in theater ballet. With accent on entertainment, the production promises a combination of romantic ballet, the dramatic dance and the best tradition of lively musical Americans.
Versatility is the keynote for the performers, for each member of the company participates in the full range of production styles.
Two of the company's leading dancers serve as examples of that versatility. Dark-haired ballerina Beatrice Tompkins is famous for exquisite technique in pure ballet style. But she is as well, an all-around performer — a dancer who is also an actress. On stage she is, by turns, regal, classically precise — or dramatically intense — or delightfully satiric. Similarly, Gerald Arpino can draw on training in either classical ballet or modern dance. He has scored successes as soloist with the Nana Gollner-Paul Petroff Ballet Russe — and, at the other extreme, in a number of Broadway musicals. This kind of many-faceted background, from which is created today's new kind of theatre dancer, is found in all members of the Joffrey Ballet.

Seattle-born Robert Joffrey has produced the program. His ballet productions for The American Ballet Theatre, for the Ballet Rambert of London, and his choreography for the productions of the NBC Television Opera Theatre, have marked him as one of the leading newcomers to the dance. With equal ease he has staged the dances for a TV spectacular on baseball, with Gene Nelson and Nanette Fabray; for Stella Adler's Carnegie Playhouse production of Kurt Weill's "Johnny Johnson;" and for grand opera ballet, as done "live" on the radio or on the air by the NBC Company, or as done by the New York City Opera Co. on the huge City Center Stage.

Lewis & Clark Senior Gives Concert Here

By LOTUS PORTER
An appreciative audience heard talented Diane DeMott Spencer, a senior in the school of music at Lewis and Clark College in Portland, in concert Sunday afternoon at the First Methodist Church in Roseburg.
The young pianist is a student of Nellie Tholen. Her program was enthusiastically applauded and at the close of her concert she responded with an encore. The concert was sponsored by the Roseburg chapter of the Douglas County Music Teachers Assn.

Legibility Of Liquor Permits Are Impaired

State liquor permits may not work any more as identification for persons wishing to buy a drink. The state Liquor Control Commission said that a chemical reaction caused by the folder that encloses the 1958 liquor purchasing permit affects "considerable fading" of writing on the permits.
Admonishes the commission: "We, accordingly, caution you (retail licensees) to use great care when accepting a liquor permit as identification. It is certainly within the realm of possibility that persons under 21 years may acquire a faded permit and insert their own name in the hope that a sale of alcoholic liquor will be made."
