

Many Plywood Plants Over Northwest Close As Pinch Of Economy Is Increased

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Long-Bell division of International Paper Co. Friday announced a 25 per cent cutback in plywood production as plants closed began spreading throughout the Pacific Northwest and into California.

Long-Bell's plants at Longview, Wash., and Gardner and Vaughn, Ore., the latter near Eugene, will be cut back in output. The company said to conserve old growth timber until prices of plywood rise. Employees will either work three weeks out of four, or go on a shorter work week, a point as yet undecided.

Co-operatives and independents were the first to move to reduce shifts or to shut down, but a spokesman for a major operation said all plywood plants were forced to consider how to meet growing inventories and falling prices.

Producing Too Much
"The plants are producing more than the market wants," said B. Y. Hancock, executive vice president of Cascades Plywood Corp., whose Lebanon plant employs 1,900 men.

He said Cascades had reached no conclusion, but it was considering whether a cutback might be necessary. All plywood operators are forced now to consider such a course, he said, adding that production has exceeded demand to such a point that "even cutting the price doesn't get it off your hands."

On Feb. 21 at Grants Pass, F. A. Johnson, president of the Grants Pass Plywood Co., said the price had dropped to $64, and that meant operating below cost or at a loss.

His is one of more than a score of operations reported Friday to be either down, preparing to shut down, or cutting back on shifts.

Pacific Plywood at Dillard, Ore., began laying off men Wednesday. By Monday it will have a skeleton crew of 16 instead of the usual 150-man crew.

Nordic Plywood at Sutherlin left part of its crew on Friday and will cut off more on Monday. Umpqua Plywood at Roseburg planned to lay off 200 of its 250 men Monday.

Closures Indefinite
Closures were indefinite for the most part. Hancock said that as soon as production was cut back to a point that pipelines to buyers were cleared out, demand would pick up and production could be stepped up again.

Some mills indicated their closures might run only for a week or 10 days. Announcement was made Thursday that Custom Plywood at Grants Pass, Medford Veneer and Plywood, and Oregon Veneer, also at Medford, were closing.

The Oregonian said that it had found, in addition, Coquille Valley Lumber with plants at Milwaukie and Swasmoose closing. The newspaper said that in Washington state these closures were reported.

Centralia Plywood, Centralia; M. Baker Plywood, Bellingham; Hoquiam Plywood, Hoquiam; Elma Plywood, Elma; Hardsel Plywood, Olympia; and Totem Plywood, Tacoma.

There were other reports, too, said, of closures by Western States Plywood at Bandon, Carolina Pacific near Medford; Industrial Plywood at Coos Bay; Interstate Container, Red Bluff, Calif.; Standard Veneer, Lund Plywood and Northern California Plywood, at Crescent City, Calif.

Senators predicted the post-al bill would be vetoed by President Eisenhower because the pay boost it would provide for 500,000 postal workers is far greater than what the administration wants.

Republicans predicted the post-al bill would be vetoed by President Eisenhower because the pay boost it would provide for 500,000 postal workers is far greater than what the administration wants.

Democrats said they believed the House would decline to accept the temporary 5-cent stamp on non-local letters, the main new rate feature in the Senate bill. They said they were sure the House would insist on a flat 4-cent letter rate which it voted last year for first class mail.

The rate increases voted by the Senate last night would bring in about 732 millions annually each of the next three years. But the pay boosts passed yesterday would total 725 millions, more than offsetting the new revenue.

Publisher Killed In Crash; Son Seriously Hurt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thomas B. Purcell, publisher of the Gresham Outlook, suffered critical injuries Friday night in a traffic accident that claimed the life of his father.

The father, Tom W. Purcell, 84, was publisher of a weekly newspaper at Hampton, Iowa.

Sheriff's deputies said the car, driven by the Oregon publisher, collided with a truck driven by Robert T. Carr, 54, of Olympia, Wash. Carr suffered a knee injury.

The mishap occurred at the intersection of Denver and Union avenues in North Portland.

The two Purcells had planned to meet with the senior Purcell's granddaughter, Sue Delana Murtha, 22, of Bellevue, Wash., at a nearby service station, deputies said.

The elder Purcell was here visiting his family.

The Oregon publisher operates Gresham radio station KGRO.

Earlier, Mrs. Melissa Anne Purcell, Junction City, was killed on the Pacific Highway north of Junction City. Police said she was trying to make a left turn when her car collided with another automobile in which Mrs. Zella Vitak, 9, and Mrs. Laverne Pearl, 42, were riding. They suffered minor injuries.

Friday's deaths brought Oregon traffic toll for the month to 24 and for the year to 55 according to the Associated Press tabulation.

Claude L. Parazo, 47, of Chilquan was killed outright early Saturday when the car he was driving went out of control and struck a rock along Highway 97 near Madoc Point.

These three deaths brought Oregon's traffic toll for the year to 56, according to the Associated Press tabulation.

Korean Boy Says He Was Stabbed, Beaten, Boxed
SEOUL, Korea — A Korean boy who was nailed into a box and driven 25 miles by U.S. Army men charges he was stabbed three times, beaten and his hair cut and tarred, the Army said today.

The first report in the Army's continuing investigation of the case said Kim Choon Il, 14, charged that Capt. Marvin E. Kemp of Ft. Michael, Miss., beat and stabbed him and an unnamed soldier also beat him.

The report made no comment on the accusations. Gen. George Decker, U.S. commander in Korea, said Wednesday he regretted the situation and promised "appropriate action."

The boy was pronounced in satisfactory condition after an examination Thursday at an Army hospital. The Army said Kim was caught early Tuesday with stolen items at the 8th Army aircraft maintenance center at Anson City.

The report said Kim charged that Kemp "hit him numerous times and stabbed him just below both knees and in the arm with the point of a knife. He also said another U.S. soldier mistreated him by striking him."

U. S. Highway 30 Link Argued During Meeting
Completion of this job, along with the southern lanes of the Salem bypass, will make the 72 miles of the highway between Portland and Albany conform to four-lane interstate freeway standards.

The project approval was the largest by the commission Friday. Thursday and Friday the commission approved for award bids totaling more than $45 million dollars.

A Molalla delegation urged the commission to undertake improvement of the state highway, 212, between Oregon City and Molalla. Ted Keyler, who headed the delegation, said rapidly increasing traffic makes such improvement urgent.

The commission promised to begin the project when funds are available.

It approved for award low bids opened earlier.

Benson Cheered By Farm Prices Increase Report

WASHINGTON — Secretary of Agriculture Benson was cheered Saturday by a government report that farm prices increased 2 per cent in February to the highest level since May 1954.

The report said prices were up 8 per cent from a year ago.

Aides said the secretary expressed hope the price report, issued Friday, would help soften some of the criticism being directed at him and his policies by a group of midwestern Republican congressmen.

Advances in farm prices this year have been particularly sharp in the livestock field. Hogs brought 20 per cent higher prices in February than a year earlier. Cattle prices were about 27 per cent higher.

But these increases did not extend to dairying or to most crops. All grains were down from a year ago. Poultry prices were up slightly.

The overall increase in farm prices was offset in part by an advance of one-third of 1 per cent in level of prices paid by farmers for goods and services used in production and in family living.

Tennessee Lass Talent Winner

MOBILE, Ala. — Her husky voice singing of the ballad "Kisses Sweeter Than Wine" won the Junior Miss America Pageant's talent cup for a Tennessee girl Friday night.

The 18 contestants were to be judged in sports attire Saturday. After the judges announced Miss Barbara Lynn Walker of Chattanooga as the talent winner, the brown-haired senior from Chattanooga High School gave as an encore "I've Been Thinking," a ballad she composed. She accompanied herself with a guitar.

Miss Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve F. Walker, is 5'6 1/2 feet tall and measures 36-24-36.

The evening dress competition had been won earlier by Miss Just Wood of Hattiesburg, Miss.

Only the top winner in each phase of the competition is announced, but points of all those who place are kept by the judges and will be used in selecting the Junior Miss America Saturday night.

The lass chosen will receive a $5,000 scholarship and reign as queen of the annual Senior Bowl football game next January. Her number will receive scholarships of $3,000, $1,000 and $500.

Her sponsor, Junior Chamber of Commerce plans to make the pageant an annual feature of the Mobile Atalca Trail Festival.

Re-scheduling Of Trial Sought By Attorney
The attorney for the defendant used the word in question "in an attempt not to show there was no insurance, but to inquire as to a witness's personal interest in the outcome of the case."

He termed the judgment "out of all proportion to previous judgments awarded in Douglas county in similar cases."

The case is the same in which Wimberly Feb. 15 discharged nine jurors.

The day the jury's verdict was returned, Wimberly discharged from further duty the nine jurors who voted for the verdict.

Two petitions asking the supreme court to issue a writ of mandamus instructing Wimberly to rescind the order subsequently were filed. One was filed by Irene Skates, one of the discharged jurors, and the other by Phillip Knapple, a defendant in a suit scheduled for trial during this term of court.

The supreme court refused to take jurisdiction on the matter.

Wood Alcohol Death Toll Has Climbed To 19

NEW YORK — The death toll from wood alcohol has risen to 19. Fifteen other persons are under hospital treatment.

This is the highest toll in the city from bootlegged booze since prohibition days.

Police today arrested two men in connection with two wood alcohol deaths. Ordered held on homicide charges, they were identified as Norberto Diaz, 33, and Jose Billido, 42, both of the Bronx.

A hospitalized victim of the deadly drink was said to have identified Diaz, owner of a candy store, as his partner.

Billido was picked up in the street after Bronx detectives confiscated 10 gallons of raw alcohol in the basement of a Bronx apartment house. Late last night police reported that half the cache was wood alcohol.

Billido's alleged partner, Anna Jackson, 45, Negro, was also picked up for questioning. She is superintendent of the building.

Police said a number of the victims had attended a party of Puerto Ricans in East Harlem last weekend.

Thornton Files Suit To Restrain Road Funds Plan

SALEM — A suit that would block a new formula for apportioning federal forest highway funds is planned by Atty. Gen. Robert Y. Thornton.

An aid here said Thornton went to the nation's capital Friday to file a temporary restraining order to delay application of the formula which he feels would mean loss of revenue to Oregon.

Under the present formula, a state gets funds for building roads in proportion to the size and value of its forests.

The new formula reportedly would switch the emphasis from value to needs of funds. Thornton believes this would injure Oregon financially and favor some other less heavily forested states.

Apportionment of funds under the present program is handled by the secretaries of Agriculture and Commerce.

Manila Papers Rally To Defense Of Fired General

MANILA — Manila's two leading newspapers rallied today to the defense of Air Force Maj. Gen. John B. Ackerman, who was ousted from his Philippines command for spending too much on his living quarters.

The Manila Times said the charge against Ackerman "is altogether too trivial beside the fact that the Clark Air Base commander has done his utmost to improve Philippines-American relations in the brief period he has been here."

The Manila Bulletin said news of the ouster surprised everyone associated with the 13th Air Force commander, who had been looked on as an officer with a bright future. The official explanation was "a lot of swallowing," the paper added.

Ackerman was relieved by Washington Thursday on the ground he had undermined morale by overlavishly refurbishing four sets of living quarters—three for himself, one for his wife and one for his daughter.

An Air Force spokesman said Ackerman's future in the service will be determined after a thorough investigation.

26 Believed Drowned As Bus Goes In River

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. — Last year a flood caused physical and economic hardships. Nine accidents are remembered.

Almost every face reflected shock and pain yesterday. Many cried openly. One woman ran up and down the road sobbing and screaming. Her child was on the bus.

Mr. and Mrs. James B. Goble, who lost their three children, said "The hardest thing now is to know what to do with ourselves."

Mrs. Goble, a school teacher, said some of the missing had attended her classes.

One survivor, Winston Dillon, 17, said he pulled out two or three boys.

David Wright, 15, was sitting by a window when the bus went into the river. "I managed to roll it down and crawl out. I pulled two girls out with me."

New Firearms Regulation Now In Effect

WASHINGTON — New firearms regulations, stripped of several proposed requirements which stirred up widespread protests last year, went into effect Saturday.

The new rules require, among other things, that revolvers, pistols and high powered rifles be stamped with the manufacturer's name, plus the serial number, caliber and model designation.

Conspicuously absent from the regulations are these requirements proposed earlier:

That dealers keep, along with other data, a record of all sales of ammunition for pistols, revolvers and high-powered rifles.

That all purchasers of such weapons or ammunition for them give their signatures.

That all shotguns and small rifles be stamped with the maker's name and serial number.

The new rules provide: The manufacturer's name must be stamped on all firearms, but other data — serial number, caliber and model — may be omitted in the case of shotguns and 22 caliber rifles unless they are subject to provisions of the National Firearms Act. This act governs traffic in sawed-off shotguns, rifles and automatic weapons.

An extension from 5 to 10 years of the period in which licensed dealers are required to keep records of all acquisitions and sales of firearms.

C. Starkweather, Accused Slayer, Waives Hearing

LINCOLN, Neb. — Runtly Charles R. Starkweather waived at the last minute a preliminary hearing Saturday on first degree murder charges and was bound over to district court for trial.

The decision apparently was reached in a conference with his temporary attorney, Hal Bauer, serving at the request of the Legal Aid Bureau. Bauer said it was agreed a preliminary hearing would "not be to his advantage."

The 19-year-old red-head, admitted slayer of 11 persons, was brought to the downtown courthouse for his second court appearance in Lincoln on Wednesday Jan. 22. He was hustled into court under heavy guard past a cordon of news cameramen, whom he ignored. Twenty minutes later he was on his way back to the penitentiary.

Starkweather, and his 14-year-old friend, Carl Fugate, have been charged with first degree murder in connection with the killing of Robert Jensen, 17, Bennet, Neb., one of nine Nebraska kids during the wild crime spree late in January.

Starkweather and Carl were captured in Wyoming after a Montana salesman was killed near Casper. Starkweather has admitted killing a Lincoln service station attendant.

Little Rock White Girl Expelled From School

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. — The Little Rock School Board yesterday expelled a white girl from integrated Central High School for the remainder of the term. Her father immediately accused school officials of persecuting her.

Sammy Dean Parker, 16, a petite blonde who has figured in a recent racial incident at Central High, was the first white pupil expelled from the trouble-ridden school.

The board declined to say why she was ousted. She was suspended Feb. 17 in connection with a display of cards saying "one down, one up" after the expulsion of Minnie Mae Brown, one of the nine Negroes who entered Central High last September under the guard of federal troops.

Five Americans Feared Drowned In Danube River

PASSAU, Germany — U.S. Army soldiers and German police today searched the muddy waters of the Danube River for the bodies of five American soldiers missing and presumed drowned.

Army authorities launched an investigation of twin accidents last night in which two Army trucks plunged into the river near Passau within about 20 minutes.

The Army said one truck going to Passau with a load of rations skidded into the river with five soldiers aboard. Two got out and were rescued from the water by German civilians.

Lumber By Pound System Proposed During Session

EUGENE — A lumberman told the Willamette Valley Logging Conference that wood products some day will be sold by the pound or ton.

These measurements will replace the present scaling method because "A scale stick doesn't measure the value of a piece of wood," L. L. Stewart said.

Stewart is president of the Bohemia Lumber Co. of Cottage Grove.

Some 500 delegates also heard Hill Hult of Junction City state that a growing number of medium sized mill operators are going to "throw in the sponge."

The Hult Lumber Co. president said the mill owners will either sell or shut down because "our tax laws are against us. If the property or income tax doesn't get you the inheritance tax surely will."

The delegates approved a number of resolutions, including one in opposition to U. S. Senate Bill 1175.

They said the measure would set aside 35 million acres of land as wilderness areas.

The delegates elected as their new president Carl Raynor of Springfield, president of the Booth Kelly Lumber Co.

Other new officers included Duane Pearl, Coos Bay, vice president; A. D. McReynolds, Eugene, treasurer; and Robert Cross, Eugene, secretary-manager.

Directors elected Friday were Pearl; Steve Waite, Vernonia; Andrew Losler, Nehalem; Joe Lebo, Toledo; Glen Bailey, Foster; Dick Schottboefer, Stayton; Gordon Bell, Lebanon; Walt Anderson, Vaughn; and Richard Hamlin, Roseburg.

Rackets Probers May Call Both Reuther, Kohler

WASHINGTON — The Senate Rackets Investigating Committee said today it hopes to call Walter Reuther and Herbert Kohler for questioning next week about a vote-buying strike in which they are key figures.

Reuther is president of the United Auto Workers Union. Kohler is president of a Wisconsin plumbing firm which hears his name.

A committee is exploring bitter violence which has marked the UAW's strike against the company. Each side has blamed the other for the violence. The strike is 45 months old and still unsettled by the Kohler Co. plant at Kohler, Wis., is operating.

There has been testimony about mass picketing, strong arm tactics and acts of vandalism. The committee also has heard that the Kohler Co. bought guns and ammunition after its plant was organized by the UAW in 1952. A company lawyer testified the Kohler firm started buying guns "because we knew the record of the UAW in strikes."

Chessman Loses Legal Maneuver

LOS ANGELES — Carl Chessman's hopes for avoiding execution in the gas chamber were all but gone today, but not his grim determination to stay alive.

"Are you giving up?" a reporter asked after a court ruling slammed shut the door of the death cell. Chessman, 36, had pried open a crack through 10 years of legal maneuvering.

"I'm not not for that," he replied.

The convict-author will return within 10 days to San Quentin's death row to await a State Supreme Court review of his 1948 conviction on 17 counts of kidnaping, robbery and sex offenses.

The high court has already upheld his conviction and death sentence, but by questioning the validity of the 10-year-old trial transcript Chessman won the hearing climaxed by yesterday's ruling. In effect it turns back the clock to 1948 and makes another Supreme Court review necessary.

Elgin Baylor is back on top of the individual basketball scoring race among the major colleges. But his lead over Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson is only a fraction of a point.

The 31 points Baylor scored in Seattle's 94-69 victory over Pacific Lutheran Friday night boosted his average to 34.55 on 760 points in 21 games according to the NCAA Service Bureau. Robertson, idle Friday night, has a 34.43 average. Kansas' Wilt Chamberlain also picked up some ground with 32 points against Oklahoma to send his average up to 39.5.

PLAIN TRUTH

By Glen W. Lundy: Gospel Evangelist

When the unbiased mind investigates the "Acts of the Apostles," the conclusion is reached that belief, repentance, and baptism was taught and obeyed by men and women, Jew and Gentile. Can there be any doubt in your mind as to the soundness of this teaching? Can we not all agree that he who renders such obedience, "from the heart," would be fulfilling God's requirements? Are we not compelled to believe that those who believe in Jesus as the Christ, repent and turn away from sin, confess His name in word and deed, and are baptized into Christ have complied with the provisions of Christ's will and thus are heirs of eternal life if their consciences faithful until death?

What then of the modern teaching that "it matters not what one does as long as they are sincere"? Did the Apostles teach, "pleasing one self," or "obedience"? Again the popular doctrine that God will forgive the alien sinner through prayer. Where do we find the Apostles teaching such a doctrine? Cornelius prayed, his prayer was heard but it was necessary that he be "baptized with water." Cornelius was not saved through prayer but through obedience to the will of Christ as revealed in Him. Peter, Read again the account of Paul's preaching and see if there is any hint of "Praying through" to become a child of God? Review again the pattern of obedience as revealed by the Apostles then consider which is safe, obeying God or following the mere convenient, "teachings of men."

You are urged to write in your questions, lend for free Bible correspondence course, listen to KYES each Lord's Day morning at 9 o'clock and worship where Christ's will is respected and obeyed.
