THE EASTER STORY is read by Rod to Patty, Bobby and Beth in the above picture. The story was well-known to the three children, who could repeat it themselves practically word for word.

EASTER BONNETS are just as important to little girls as to the big ones. In the picture above, Beth, left, and Patty, right, try on their Easter bonnets.

ALL SET for coloring Easter eggs are Mrs. Nevue and Patty, Beth and Bobby and even though Bobby is only 2½, he was right in there and had as many colored as the girls did.

A REAL LIVE EASTER BUNNY blinks its pink eyes and wiggles its pink ears at Bobby, who would have loved holding it himself, but to play safe and not have to chase the bunny all over the neighborhood, Rod held him for "safety's sake."
