U. S. Information Office Burned By French; Rioters Block Streets In Beirut

People Chased From Streets

By TOM MASTERTON
BEIRUT, Lebanon — Rioters smashed shops, blocked the streets with flaming barricades and chased people from the sidewalks Tuesday in violent protest against Lebanon's pro-Western government.
Demonstrators roamed through Beirut for the second straight day. Organized bands were determined to force a general strike and bring business to a standstill. They smashed windows and wrecked the insides of shops that defied their orders to close. Taxis that ventured into the streets were smashed.
More barricades were set up in the streets and some were set afire to make them more effective as roadblocks.
Fervish political maneuvering was under way in an effort to restore order. The political opposition disclaimed any responsibility for the bloodshed and violence, blaming a subversive element working in the ranks of peaceful demonstrators.

Five Lebanese Killed
Five Lebanese customs officials were killed in an attack near the Syrian border and five more were reported in Tuesday's fighting in Beirut.
This pushed the nation's death toll since the fighting started Saturday to at least 36.
Associated Press correspondent Wilton Wynn and his wife were stoned but not injured on their way into Beirut from the airport.
Two persons were killed Tuesday night when they ignored orders to halt. Three bombs were found on one and a pistol on the other.

In The Day's News

Fantastic note in the news: Vice-President Nixon has been planning tentatively to visit European capitals late this summer on a friends-making mission. However—in the light of rowdy demonstrations that have greeted some of his Latin American appearances (notably the stone-throwing ruckus in Peru the other day)—a question has now arisen in Washington as to whether the good will he might engender overseas would outweigh the AMERICAN resentment that would ensue if he were greeted with the kind of Yankee-Go-Home displays the communists are said to be able to organize in some Western European countries.
As a result of this situation, Washington correspondents report:

U. S. Employee Is Roughed Up

ALGIERS — French demonstrators sacked the U. S. Information Agency Office here Tuesday and then marched past the American consulate.
About 50,000 persons poured through the streets protesting the designation of Pierre Pflimlin as French premier. They then turned the parade into an anti-American demonstration.
The USA office, third to be attacked in Africa and the Middle East in four days, was almost demolished. A State Department employe inside was shoved around by French students but was unhurt.

Smash Windows
The shouting French smashed windows and furniture and threw books out into the street.
The mob sacked the newspaper office of the Journal D'Alger. It has been accused by diehard right wingers of being too liberal in its policy toward the almost four year old Nationalist rebellion.
The crowds included large numbers of student and war veterans. Many shouted, "The army to power."
Two policemen were on duty at the USA office but did not intervene.

Anti-American Feeling
The demonstrations came as the city's activity was brought to a standstill by a total strike. The Moslem workers stayed home and Moslem shopkeepers put down their shutters. The streets of the Arab Casbah were empty of Arabs.
The demonstrations reflected rising anti-American feeling in Algeria. Many French here believe the United States would like to see Algeria independent of French rule.

The demonstrators broke into the USA office in mid-afternoon. Don Davies of Great Falls, Mont., was in the office at the time but was unhurt.
An American source said that the demonstrators included a number of war veterans, who are among the most outspoken right-wingers in Algeria.
Davies in a State Department official said:
"Some French students grabbed me and shoved me in a back room until it was all over. The place is all torn up. I haven't yet had time to assess the damage.
I think a mob of a crowd was out to hurt anyone."

Sentences Suspended After Two Plead Guilty

Two men indicted last month on charges of obtaining money by false pretenses were given one-year sentences and probation Monday by Circuit Judge Charles S. Woodrich following pleas of guilty.
The two, who previously had pleaded guilty to a total of $10,000 in stolen money, are Fred B. Reese, 31, Sutherlin, and Ivan Hatley, 48, Canyonville. Reese was charged with cashing a bad check for $6 last Dec. 24 at a Roseburg service station. The charge against Hatley alleged he cashed a bad $10 check at a Roseburg welding shop on June 4, 1956.

The annual convention of the Oregon Assn. of City Police Officers, capped off by a dinner talk by Gov. Robert D. Holmes, was held through its first full day's agenda Monday at the Umpqua Hotel.
The affair will end tonight following a business meeting at 2 p.m. Officers for the coming year will be elected during the meeting. Some 150 delegates were registered as the affair got underway in earnest Monday morning.

Holmes, speaking at the association's annual banquet, used as his theme the responsibility of society in general in the battle against crime.
He said that too many citizens expect the police to "quickly and efficiently" clean up juvenile crime situations.
He said the rising crime rate, especially among juveniles, is "not only a police problem — it is a social problem."

Police Need Co-operation
Continuing, he said, "To attack it, we must re-assess it through the home. The police need a lot of dedicated co-operation."
Too many citizens, said Holmes, "expect the police to quickly and efficiently clean up" juvenile crime situations.

"I think that too often society disassociates itself from juvenile crime," he added. "Crime, even if committed by children, cannot be overlooked."
The governor said that he believes the general public "is not doing a good job in educating itself about police work," but that it still expects police officers to attend both on-the-job and other training schools in addition to performing their regular duties.
Holmes, however, lauded such training and said it is partly responsible for the high efficiency of Oregon's police.

Morning Frost Didn't Cause Heavy Damage

An early morning frost which blanketed many lowland areas around Roseburg is believed to have caused only slight damage to garden crops.
The U. S. Weather Bureau reported the temperature dipped to 31 at the airport between 5 and 6 a.m., leaving the ground and vegetation covered with frost.
However, this was gone soon after the sun rose over the hills.
Some crop damage was reported in the Riverside area where about half of 3-9 tomato plants set out Monday were killed on the Don Kruse farm on Quail Lane.
No one in the area reported any damage to fruit trees.

A small crowd gathered in front of the courthouse Monday to hear Gov. Robert D. Holmes start Conservation Week in Douglas County with a brief address.
Gov. Holmes stressed the importance of people understanding the importance of conservation in all its aspects. "People are the key to sound conservation practices," he declared. "They are the ones who demand and get wise conservation practices."
He told his audience that the basic premise of conservation is the realization that "we are here as stewards for the God-given resources we have."
The governor said, "We must consistently work so up-coming generations will not have just as much but will have more."
He stressed the importance of stored water and said he believes people of Oregon are now understanding, more than ever, the value of water storage. Holmes pointed out that this doesn't mean only dams on major rivers but includes reservoirs on small streams. Multiple-use dams to produce power, control flooding and provide irrigation water are a basic element of conservation, according to Holmes.
"I think the states which learn to get the maximum beneficial use

Council Returns Bids On Sewers

Bids on three Roseburg sewer projects were returned unopened Monday afternoon by the City Council in a special meeting.
The action was taken because of a misunderstanding of the provisions of the payment clause of the contract. City Manager George Ferrell said he knew of two bidders who didn't submit bids because of the contract wording.
Contractors will be asked to submit bids June 2 on sewer extensions in Miller's Addition, Sundale Village and Hucrest. Engineer's estimates on the projects are $76,101.82 for Miller's; $2,070.59 for Sundale Village; $43,661.82 for Hucrest.
Only four bids were submitted: Jeske Bros. of Eugene; Den Herder Construction Co. of Lebanon; Carl P. Talon of Roseburg, and Paul Ferneding of Vancouver, Wash.
In other action taken at the special meeting, the council approved the monthly estimates of firms working on sewer projects. Okayed were John Todd's estimate of $23,118.73 for disposal plant work, and $3,445.25 for Salem Sand and Gravel for interceptor sewer work.
The council also approved the monthly statement of the engineering firm directing sewer work. Cornell, Howland, Hayes and Sturryfield, Corvallis, had submitted a bill for $1,045.65.
By taking care of these items of business, the council was able to cancel the evening meeting which had been slated for 8:30 o'clock.

Myrtle Cr. Board To Open Two Bids On School Buses

Bids will be opened June 16 by members of the Myrtle Creek School Board for two new school buses.
The board Monday night voted to advertise for bids. They pointed out funds have been set aside from budgets of the last two years for purchase of the buses to replace older equipment.
Members will meet Sunday at 2 p.m. on the school grounds to tour the Myrtle Creek and Tri-City school plants. This is preparatory to ordering maintenance work on the buildings this summer. Five school buildings and a heating plant are within the district.
In other action, the board went along with recommendations of Paul Froehlich, clerk, for a revision of the district's accounting system to modernize it and improve efficiency.
School Supt. Al Neet was asked to inquire further into the cost for installing bleacher seats at the Myrtle Creek High School football field.
Discussed also Monday night was what to do with an old pioneer cemetery located off Highway 99 South. It was learned recently the cemetery was deeded many years ago to the school district by a pioneer Oregon rancher. Neet and board members are expected to seek legal advice.

Officers said Taylor was lodged in county jail on a charge of being drunk on a public highway.

JOHN DAY, Ore. — Mrs. Bruce Davis, rescued from mountain snows three weeks ago after a plane crash, lost her left foot in surgery Monday because of frostbite.
Her husband, Fresno, Calif., band leader Bruce Davis, whose amazing stamina in a three-day struggle to civilization led to her rescue, was with her.
Her general condition is fine and her mental attitude is wonderful," said Dr. Martha Vander Vlugt, whose husband, Dr. Jerry Vander Vlugt, performed the surgery.
It still is not certain whether Mrs. Davis, 35, is to lose some of the toes of her right foot, the woman member of the husband and wife medical team said.

Foot Frozen
Mrs. Davis' feet were frozen as she lay for three days in the snow in the Blue Mountains of Eastern Oregon.
The husband suffered frostbite, too, she said, in his long wanderings. He has remained at the hospital since the April 24 rescue for treatment of that and of broken ribs, fractured when his plane, lost in clouds, crashed.
The amputation of Mrs. Davis' foot was not unexpected, Dr. Vander Vlugt said.
"They have known from the beginning that this was serious. But as she puts it, 'loss of foot is a small price to pay for a life.'"
"She has a really good philosophy."

Davises talk to their children at Fresno by telephone each day.
Some time next week, Dr. Vander Vlugt said, they may be able to go home to them.
The Davis plane crashed while on a flight from Fresno to Spokane, his former home.

5 Drug Companies Indicted On Price Fixing Charges

TRENTON, N. J. — Five big drug companies have issued denials to a federal indictment charging them with violating the anti-trust laws in the sale of polio vaccine to government agencies.
A federal grand jury meeting here yesterday indicted the five for conspiring to fix prices and eliminate competition in the sale of the vaccine to federal, state and local governments.
Most of the 125 million dollars worth of Salk vaccine that had been sold by the end of last year went to public agencies. The bulk of it was purchased under the Polio-vaccine Vaccination Assistance Act of 1955, which provided for the allocation of 53 million dollars in federal funds to the states.
The firms, Merck & Co. of Rahway, N. J.; American Home Products Corp., New York City; Eli Lilly & Co., Indianapolis, Ind.; Parke, Davis & Co., Detroit, and Allied Laboratories, Inc., Kansas City, Mo., issued their denials soon after the indictments were made public.

Officers reported Seybert was operating the 1949 sedan when a tire blew out and the car went through a fence, flipped around, continued backwards for 144 feet and came to rest facing north on the highway.
The vehicle, listed as a total, was towed from the scene.

Second Youth Lodged On Contributing Charge

A second youth has been confined to county jail here under $2,000 bond on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.
He was identified as James Delbert Nelson, 20, Route 3. Authorities said today they believe Nelson was involved in a mid-April incident along with Donald Roy Baker, 21, of Burbank, Calif., who was cited in a similar charge late last month.
The pair allegedly took two Roseburg girls, ages 14 and 15, to a cabin in the hills, where they stayed several days.
