OTI President Is Speaker At Canyonville Graduation

By VIRGINIA PROCTOR
Winston Purvine, president of Oregon Technical Institute, was guest speaker at Canyonville High School commencement exercises.

He urged the graduates to make the most of their capabilities in this age of automation. He also urged them not to compromise their abilities in selecting a career, and stated figures to indicate the rise in professional and trade job opportunities and the decrease in unskilled fields.

The Rev. Carl Walker of the First Baptist Church delivered both invocation and benediction. Patricia Smith delivered the valedictory and Gloria Johnson, the salutatory address after which the Ponsonby Sisters sang the graduation song.

Supt. O. J. Monger presented awards and James Fuller, school board chairman, presented diplomas.

Professional, recessional and the flower girl march were accompanied by the Canyonville school band under the direction of Eugene Southwell.

Thirty-two young people were formally promoted from Canyonville school's eighth grade ceremonies Wednesday evening which featured Robert G. Davis, circuit judge nominee, as main speaker.

Of the 32, eight had been together in the school since first grade. Honor graduates making 2 or better were Carol Fuller, Jackie Gross, Patty Ponsonby, Renee Pritchett, Vic Wood, Roger Riepe, Sharla Bea Shandy, valedictorian, Susan Wheaton, salutatorian, Diane Daniels, Rita Brown and Dick Long.

The Rev. Cyril Dorsett of the Methodist Church presented invocation and benediction. Richard Nix presented patrol awards; Tom Burke presented the honor students and school board member, Robert Head, presented diplomas. The junior high chorus under the direction of Bill Marsters sang "Trees," and the eighth grade class sang its class song accompanied by Carol Fuller and directed by Victor Fitzpatrick.
