

Melrose Grange Announces State Grange Delegates

By NETTIE WOODRUFF
Melrose Grange delegates attending state grange session in Eugene next week will be Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Woodruff.

Several other members have announced plans to attend the meeting.

The HE Club meeting has been changed from June 11 to June 18 at the Earl Siples home with a noon potluck picnic.

Mrs. Andrew Hanson, chaplain, presented the evening's program which consisted of a quiz game on grange work, a memory game and several songs. Carl Becker, legislative chairman, reported on the passing of the postal bill and the passing by the house of representatives of the Alaska statehood bill.

Tour Coastal Points
Kenneth Miller and Lynn Damon and friends toured coastal points Memorial Day.

A large crowd attended the Melrose school picnic Tuesday evening. The affair was held in the play field instead of the patio because of inclement weather.

Weekend visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Sibley Nielsen and family included Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Nielsen and two sons of Willow Ranch, Calif.; Mr. and Mrs. William Branson and two sons of Willow Falls; Olga Will of Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Pete Venstraa spent the weekend visiting at Diamond Lake with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Aebel, who are spending the summer there, and also spending some time at coastal points.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Coffell and Mrs. Sarah Brown spent the holiday weekend in Salem visiting the former couple's niece, Mrs. Darrell Crossler, and Mr. Crossler. Crossler's mother, who is Mrs. Coffell's sister from Montana, was

Starkweather Must Die In Electric Chair On Dec. 17

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP)—Charles Starkweather, 19-year-old killer, will die in the electric chair Dec. 17, 1958.

District Judge Harry Spencer, who presided at the trial of Starkweather for the slaying of Robert Jensen, 17, of Bennet, Neb., fixed the date for the carrying out of the sentence prescribed by the jury which convicted Starkweather. Judge Spencer first overruled Starkweather's application for a new trial.

The Supreme Court could delay or set aside the execution order. Starkweather looked at Judge Spencer straight in the eye when the judge announced the execution date.

When Spencer asked him if there was any reason why sentence should not be pronounced, Starkweather shook his head vigorously and replied "no."

Starkweather's attorney had listed 17 reasons why they thought a new trial should be granted.

Carl Fugate, Starkweather's 14-year-old girl companion on the January killing spree, still awaits trial. She also was charged with first degree murder.

Father Whips, Bites 16-Month Old Son To Death

ATLANTA (AP)—Police held an unemployed construction worker for murder today in the brutal killing of his 16-month-old son. The child was beaten and savagely bitten on his entire body.

Detective Lt. George Christian quoted John Campbell, 27, as saying he whipped his son pretty bad and then got mad and bit him all over.

The officer said John Robert Campbell was bitten 50 to 60 times. Campbell's explanation to police was that the child "wouldn't do anything."

Police asked the father why he bit the child.

"Because a couldn't hurt him bad enough with the belt, I reckon," Campbell replied.

The attack occurred Friday in the Campbell home at Roswell, 15 miles from Atlanta. Officers quoted the 18-year-old mother as saying she witnessed the beating and biting. She made no attempt to stop her husband.

"It was his child and he could beat it if he wanted to," the mother told police. "As for the biting, he bites anyone when he gets mad. He has bitten me several times."

Mrs. Campbell is expecting a second child.

Police held Campbell at County Jail. A few cells away was Harold C. Summers, 36, an unemployed man from suburban East Point. Summers is charged with the murder of his 3-year-old son, Danny. The child died in a doctor's office after being beaten Thursday with a belt.

Ex-Deputy Sheriff John McCool Put On 3-Yr. Probation

John Howard McCool, former Douglas county deputy sheriff at Drain, was given three years probation by Circuit Court Judge Charles S. Woodrich Friday when he faced trial for writing a check with insufficient funds in the bank.

On April 12 he issued the $200 check to bail bondsman Vern Murdoch, Sr. of Roseburg. It was written on the First National Bank of Gold Beach where McCool now resides.

Judge Woodrich sentenced 26-year-old Mrs. Edna Schaefer of Reedsport to three years in the state penitentiary at Salem after she pleaded guilty to forging of a $75 check. He then suspended the sentence and placed the mother of three on probation for the length of her term.

Appeal For Leniency
An appeal for leniency was made by Verden Hackett, assistant district attorney. The woman said she forged the check to buy medicine for her ailing daughter and purchase food. Her husband was unemployed at the time the check was written on May 20.

The check was given at Emery's IGA Store in Reedsport, and signed H. Heitz.

In another criminal action Friday Richard Nolan Thomas, 19, of Roseburg faced a charge of violating probation. Judge Woodrich listened to a lengthy plea for leniency by his attorney who said the youth had a job waiting for him in Astoria and would live there with his father, a former state trooper.

Disposition of the case was taken under advisement by Judge Woodrich, who said he would make a decision Monday morning. Thomas was found guilty in February of this year of burglary not in a dwelling and was given probation. His arrest followed a Feb. 8 burglary of Schermer's Bottling Works at 2833 Harvard Avenue in which $283 had been stolen from the company safe.

Slain Trucking Head Suffered Horrible Death

NEW YORK (AP)—Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan says Samuel Wolkoff, slain trucking executive, had no appointment with the prosecutor's office.

Wolkoff, 42, had told his wife Thursday that he would be home late because he had to see a detective from the district attorney's office.

The Brooklyn man was found strangled to death Friday on Manhattan's West Side. An autopsy performed by Dr. Milton Helper, medical examiner, disclosed that Wolkoff had met a horrible death.

He suffered for hours, Helper said. There were hemorrhages of the eyes and of the back of the tongue. Bits of hemp hung to the neck.

"All this indicates that whoever strangled him alternately tightened and loosened the rope over a period of hours."

Buffed police said preliminary investigation uncovered no motive for the crime.

The victim's wallet was missing, but a ring, wrist watch and cigarette lighter were untouched and police were inclined to discount robbery as a motive.

Hogan announced:

"There is no basis for the remark attributed to the deceased that he had an appointment with a representative of this office."

Glendale Residents Plan Tour Of Belgian Congo

By MRS. GERALD B. FOX
Mr. and Mrs. Joe Anderson of Fortune Branch near Glendale, have scheduled a two-month sight-seeing and hunting trip to the Belgian Congo area of Africa.

They plan to leave by Pan American Airlines from Portland this Saturday. They will fly from Portland to New York City, then on to Lisbon, Portugal. From there, they will go directly to Leopoldville, in the Congo and then to Kundo, in the Eastern Congo.

At Kundo, they will be met by Rev. J. J. Davis whose home is in Glendale. Rev. Davis, many years a missionary for the Methodist Church in Africa, will act as the Andersons' guide for the time they spend in the Congo.

The Andersons will return to Glendale about August 7. Mr. and Mrs. John Jantzer of Grants Pass will take care of the Anderson home during their absence.

Anderson is employed at the Robert Dollar Mill in Glendale. Mrs. Anderson is a member of the Glendale Grade School faculty.

Rev. Warren O. Nowowiejski, missionary to Colombia, South America, was speaker at the Glendale Assembly of God Church last Sunday. He showed slides pertaining to denominational work in Colombia.

Several members of the Glendale Southern Baptist Church attended

Misunderstanding Spelled Disaster For Submarine

HONOLULU (AP)—A misunderstanding spelled disaster for the sunken submarine Stickleback, a sailor testified.

Electricians mate I.C. Robert B. Mehring told a Navy board of inquiry he caused the fatal power failure on the Stickleback by turning a rheostat the wrong way.

The Stickleback sank off Oahu May 29 after being rammed by the destroyer escort Silverstein. Mehring was at the controls with William L. Lehmbach, another electricians mate, when the sub's skipper ordered flank speed. Lehmbach said he told Mehring to "come off" on his panel because he did not have enough field current to switch to flank speed.

Mehring said he thought he heard "come on" and turned the rheostat to bring power up for ordered speed.

The mistake tripped circuit breakers and cut off the Stickleback's main power. She plunged out of control and then unexpectedly surfaced directly in front of the Silverstein. No casualty resulted from the collision.

Officers on the board said Mehring would not be punished for his mistake because it was a technical error and not carelessness.

Tornado Deaths Now Stand At 28

MENOMONIE, Wis. (AP)—This tornado stricken section began to bury its dead Saturday behind the protection of roadblocks thrown up to turn back the curious.

The barricades went up last night on the orders of Gov. Vernon Thompson who said he wanted to close off the area to morbid curiosity seekers who sought to explore the communities ravaged Wednesday night by three tornadoes that claimed 28 lives.

While recovery work went ahead, funeral services were scheduled today for three of the victims. Two of them were killed in Colfax, hard-hit community where 12 died.

Additional funerals will be held tomorrow and Monday.

The casualty list was reduced to 28 yesterday when authorities discovered that one boy was carried on the death list three times, under differing identifications. At the same time, the latest victim died of injuries.

The Red Cross said 350 persons were injured. A total of 432 homes and farm buildings were destroyed and another 1,032 damaged.

There was no official estimate of the dollar loss, but Gov. Thomson estimated it would run into millions.

NAACP Defends Clennon King

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People today jumped to the defense of Clennon King, a Negro professor ordered to the state mental hospital after his attempt to enroll in the all-white University of Mississippi.

The 37-year-old King, who advocated segregation while a faculty member of the all-Negro Alcorn (Miss.) A&M College, tried to enroll at the university in Oxford Thursday. State highway patrolmen who had shadowed him every move en route to the campus, whisked him away to an isolated cell in state highway patrol headquarters.

King was taken to the nearby Whitfield Hospital Friday after two physicians at a lunacy hearing recommended he be given psychiatric examination.

In New York, the NAACP, at odds with King for his segregation stand, said "no question was raised as to Professor King's mentality when he advocated segregation and attacked this association and the Supreme Court of the United States in a series of newspaper articles in Mississippi which were syndicated to many Southern daily papers."

"The American code of fair play would be grossly violated by any effort to attach an official Mississippi finding of mental impairment to Professor King's reputation."

President Heuss In Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—West Germany's President Theodor Heuss came to Philadelphia Saturday on the first stage of his 16-day tour of the United States. He said he found much in this historic city to remind him of the true spirit of his people.

The 74-year-old Heuss, who speaks no English, arrived at International Airport from Washington and was welcomed with a burst of music played by a 50-piece band and by a committee of state and city dignitaries. The 168th Field Artillery fired a 21-gun salute.

In winding up his three-day state visit in Washington, the German leader, Secretary of State Dulles says farewell with a half of President Eisenhower and the American people.

Later Saturday Heuss was to fly to Hanover, N.H. He will accept an honorary degree from Dartmouth College there Sunday.

With scarcely a breather, he will travel on to Detroit, then to Chicago, San Francisco, the Grand Canyon in Arizona, Williamsburg and Charlottesville in Virginia, and finally to New York.

On-Scene Account Given Of Plane Search

inquire about a jarring explosion. Buster Stratton, who lives three miles east of Curtin, was logging near his place when he heard what he said "spilling, shrill sound," and then a crash. He was lying so low he could see nothing, so he took it for granted that it was just a big tree being felled.

Crash Shook Ground
He said he wondered, however, because the crash seemed to shake the ground. When he heard a plane had crashed, he insisted it must have gone down just above him on the ridge.

By 11 a.m., it was still too soupy for search assistance from airplanes, but Sgt. Richard Bouey of Roseburg, who was in charge of the ground search, led four men on a reconnaissance search. One of the four returned to say he was certain he had seen what was the scene of the crash.

This brought other searchers to the scene. They scouted the ridge just as the report from the two boys' youth of Curtin came in on a walky-talky radio.

The scene then quickly shifted to the ridge. They led searchers to the unappreciated point of impact over the steep, brushy hills while Navy investigators were called. The investigators soon arrived in a helicopter, which flittered to a landing some distance from the crash site but deep in the brushy, wooded country.

Finding the crash site from the air would have been virtually impossible. The plane had bulleted in under trees, disturbing them practically not at all.

Search For Pilot
The next project was to find the pilot, and that was even tougher. His parachute was found over another ridge about a quarter of a mile away on a steep hillside. There was no sign of a harness.

Searchers, including state and county police, local loggers and just interested people, began combing the steep brushy slopes despite rain which continued most of the day and soon some of them found the pilot's helmet. It was about a quarter of a mile from the parachute. The buckles had been torn from the headpiece. The shattered Plexiglas canopy, a kneepad and a life raft were also found. With these indications that the pilot had not crashed with the plane, the search continued until after dark.

At about 10 p.m., searching personnel was withdrawn, and deputy sheriffs were left as security guards. Meanwhile, Norman Wilson and his bloodhounds arrived on the scene but it was decided not to continue the search until 8:30 a.m. today. They stayed at Anlauf overnight.

The full-scale search, with the assistance of Eugene National Guardsmen, started at 8:30, under the direction of St. Rosey and Sheriff Ira Byrd.

French Cabinet Moves Quickly To End Strife

ment was an obvious move to weaken the military rulers in the junta that took over in Algiers May 13 and demanded De Gaulle's return to power.

The cabinet lost no time approving De Gaulle's plan of complete integration of the nine million Arabs who live in Algeria with the 11 million Frenchmen there.

De Gaulle will go on the national radio, probably next Saturday, to report to the French people on his trip to Algeria.

The cabinet also planned to promote mass demonstrations of unity throughout France on June 18.

The 10th anniversary of the famed broadcast which De Gaulle made over the British Broadcasting Corp. network calling on Free France to continue the fight after it was overrun by the Germans in 1940.

De Gaulle in his final day at Oran Friday made clear to the insurgents of Algeria a committee of Public Safety, the official name of the junta, that its members no longer will rule in Algeria.

Lower Court's Verdict Appealed

An appeal from a lower court judgment involving payment of a claim was filed in circuit court Friday by Orley and Edna Thompson of Roseburg and the Ohio Casualty Insurance Co.

On May 15 District Judge Warren A. Woodruff found for defendants Joseph Ives Lynch and Thomas Earl Beall, two Douglas County road department employes. Plaintiffs had alleged negligence on the part of truck driver Beall and flagman Lynch after the Thompson car had hit a department vehicle at some road construction on Roberts Road.

They had asked for $203 which the insurance company said the road workmen owed according to Oregon law. This was denied by the district court judge.

The Thompsons are seeking a $903 judgment and $200 attorney's fees.

United States Orders Soviet Diplomat Ousted

to Soviet Embassy counselor Sergei R. Striganov Friday by Foy D. Kohler, deputy assistant secretary of state for European affairs.

Expelled For Actions
The State Department recalled that on Jan. 14, 1957 Maj. Yuri P. Krylov of the Soviet Embassy was expelled "for similar actions" and the Embassy was warned at that time to see that the purchase of documents by means of improper payments to American citizens be discontinued immediately.

"Baker, a 30-year-old second secretary of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow, was expelled after Soviet officials charged that he 'systematically violated the norms of behavior for diplomatic representatives.'" The United States protested that this was not true. Baker said his offense seemed to be that he was friendly toward fellow students at Moscow University.

Aged Man Bilked Of $6,000 In Old 'Switch' Game

SEATTLE (AP)—An elderly man listened to two smooth-talking strangers Friday. Before the hour was out he had been bilked of $6,000 in the old bunco "switch" game.

Frank W. Wallace, 79, brokenheartedly told police the two confidence men, about 35 to 40 years of age, struck up a conversation with him at 1:20 p.m. on a downtown street.

One of the men, with a soft southern accent, steered the talk to bank deposits and eventually he had Wallace $500 he could not withdraw $6,000 from his bank and re-deposit it the next day.

Wallace said he felt he had a sure thing, withdrew the $6,000 and then he and the two strangers went into a cafe for coffee. He showed the money to the men, after which they asked him to hold the $6,000 and their $500 while they had on a brief errand. They handed over a handkerchief wrapped around a roll of paper which Wallace believed was the currency. After 45 minutes waiting for the strangers to return he became suspicious and opened the handkerchief.

Inside were paper clippings.

Mrs. Maude Fowler Dies At Myrtle Creek

Mrs. Maude Fowler, 85, Myrtle Creek, died Friday night following a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Fowler was born Dec. 6, 1872, at St. Paul, Minn., and moved to Myrtle Creek 14 years ago from Santa Monica, Calif. She was a charter member of St. Paul Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star and was a member of the Episcopal Church.

During World War I, she worked as a registered nurse.

Survivors include her husband, Dr. A. K. Fowler, Myrtle Creek, and a brother, William J. Godfrey, St. Paul.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the chapel of Ganz Mortuary, Myrtle Creek, with the Rev. Loren Bush of the Episcopal Church of Myrtle Creek officiating. Rites will be conducted by Valentine chapter of Order of Eastern Star of Myrtle Creek. Following services, the remains will be taken to Grants Pass for cremation.

Holdup Killer Barton Kirkham Dies On Gallows

utes of his final appearance before the state pardons board Wednesday. There was no official estimate of the dollar loss, but Gov. Thomson estimated it would run into millions.

Before and after that, he insisted he wanted to die.

Kirkham seemed content through the hours as he waited in the prison's drab auditorium Friday night.

Parents Near Collapse
He visited with his father and his mother, who was near collapse. Guards said the husky young slayer appeared to warm toward his parents in the final hours, though since his conviction he had been cool, at times hostile, to them.

He also received chaplains from two faiths — the Latter Day Saints (Mormon) and Roman Catholic churches.

Newsman visited with Kirkham after the parents left and the smiling killer invited them to finish off the pizza he had not eaten. "There's plenty left; have some if you want," he said.

Prison chaplains and guards formed a small knot around Kirkham in the auditorium after the parents departed. They listened as the condemned youth played Beethoven and Bach on the piano.

"I started playing when I was about eight," he said. "My mother taught me. Then I gave it up; I didn't like it."

He laughingly played a funeral dirge for the group and suggested: "They might well execute me now. We're just killing time."

Little Chance Given To Unseat Dictator

LISBON, Portugal (AP)—An air force general who has presented the first real opposition to Premier Antonio Salazar's 30-year dictatorship is given little chance of beating the odds stacked against him in tomorrow's presidential election.

Short, bluff Gen. Humberto Delgado has injected life in the usually apathetic electorate which until now has had only Salazar's hand-picked candidates to vote for.

Car Reported Parked Two Days Along Street

Neva Brown, 1731 SE Main St., reported to burglar police Friday that a vehicle had been parked in the 1100 block on SE Sanford Avenue since Thursday.

Police issued a citation for parking on the wrong side of the street and placed a notice on the car advising that if the vehicle were not moved within 24 hours it would be impounded as an abandoned vehicle.

PLAIN TRUTH

By Glen W. Lundy: Gospel Evangelist

Are you aware that as you provide for the material welfare of your children from day to day there are problems of great magnitude which will confront them for which you are not providing an answer or solution? Problems which even you have not answered in such a way as to leave a safe path for your loved ones to follow. Into each life comes the problem of choosing between right and wrong. You may feel that such a choice may be made instinctively, but such is not the case. A child will no more make a wise choice between right and wrong without training and instruction, than they would choose wisely between good food and poison without direction and teaching. Perhaps that is why so many children do not understand the value of doing good nor the danger of doing evil. You, as parents, are letting them choose without help or concern that they are drawn to those things which poison the mind and harm the body.

"There is a way that seemeth right unto a man but the end thereof are the ways of death," and again, "It is not in man that hezekiah to direct his steps." Are you too busy to teach your children the truth? Are you shunning your responsibility? Fathers, bring up your children in the nurture and admonition of the Lord." Eph. 6:4.

In order to be of assistance to you in this vital matter we have trained teachers and prepared "Bible centered" courses for a daily Bible school to begin June 9 and continue through June 20, with classes from 9:30 until 11:30 each morning, Monday through Friday. All pupils from four years old up and including adults will be welcome. There is no charge and transportation will be furnished where possible. Call OR 3-3312 or OR 2-3545 for information. Send or bring your children to the church building at 211 Military. You are always welcome where the Church meets.

New World Speed Record Claimed For Outboard

SEATTLE (AP)—Shipping his tiny craft over the glass-flat surface of Lake Washington at better than 107 miles an hour, Hugh Entrop claimed the world outboard motorboat speed record for the United States Saturday.

Europe had held it since 1937.

Entrop, a swing shift employe at Boeing Airplane Co., became the second man ever to travel faster than 100 m.p.h. in an outboard. The other was Massimo Loto di Poleso of Italy, who set the recognized record of 100.3 m.p.h. in 1956.

Di Poleso's engine was a supercharged 160 horsepower, four-cylinder job. Entrop used a standard production model Mercury outboard of 60 horsepower.

Entrop reached his best speed in his first run over the kilometer course, averaging 109.120 m.p.h. On the return trip he was clocked at 106.522. His average, which will be proposed for recognition as a world mark, was 107.821.

Williams New President Of West Highway Assn.

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—W.C. Williams, Oregon State Highway Engineer, Friday was elected president of the Western Assn. of State Highway Officials at the group's 37th annual meeting here.

He succeeds William E. Willey, Arizona's engineer.

The 500 delegates from 12 Western states, Hawaii and Alaska also re-elected T. D. Sherard of Wyoming secretary-treasurer, and named as new vice president Homer C. Ooley, chairman of the Wyoming Highway Commission.

Before winding up their three-day conference the delegates urged in resolution that association members deny highway use permits to house trailers wider than 10 feet.

The Federal Communications Commission was asked to assign certain radio frequencies to phases of highway department work.

FESTIVAL QUEEN CHOSEN

PORTLAND (AP)—Patricia Adams and Pat Casey Friday night were selected the queen and prime minister of the Junior Rose Festival Court.

They will lead the court's parade through Portland June 13, a day before the festival's giant floral procession.

Suspended Sentence Delt For Mercy Wife Killing

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP)—A 74-year-old man has won a suspended sentence in the slaying of his wife, who had been bedridden with a heart ailment for 10 years.

Last Feb. 2, Giovanni Sardo stabbed 72-year-old Antonia Sardo to death with a knife in their Port Washington, N. Y. home. Then Sardo used the knife on himself, inflicting critical wounds.

Sardo recovered and was allowed to plead guilty to manslaughter.
