Mrs. Elsie Spackman, a third grade teacher at Winchester School who this year completes a teaching career of 31 years, was feted at a lovely afternoon tea given in her honor by the Wilbur - Winchester PTA May 25. Many friends and fellow teachers stopped in during the afternoon to congratulate her and wish her well in her retirement. Baskets of spring flowers brightened the Winchester gymnasium where the tea was held. Mrs. Jean Freeman and Mrs. Elta Orr served tea and punch at a linen-covered table, centered with an arrangement of pink tea roses and crystal candelabra. Mrs. L. G. Foster was in charge of the guest book. Cloyd Riffe and Orenda Mitchell entertained with piano solos. Superintendent M. C. Deller, representing School District Four and members of the teaching profession, presented Mrs. Spackman with a beautiful silver fruit bowl and candlestick set. In speaking to guests present at the time, he lauded her contribution to education and her continued interest in and use of new teaching techniques. In accepting her gift, Mrs. Spackman replied that teaching in the Roseburg school system had been a rewarding experience and that it was wonderful to spend one's life working at a profession so thoroughly enjoyed. Mrs. Eugene Pasch and Mrs. Arthur Denny were in charge of arrangements. Mrs. Harold Hoyt, Mrs. George Halladay, Mrs. L. E. Shinn, and Mrs. Ray Byrd supplied and arranged the many floral bouquets. Mrs. Cletus Krogel, Mrs. Bob Sullivan and Mrs. Andrew Haskot were in charge of the refreshments. Mrs. Spackman, then Elisabeth Trimmer, began her teaching career at Mount Angel in 1914, after taking a concentrated six - week course at Portland during her high school years. Her first class was composed of 45 second and third graders. She later received her teaching certificate from Mount Angel Normal School and a bachelor of science degree from the University of Oregon. All of her teaching has been done in Oregon, much of it in Douglas County. She recalls many interesting experience during the early days. Some were in country schools where she built her own fires and did all the janitor work. In Douglas County she taught first at Willis Creek, where she rode horseback four and a half miles to school. Other schools included Brockway, Dillard, Day's Creek, Sutherlin, Wilbur and Riverside. During her busy life she also found time for marriage and a home. She, and husband, Bruce, reared five children: James, Dolores (Mrs. Don Krogel), Charles, Carola, and Rosemary (Mrs. Vincent Spires). Mrs. Spackman was inactive in the teaching profession while her children were small but later returned to it full time. Retirement will still mean a busy life for her. She plans to find time for gardening and horseback riding at the beautiful Spackman home, the 7S ranch on Coles Valley Road. She hopes to indulge her hobbies of painting and music and enjoy her nine grandchildren.
