

Ike's Acceptance Of Gifts Puts Him In Contradiction To His Previous Remarks

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower himself has set an example for Sherman Adams and all other government employees in accepting gifts. He has received for his personal use gifts totaling thousands of dollars.

He tried, in his news conference last week, to say when it is not all right for a man in public office to accept gifts. The line he drew was far from sharp or distinct.

Maybe such a line can't be drawn. But because it hasn't been drawn both Eisenhower and Adams, his chief assistant, find themselves in contradictory positions.

If a clear line can't be drawn it would seem any man in public office should lean over backwards — way over backwards — to avoid doing anything which might embarrass him or the government or cause suspicion.

This is what Eisenhower said: "The circumstances surrounding the innocent receipt by a public official of any gifts are therefore important, so that the public may clearly distinguish between innocent and guilty action."

"Among these circumstances are the character and reputation of the individual, the record of his subsequent actions, and evidence of intent or lack of intent to exert undue influence."

Sharp Questions Posed But this explanation overlooks some very human and subtle questions:

1. Would a man in public office, intentionally or not, be more favorably inclined to do something or decide something or use his influence for a person who gives him something than for one who doesn't?

2. Should a man in public office — for fear of appearing to return a favor — let himself be in the position of refusing to do for an individual who gave him a gift, something he'd freely do for a stranger?

A man in public office could easily avoid both dilemmas — dilemmas with which he should never have to be confronted — by refusing gifts from anyone who has or might have any business with the government.

When Bernard Goldfine, Adams' gift-giving friend, a businessman, got into trouble with a federal agency, he went to Adams in the White House to find out why.

Backlog Of Autos Remains Barrier To Agreement

DETROIT (AP) — Auto makers and the United Auto Workers went back to contract negotiations Monday with both sides acting as if time was on their side.

The UAW had talks scheduled with each of the Big Three of the industry—Ford, Chrysler and General Motors.

It has been almost a month since the union's contracts with the auto makers expired and workers went to their jobs without a union contract for the first time in more than 15 years. But neither sides acts as if it is pressed for time.

Nevertheless, the UAW spent a busy weekend moving among rank and file members to drum up support for strike votes.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, has said repeatedly he has no intention of calling a strike. The reason is the tremendous backlog of unsold cars. Car makers could go a month or more without making a single car and still feel no pinch.

After Backlog Ends—What? But Reuther is keeping a sharp eye on the backlog as it dwindles. When the contracts expired last month the industry had about 85,000 unsold cars. Now with production curtailed, it has less than 700,000.

Strike votes already have been taken in some plants. Others are scheduled for this week and more are set for July.

Reuther's confidence may come from the belief the auto makers will be more fearful of a strike after production starts on 1959 models in late summer.

The auto companies appear to believe Reuther will trim his demands rather than strike.

Bob Robinson Leads Rodeo Money Takers

Bucking Horse Thrills Competition in the saddle category was highlighted by the appearance of War Paint, the top-rated saddle bronc for the past two years running. The high-bucking, horse dumped Jim Roesser, Caldwell, Idaho, but not before Roesser had given War Paint the bronc's best ride of the year. Roesser stayed aboard for about six seconds.

Don L. Wilson of Buffalo, Wyo., was the winner in bareback riding competition. His winnings averaged $141.20. Second was Bill Boag, Portland, at $105.90, third was Jack Middleton, Redding, Calif., at $70.60.

Miles' winnings in the steer wrestling event averaged $143.72. Sublette won an average of $107.79 and George Berg of Modesto, Calif., $71.86.

Leo Run of Grants Pass and Larry Perry, Eugene, were tops in team roping competition. They took home an average of $78.52 each.

Perry's brother, Dick, teamed with Vredenburg to cop second place in team roping. The pair won an average of $57.39 apiece. The Perry brothers won third and with it an average of $38.26 for the two days.

Following Robinson in bull riding was Cook, at $51.30, and Bob Cassassa of Richmond, Calif., who won an average of $54.20.

The only apparent injury during the two days of rugged competition came Sunday in the team roping event. Dick Perry received for a severe rope burn which nearly severed his right thumb when an intended head loop slipped back over the steer's hanches and jerked the rope from Perry's grip.

Free-running bronchman bulls scored some near misses, however. Tyler had perhaps the closest call when a big gray critter named Arthur Godfrey attempted to hook the Washington cowboy over the fence with its horns.

Tyler escaped and leaped down from his high perch when the bull departed — but was nearly knocked off his feet by a swinging gate when another bronchman came charging out of a pen.

Thrills, Fun Rodeo Bill Highlights

High caliber demonstrations of Cowboy and equine skill, plus crowd-pleasing races and humorous and daring stunts by arena clowns, were features of the 14th annual Douglas County Rodeo Saturday and Sunday at the county fairgrounds.

Rodeo clowns Karl Doering, Roseburg, and Sherman Crane of Santa Ana, Calif., furnished humor for the two performances with their zany arena antics.

Doering doubled as an expert fool in distracting enraged bulls from fallen cowboys and as "bait" in channeling the stubborn animals into the pens. His daring maneuvers drew several rounds of applause from the appreciative crowd.

Another popular performer was Bill Buschhorn, the Cassville, Wis., cowboy who staged fine exhibitions of bull roping and put his horse, Sir Roger, through some top-notch series of liberty trick riding paces. Buschhorn also was a contestant in the calf roping competition.

Chariot Races Thrill Perhaps the most thrilling races were the chariot events between a quarterhorse team driven by Arena Director John Spencer and a thoroughbred pair driven by Dr. Donald Rone, Roseburg veterinarian.

The Spencer team won both the Saturday and Sunday contests, but not before some neck-and-neck competition from the long-striding thoroughbreds. Both races were run around the half-mile arena track.

A pair of four-riders relay races were won by the Douglas County Sheriff's Mounted posse team.

Queen Judy Defferding defeated Princess Patricia Bell and Cheryl Goldson in a special mounted race Sunday. The rodeo queen, astride her horse, "Diamond," was narrowly beaten Saturday, however, by an automobile ridden by the court of the upcoming Eugene Emerald Empire Roundup.

Doering furnished the big crowd with thrill after thrill as he repeatedly taunted big brahma bulls, attempts to ride them in the regular competition. He was dumped both times, but not before he had shown some fine form.

The only actual physical contact Doering had with the huge animals was during a pair of attempts to ride them in the regular competition. He was dumped both times, but not before he had shown some fine form.

Judge Asks For Records Of Local 'First Timers'

District Judge Warren A. Woodruff today asked state police and the sheriff's department for cooperation in checking into the past driving records of local "first timers."

He announced it will be the policy of the court hereafter to obtain the driving record of every person cited in district court "for a moving traffic violation."

"I am sure every officer of your department has had cases where a first offender here has a long record of bad driving habits," the judge said in letters to Robert J. Keefe, OSP Sergeant in charge of headquarters here and Sheriff Ira C. Byrd.

"I hope the new policy will be effective in identifying those persons who have demonstrated their unwillingness or inability to safely operate a motor vehicle," Judge Woodruff explained.

He said the policy must necessarily be experimental and will be subject to modification if experience so dictates. All driving records are kept by the Department of Motor Vehicles, Salem.

California Killer In Hiding After Battling Officers

UKIAH, Calif. (AP) — Officers hunting for police-killer George Cole — on the FBI's 10 most list — fought a running gun battle Monday through Ukiah with occupants of a speeding, southbound car.

Later, just north of Ukiah, sheriff's deputies and the highway patrol threw up a road block at the intersection of U.S. 101 and State Route 20 but the fugitives eluded it by taking an old county road.

Ukiah policemen Ray Williams said officers were operating on the theory that Cole was one of the men who robbed a service station early Monday at Laytonville, then fought the running gun battle through Ukiah.

Deputy Sheriff James Boyer chased a car he believed was driven by Cole for 40 miles early Sunday. Boyer fired and tried to lock bumpers with the fleeing car before it vanished on one of several logging roads.

The deputy had received a tip hours earlier that Cole was attending a dance at the Carolina Grange Hall, 18 miles south of Eureka, Cole's former home.

Cole is wanted for killing a San Francisco police sergeant, Joseph Lacey, during a tavern holdup Dec. 30, 1956.

The 31-year-old Cole earlier was reported hiding on Dubakella Mountain 70 miles southeast of Eureka.

Laytonville, where Monday morning's incidents began, is about 15 miles south of that area.

The Dubakella search followed the reported sighting of Cole at a country dance hall.

During the shooting at Ukiah, officers chased the fugitive for 10 miles.

At last report, the hunted men were believed to be somewhere in Lake County.

A helicopter and a light plane aided the Dubakella search.
