Nevada Cowboy Parts Minister's Wife From Money

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — This is the story of a Nevada cowboy with a yen for money and a minister's wife from Missouri with $203,000.

The romance ended with the disappearance of the cowboy — and the lady's money.

Now the cowboy is in custody in Miami, charged with interstate transportation of stolen money and a stolen car.

It started a few months ago when Mrs. Barbara F. Doubleday, 37, went to Reno for a divorce from her husband — the Rev. James A. Doubleday, rector of Grace Episcopal Church, Kirkwood, Mo.

She charged mental cruelty but asked the court to award custody of two children, aged 8 and 6, to their father. No disposition has been made of the complaint.

Meets Cowboy

Then she met a curly-haired, husky ranch hand — Raymond Lewis Headspeth, who didn't bother to tell Mrs. Doubleday that he was an ex-convict.

The rest of the story came from Joseph P. McMahon, Arizona FBI agent in charge, and John H. Williams, who holds a similar post in Florida:

After Mrs. Doubleday cashed about $200,000 in bonds, she and Headspeth left for Tucson, Ariz. where they registered at a motel together June 20.

The next day, the cowboy was gone — with her cash, car and other belongings. Headspeth was last seen in Arizona Saturday — as he causually flipped a silver dollar while waiting for a plane at the Tucson airport.

Mrs. Doubleday went to the FBI. A federal warrant was issued in Phoenix, charging Headspeth with crossing a state line in order to defraud Mrs. Doubleday of $203,000.

Yesterday, FBI agents found Headspeth in a Miami hotel room. Among their other findings: a $9,000 foreign car, $2,300 in Headspeth's possession and another $184,000 in a hotel safe deposit box, a watch, two diamond rings, expensive cuff links and a magazine opened to an article entitled:

"How to Make Money Without a Salary."

Quarry Fencing Necessity Cited

The Douglas County Planning Commission elected new officers and recommended that rock quarries in urban areas be "properly" fenced" to protect children from injury Thursday night at its regular monthly meeting.

Elected as chairman was Carl Hill, Canyonville. Henry Beckley, Elkton, was named vice chairman and Robert Sund, Reedsport, secretary-treasurer.

In its recommendation of quarries, the commission took special note of a quarry located north of Roseburg at the end of NE Erie Street. Bruce Elmgren, county planning commissioner, said children have been reported playing at the top of an estimated 80-foot drop-off at the quarry.

The commission also recommended vacation of a road about one-half mile east of Sutherlin. The 30-foot road is bounded on both sides by land owned by Sutherlin Land & Water Co.

Daughter of A. J. Bellows

Mrs. Brown is the daughter of the deceased Andrew Jackson Bellows who came to Roseburg in 1871. The majority of the land in west Roseburg in early days was owned by Bellows and her late husband's father, Thomas Brown. She has a brother, 86-year-old A. A. Bellows residing in Roseburg, and a sister of her husband residing in Arkansas. They are the last of the Browns and Bellows.

Her husband died at The Dalles in 1934. She celebrated her 84th birthday the first day of June.

At the new park site, the city will install a suitable marker in Brown's memory. The city learned about the donation too late to include the cost of playground equipment in the 1958-59 budget, but some playground equipment might be made at the city shops.

Baby Tornado Strikes Near Walla Walla

WALLA WALLA (AP) — A baby tornado, whipping along a 50-foot wide path, wrecked a building, broke windows and damaged boats at a marina near the Wallula Junction west of here late Thursday.

The twister apparently was an offshoot of a violent wind and rain storm which raked parts of Eastern Oregon and southeastern Washington.

An eyewitness said the funnel of the small tornado dipped down and demolished a new concrete block structure alongside the highway junction 29 miles west of Walla Walla and 17 miles southeast of Pasco.

The marina reported an estimated $3,000 damage done to moored boats and plate glass windows. Other boat clubs in the area also suffered some damage. The town of Wallula, nearby, was not hit.

Many boats, a number of them from Walla Walla, are moored in the backwater at the mouth of the Walla Walla River where it enters the McNary Dam reservoir.

The storm struck the junction area about 6:30 p.m. Gusty winds here a short time later caused some power failures.

The storm knocked down power lines in Umatilla and Hermiston, across the Columbia in Oregon, and flattened wheat fields near Echo. Accompanying heavy rains flooded Umatilla streets briefly.

Compromise Tax Measure Goes To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed and sent to President Eisenhower Friday a compromise tax bill repealing half a billion dollars a year in tax surcharges on freight transportation costs.

The roll call vote was 365-9.

The bill averts a drop of $2,115,000,000 in federal revenues due July 1 by extending for another year Korean War increases in the corporate income tax rate and other excises on new automobiles, car accessories, liquor and cigarettes.

The House completed congressional action on the tax compromise in spite of renewed grumbling over the fact Congress has not cut other excises, particularly the 10 per cent federal tax on rail, bus and airline tickets.

"Who comes first: People or freight?" demanded Rep. Harold R. Collier (R-Ill) in short debate preceding House approval of the compromise worked out Thursday between Senate and House.

Jet Tanker Sets Record In Trans-Atlantic Flight

old flight commander from Omaha, Neb., who rode in the first tanker, told a reporter:

"It's hard to be very happy about the record when a thing like this has happened. After all, that plane was manned by my men.

"We had no news of the crash until we landed. I can't imagine what caused it. To my knowledge that is the first one of these planes that ever crashed.

"With better winds, we might have knocked another 20 minutes off our time."

The two tankers which completed the flight are from the Strategic Air Command's 8th Air Force refueling wing at Westover.

When crew members and newsmen aboard the two tankers were informed of the Westover crash they hurried to telephones for transatlantic calls to assure their relatives in America that they were safe.

Richard L. Mourey of the Hartford, Conn., Courant, one of six newsmen on the first tanker, said:

"It was an easy flight and the boys larked all the way across. They didn't know what had happened in Westover until we landed at Brize Norton."

The Air Force in Britain gave a slightly longer official flying time for the first tanker of 5 hours 27 minutes 42.8 seconds from its New York check point to the London check.

Total elapsed time of the first tanker from takeoff at Westover to its set-down at Brize Norton was 6 hours 34 minutes.

The flying tankers landed at this heavily guarded base of the Strategic Air Command under lowering clouds and a drizzling rain.

The stratotankers are the military version of the Boeing 707 jet airliner, which is scheduled to go into transatlantic commercial service next year. The commercial type will carry up to 147 passengers or 25 tons of cargo.

Stranded Boat's Passengers Flown From Snake R.

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — The 52-foot river boat Wenaha, with 16 passengers, nosed into shore Wednesday night for a rest and was left somewhat high and dry as the Snake River flow was cut down upstream to fill a dam reservoir.

The 10 were flown out Thursday afternoon. They said they had a good time.

The Wenaha makes a 93-mile, two-day trip each week from Lewiston to Johnson's Bar. It takes food and mail to ranchers living along the river in the rugged north central Idaho country, and a few adventuring tourists ride along sometimes.

The Idaho Power Co., which is building the Brownlee and Oxbow dams near the Hells Canyon stretch of the river, reduced flow to store water in the Brownlee reservoir and permit closure of a cofferdam at Oxbow.

Advised of Reduction

Gomer Condit, resident engineer, said the Army Corps of Engineers was advised of the flow reduction and warnings were issued to downstream users.

Condit said the flow at Oxbow was 9,600 second-feet after the reduction. He said an additional 5,000 second-feet would be released in an effort to free the boat.

The Wenaha was hung on a big rock along the shore.

A second boatload of cameramen, filming the last trip of the Wenaha this season, picked up the passengers and took them to a temporary landing strip where they were picked up.

The 10 were Charles Stith, his daughter Sandra, and his son Paul, of Portland; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Jobe and their sons Tim and Jeffery of Seattle; and Marianne Scott, Mildred Dexter and Jenny Schultz, all of Spokane.

Tax Commission Slates Hearings On Equalization

SALEM (AP)—The state Tax Commission will hold a series of special fact finding hearings here beginning July 7 to consider timber tax equalization problems which face several counties, S. W. Horn, Tax Commission chairman, said Friday.

The commission will sit as a state Board of Equalization in considering divergent action by the counties in treatment of timber taxation.

"The different treatment of timber by the counties," Horn said, "especially those that have recently completed a reappraisal program, indicates a lack of uniformity that the tax commission feels should be thoroughly explored."

Horn said that in Lane County, the Board of Equalization recently ordered an approximate two-thirds cut in the values suggested by the tax commission.

The Benton County assessor used the commission's recommended values, but the board of equalization cut it one-third.

Douglas County also cut one-third, but Coos County accepted most of the recommended values.

The special hearings will be held in the basement hearing room of the Capitol. They will be conducted by Theodore de Looze, assistant attorney general.

Horn said the hearings would last several days.

Another sale is scheduled today.

Lions Get Reports, Hear Talk, Vote To Back Candidate

Roseburg Lions Club members Thursday night listened to a talk on Oregon's coming centennial, heard reports on the request state Lions convention, and voted to sponsor a candidate for queen of the Sutherlin Timber Days celebration.

Miss Gaye Warren, local tap dancer and baton artist, was given the club's backing as a queen candidate for the Sutherlin celebration dated for early in August.

Ted Hallock, state coordinator of the Oregon Centennial, spoke on what cities and communities outside Portland can do for the big seven-month event, which is expected to attract more than 4,000,000 out-of-state persons and bring in some $600,000,000 additional wealth to the state. Hallock told reasons why communities and individuals should get behind the endeavor.

Lions brought home from the state convention at Eugene a virtual promise that International President Edward G. Barry of Arkansas would attend the local club's 30th anniversary celebration, set tentatively for Oct. 17.

Local delegates attending were Mr. and Mrs. Willard Buchanan, Mr. and Mrs. Don Helliwell, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Buckingham, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stein, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. McLain, Ford Singleton and Harold Baxter. In addition, Robert Smith, Pat Manning and Chet Thompson and their wives attended the final events on Saturday.

Truck Stages Spectacular Run; Driver Hurt

GRANTS PASS (AP)—A heavily loaded lumber truck staged a spectacular runaway Thursday on Sexton Mountain, causing serious injury to the driver.

The driver, Douglas Emett Kerby, 30, of Medford, acted swiftly when the truck's air brakes failed. As the truck gathered momentum, Kerby rammed it into a mound of fill dirt alongside the highway. He leaped just before the moment of impact.

Kerby was taken to the Josephine General Hospital by ambulance. He suffered possible fractures of the left leg and left hip.

The truck piled over the mound of dirt and crashed on the mountain slope below. The trailer pulled loose and spilled its load on the mound.

State police estimated the truck would have attained a speed of up to 100 miles an hour, had Kerby attempted to ride it to the bottom of the grade.

Kerby was trucking lumber from Glendale to Klamath Falls as a driver for the C. J. Hamilton Co., of Medford.

Helmet Caused Cuts

"The helmet dug into my forehead and that's where I got these cuts. But it also gave me a few inches of breathing space—enough to last three or four minutes.

"I felt a lot of pressure, especially on my left leg.

"The cave-in knocked me onto my back. My left arm was twisted behind me and my right arm was straight up.

"I knew I'd have a better chance if I kept still, so I didn't wriggle around to try to get loose. I talked to Rex for a minute or so, but quit talking because I knew I couldn't talk to him and still keep breathing. Later, he said he could hear me. But I couldn't hear him at all.

"Rex uncovered my right arm first, then started digging around my arm to find my head. When he hit my helmet with his shovel, I got a couple of breaths of air.

Thought He Was Finished

"I felt like I was just about finished until that happened. If it hadn't been for Rex, I wouldn't be here now.

"When he got part of my face uncovered, I could see Everett standing back against the bank to keep any more dirt from sliding.

"I'm pretty sore. But I know things could have been a lot worse.

"Everyone did a great job."

Biles and his wife came to Roseburg five weeks ago when Biles began work on the local project. Biles said he has lived in Medford most of his life.

Mrs. Biles said that although Thursday is her usual wash day she was too upset to do her washing that morning because of a remark by her husband as he left for work.

The remark, said Mrs. Biles, was, "I'll be home for lunch — if nothing happens."

Adams Denies Claims Made By Ex-Publisher

the present Sen. John Kennedy (D-Mass.) because he became convinced the Republican candidate, Henry Cabot Lodge, was soft against Communism. Lodge is now U. S. ambassador to the United Nations.

The letter in which Adams denied Goldfine had bought him a house was produced by Rep. Joseph P. O'Hara of Minnesota, top Republican on the subcommittee, after Fox quoted Goldfine as saying he bought the house.

O'Hara disclosed he had written this, after learning that Fox had made such a statement to committee investigators.

Nothing About Checks

Adams' letter said nothing about the checks that Fox quoted Goldfine as saying had gone to Adams. O'Hara had not asked Adams about that.

Adams did dispute another statement that had come up in Fox's testimony Thursday. Adams said he had never held an interest in any Goldfine business.

Adams said in the letter that he never had owned a house in Washington and that he now lives in a rented house here. Adams added:

"Mr. Goldfine has never, either directly or indirectly, purchased or helped to finance the purchase of any house of mine . . .

"These statements are absolutely false."

The Adams letter was written on White House stationery.

Chairman Harris was asked by reporters whether the committee has any evidence tending to prove or disprove Fox's testimony about the house.

"I prefer," he replied, "not to make any statement as to what we do or do not have."

The chairman said the committee will go into the matter of the house further at another time but declined to elaborate. He decided also to characterize the testimony of Fox.

Vast, Complex Electronic Air Warning Starts

MCGUIRE AIR FORCE BASE, N.J. (AP)—SAGE—the vast and complex electronic air warning network called Semi - Automatic Ground Environment — formally went into operation today.

Gen. Curtis E. LeMay, Air Force vice chief of staff, declared that for the United States to have designed, produced and installed such a mechanical marvel in four years was "a real technical and logistic triumph."

LeMay described the inauguration of SAGE as "the largest single step taken toward the improvement of air defense capabilities in the past 10 years."

Several hundred military dignitaries and representatives of many firms that helped build the huge system attended ceremonies dedicating this first operational SAGE center. The various centers to be built will be controlled from North American Air Defense Command headquarters at Colorado Springs, Colo.

This first center of the series guards the most densely populated and highly industrialized section of the nation — the New York-Philadelphia metropolitan areas, all of New Jersey, and parts of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Delaware.

At the dedication ceremony, the Air Force gave for the first time the details of the high powered radar system and associated Computer equipment that helps screen North America from air attack.

Tighter Controls Asked Placed On Korean Orphans

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Congress Thursday was asked to control more tightly the immigration of diseased Korean orphans into the United States.

The request was made by the House of Delegates of the American Medical Assn. The resolution asking Congressional action was introduced by the Oregon Medical Society at the AMA convention.

The delegates noted, however, that it hoped "Those who have undertaken the task of transporting these unfortunate children to their new homes will be able to continue their wonderful work."

In the resolution, the AMA said some orphans brought to this country had tuberculosis or bowel disease and that they posed a health threat to their new communities.

Congress and the State Department, however, earlier had given special permission to Harry Holt of Creswell, Ore., to bring in tubercular children if they are hospitalized immediately.

In all, Holt has brought more than 900 waifs to new homes in this country.

Paul Robeson, Corliss Lamont Given Passports

NEW YORK (AP)—Singer Paul Robeson and Professor Corliss Lamont Thursday received the passports they have been trying to obtain for years.

Robeson, a Negro, has been trying since 1950 to acquire the little green book necessary to go abroad. Lamont, lecturer at Columbia University, had been unsuccessful since 1951.

They were denied passports because of refusal to answer questions on their passport applications about Communist Party membership. Both men have been identified with left-wing causes, but have denied Communist Party membership.

Gordon Howard To Spend Summer In Stock Company

Gordon (Jordon) Howard, the baritone who received help from Roseburg residents to storm Broadway's musical comedy world, will spend the summer in a summer stock company.

He has been signed to play in six plays at Elensville, N.Y. The plays are: "Brigadoon," "Carousel," "Guys and Dolls," "Damn Yankee" and "Happy Hunting."

Howard, who changed his first name to Jordon because some other young broadway aspirant was also named Gordon, left Roseburg Feb. 5, 1957, after a drive to raise funds for him had been completed in Roseburg. The funds, which he will repay, were used to cover his expenses back to New York with his wife.

Since then, he has played small parts on Broadway as well as a feature role in a show called "Carefree Heart." The play was a flop, but Howard received good notices in the New York Times. It was his last role before being signed to the summer stock company.

Illegal Possession Nets $75 Fine On Liquor Count

A Glide youth was fined $75 Thursday in municipal court for illegal possession of beer, but similar charges were dismissed against his two companions.

The trio was picked up in Roseburg the night of March 15 and cited by city police. William Gene Sheriff changed his plea to guilty when he appeared for trial.

Charges of illegal possession were dismissed by Judge Randolph Slocum against Orvel Dean Jennings, Idleyld Rt., Roseburg, and Larry Lynn Hayes, Glide, for lack of evidence.

Two men, two from Roseburg and another from Riddle, were fined Thursday after pleading guilty to charges following arraignments by Judge Slocum. They were:

Wilber Feaster Bonner, 44, of Riddle, fined $25 for vagrancy; and Richard Virgil Smith, 21, of Dogwood Dr., city, fined $50 for intoxication in an auto.

Smith paid his fine, but Bonner was jailed when unable to pay.
