SALEM (AP)—The state Emergency Board approved Friday the awarding of a contract to construct the first unit of the F. H. Dammasch State Hospital at Wilsonville.

The unit is scheduled for opening in the summer or fall of 1960. It will house 400 patients, but eventually will have 1,500 patients and will cost more than 15 million dollars.

The low bid of $6,043,142 was submitted by Ross B. Hammond Construction Co. of Portland.

However, the federal government is expected to pay $741,000 of that amount. If the government doesn't come through with its share, then construction would go ahead without construction of a central kitchen.

The kitchen then could be added by appropriation from the 1959 Legislature.

William C. Ryan, secretary of the Board of Control, said the federal money is virtually assured.

The Emergency Board appropriated $80,000, compared with a Board of Control request for $152,139 to provide enough money to carry out the contract.

This leaves only $28,000 for contingencies, or for unexpected expenses which arise during the course of construction. The Board of Control wants $100,000 for contingencies.

The Emergency Board said if more money is needed for contingencies, the Board of Control could come back to the Emergency Board.

The emergency fund, originally

$1,500,000, was down to $1,205,804 before Friday's meeting. The Public Welfare Commission warned that it might have to ask for emergency help next fall.

Ryan threatened to resign his job unless the Emergency Board provided for contingencies, but after the meeting, he said he would remain at his post.

"I won't be with the state much longer anyway, because retirement is far away," Ryan said. "I'm damned if I'm going to stay awake nights worrying about contingencies."

Sen. Walter J. Pearson (D-Portland) said that contractors should be forced to pay for the unexpected things that come up during construction. He added that "the state leans over backwards to protect the contractors."

Probe Started To Determine Cause Of Crash

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Mass. (AP)—Top-level investigating teams from the Air Force, the Civil Aeronautics Administration and the aviation industry today sifted the wreckage of a huge jet Stratotanker to determine what caused a crash that took the lives of 15 men.

The big tanker, one of four KC135s scheduled to streak to England to break trans-Atlantic round trip records early Friday, crashed and exploded seconds after takeoff. Two similar planes that took off before the crash were also on the runway, did not take off because of the tragedy.

The plane snapped high tension wires 70 feet above the ground and plummeted to earth in the aftermath of darkness. Its cargo, the equivalent of three-and-a-half railroad tank cars — exploded into an inferno.

Instantly killed were six newsmen, seven crewmen, and two observers from the National Aeronautics Assn. The dead included Brig. Gen. Donald W. Saunders of Athens, N.Y., airborne commander in charge of the operation.

Power Omitted From Interstate Columbia Pact

SPOKANE (AP)—Mention of the Columbia River's biggest asset — power — has been all but omitted in the rewriting of the Columbia interstate compact.

A major portion of the compact was written Friday by a drafting committee named by the full interstate commission, H. Calvert secretary said.

The full commission, meeting last May in Portland, ordered the compact rewritten with no reference to hydroelectric power, except in reference to financing and allocation of power.

The compact is aimed at equitable disposition, allocation, diversion and apportionment of waters of the Columbia and its tributaries.

The drafting committee, headed by Glenn H. Larson, Thompson Falls, Mont., continued working on the compact Saturday. Larson becomes head of the full commission Tuesday.

The federal representative on the commission is Thomas H. Newell, Boise, who succeeded the late Frank A. Banks, of Coulee Dam.

Federal Loans Allocations Made For Jobless Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government announced today the first allocation of federal loans under the new emergency program for added unemployment payments to jobless workers whose benefits have expired.

The Labor Department said allocations totaling $37,398,848 have been certified for payment to eight states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands. They are signed up under the voluntary program to finance a 50 percent cost extension of state jobless pay programs. In most states payment of unemployment benefits is limited to a maximum of 26 weeks.

The announcement of the allocation came on the heels of a report that unemployment among workers insured for jobless pay dropped to a new 1958 low during the week ended June 14.

The Labor Department's Employment Security Bureau said Friday the number of insured workers out of jobs declined by 113,000 to a total of 2,704,500.

Its Cleaning Day At Big Mutt-el

NEW YORK (AP)—It's cleaning day today and every day till Tuesday at Mrs. Martha Hinrichson's 17-room mutt-el.

ASPCA agents will be checking twice daily to make sure the four-story brownstone house in upper Manhattan is fit for both dogs and human beings.

If it is, Magistrate Walter J. Bayer ruled yesterday, Mrs. Hinrichson will be allowed to keep her 49 pets.

Bayer inspected the broken-down house yesterday. The ASPCA complained that the pooch pack was being neglected.

Where humans used to live, dogs barked and jumped in every room. There was no electric light, heat or running water and little furniture.

But the dogs looked happy and healthy.

Morning Of Terror Is Experienced By Store Workers

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—It was a morning of terror Saturday for some 20 employees of an A & P supermarket here.

As each worker entered the store, he found himself staring into the muzzles of two revolvers. Two gunmen had entered the store earlier through the employee's entrance and were waiting for the bookkeeper to arrive with a key to the store's safe.

While they waited, the gunmen lined up all the employees behind a meat counter, and the made all the men lie on the floor.

In a short while, Miss Virginia Brunck, the bookkeeper, arrived and, at gunpoint, handed over the key to the safe. The gunmen ordered Boyce Bankson, assistant store manager, to open the safe and fill a large shopping bag with money. Once the safe was emptied, the gunmen fled.

Bankson told police later that he and two other employees had escaped with $10,000.

About an hour later, Dayton Police Sgt. R. E. Swartz found what presumably was the escape car a few blocks from the supermarket. Swartz said he found $500 and a .38 caliber revolver in the auto.

Bank Accounts May Hold Key To Fate Of Oregon Flier

NANTUCKET, Mass. (AP)—Bank accounts may hold the key to the disappearance of a bank teller's critic and the death of an Oregon flier, a New York attorney said.

Morris Ernst of New York Thursday asked Rep. Charles Porter (D-Ore.) to disclose all the information he has about the bank accounts of Gerald Murphy of Eugene, Ore., and Jesus De Galindez.

De Galindez — a heated foe of Rafael Trujillo, the strongman of the Dominican Republic — vanished in 1956. Murphy later was killed.

Porter and several magazines have charged that Trujillo had De Galindez kidnapped. And Murphy, he said, lied the plane that spirited the university teacher out of the country.

Ernst recently completed an investigation for the Dominican Republic and said Porter's accusations were false.

The New York attorney Thursday told Porter in a telegram that he should make public "all information you have about Murphy's bank accounts and more particularly the source of the $25,000 deposited by him before March, 1956."

"It might also be helpful if you made public Murphy's income tax return for 1955 as it should identify the source of this money."

"The full facts about why the Galindez million dollar flow stopped on March 12 might help your constituents clear their son's name of an evil charge," Ernst said.

Murphy's parents still live in Eugene.

Ernst earlier said he feels that Galindez, who collected a million dollar fund for Spanish refugees, still is alive.

Flow Of Snake Increased To Free Stranded Boat

BROWNLEE, Idaho (AP)—The flow of water in the Snake River was increased Saturday in an effort to free the riverboat Wenaha which stranded on a rock three days ago.

The additional water is expected to reach the boat, about five miles downstream from the Pleasant Valley dam site on Sunday, said Homer Condit, resident engineer for the Idaho Power Co.

The 10 passengers aboard the 52-foot Wenaha were flown to Lewiston after the craft was stranded.

Keith Rodenbaugh, a captain of Inland Navigation Co., Portland, owners of the Wenaha, said he would go up the river to be on hand when the water reaches the boat.

The additional 5,000 second feet to be released by the power company should be more than enough to free the craft, Rodenbaugh said.

Rodenbaugh said he planned to pick up some freight when the boat is free but won't complete the 93 mile run because of the uncertainty of the river level.

Girl Who Disappeared Before Wedding Stays This Time For Rites

NEW YORK (AP)—Irene Arzedi, who disappeared five hours before her scheduled wedding to Joseph Pinto last Feb. 22, was married to him Saturday.

She was quiet but nervous as she entered Our Lady of Mount Carmel Church in Brooklyn for the 10-minute Roman Catholic ceremony.

The Rev. A. Benincasa, who officiated, closed the church doors to photographers, reporters and about 200 bystanders.

As they left the church, Mrs. Pinto, 29, refused to speak to newsmen. However, the 31-year-old Pinto said "This is the happy ending to the story. We knew all along we were going to be married."

A wide search was conducted for Mrs. Pinto after she failed to appear for the wedding scheduled in February. She showed up eight days later, saying she had become frightened and had taken a bus trip to Los Angeles.

Business Concludes Week Like A Mysterious Serial

NEW YORK (AP)—The sign-off for the week's business story reads like a mystery serial — "to be continued."

Will the giants of the steel industry, a bellwether of the economy, raise their prices? If so, when?

Will there be a general boost in the price of copper, which goes into a vast array of products from kitchen pans to missiles?

Will rainy, cool weather continue to put a crimp in the business of the retail merchants?

These were a few of the questions which popped up in a week in which economic indicators were pretty mixed.

Attention was turned somewhat from the overall state of business to the trend of prices.

Budget conscious consumers were told that while living costs inched up to a record high in

Two Additional Supreme Court Justices Proposed

PORTLAND (AP)—Recommendations for two additional justices on the state Supreme Court were made Friday by the Oregon Judicial Council. There are now seven justices on the court.

The council, composed of circuit judges and Supreme Court justices, approved the legislative request at the opening of a two-day meeting here by a 3-1 margin.

In doing so, they supported the recommendations of recently-retired Justice Randall Kester, who said a larger bench could reduce the backlog of cases.

Justice William McAllister disagreed with the proposal. He said memorandums, instead of lengthy opinions, would cut the case file.

Chief Justice William Perry took issue with Justice McAllister, saying that justice could not be created by widespread use of memorandums.

Presbyterians Ask Careful Study On Capital Punishment

PORTLAND (AP)—The Presbyterian Synod of Oregon closed its annual meeting Thursday by expressing its opposition to the current system of capital punishment.

The resolution called for the church and individuals to "study the subject carefully in the light of their Christian faith before the fall election."

A constitutional amendment, aimed at eliminating the death penalty, will appear on the Oregon election ballot this November.

Some delegates flatly opposed capital punishment while others defended it as still necessary in the state of our society. The final resolution was a compromise. It carried 55 to 19.

Other resolutions called for: The synod to urge clergy and laymen to cooperate with agencies working for solution of the liquor problem.

Commendation of the Oregon congressional delegation for its work to protect Klamath Indians in the proposed sale of reservation timberlands.

A program of evangelism in the churches and a ministers' conference on evangelism in 1959.

'Rumble' Halted Between Teeners And Guardsmen

OLYMPIA (AP)—A rumble that could have become a riot was averted here late Thursday night when law enforcement officers and military police broke up a crowd of milling teenagers.

"We were sitting on top of a powder keg with all the ingredients of a Grade-A riot," Police Chief Roy L. Kelly said.

More than 100 teenagers and a National Guard trainee were reported involved in the melee which took place on the eastern edge of Olympia.

One of the youths told the Daily Olympian his gang had had trouble with youths from Vancouver and made the date for the rumble to settle their differences.

A rumble, in the language of teenagers, means an old-fashioned gang fight.

"As far as the National Guards are concerned, they were on our side," the youth said. "The trouble was the Guards were in their civvies and nobody really knew the Vancouverers. You couldn't tell who was hitting whom."

Chief Kelly said the guardsmen were members of the Oregon National Guard in training at Ft. Lewis. He said the men were restricted to the base Friday and were scheduled to return to Oregon Saturday.

Military police from Ft. Lewis joined law enforcement officers in breaking up the milling crowd — a task that took nearly two hours.

Diplomat Tries To Smuggle Man

LONDON (AP)—A British diplomat — now out of the Foreign Service — tried to smuggle a man out of Communist Czechoslovakia, the Foreign Office admitted Friday.

But it accused the Reds of planting the man to frame the diplomat.

The Czech Embassy announced that Eric Page Bedford had been expelled from Czechoslovakia on charges of buying military secrets from Ladislav Machacek and accepting $1,400 from him to spirit the Czech out of the country to avoid suspicions.

The British Foreign Office said Bedford, second secretary who examined visas at the Prague Embassy, was caught at the frontier April 3 with Machacek hiding in the trunk of his car.

The Foreign Office statement added, when Machacek was discovered it became "clear that this was a deliberate frameup on the part of Czechoslovak authorities."

He showed no sign of fright or distress.

Bedford's superiors did not know of his plan, the statement said. Bedford, who has since quit the Foreign Service, was quoted as denying that he tried to smuggle out Machacek for money.

The craft later was found, though, at Portland International Airport, where it had landed because of an oil leak. Gleason flew on here in another plane.

most influential spokesmen for the moderate group that stands between Chamoun and rebels trying to overthrow him, said Beirut's leading newspaper L'Orient.

An editorial criticizing Hammarskjold appeared to be unexpected support for the president from a source that has been opposing him though not siding with the rebels.

Hammarskjold has taken the position that a Security Council resolution of June 11 establishing the observers was only for them to look, but L'Orient and some other sources here have interpreted it to mean that the observers should seal the border.

"If there is any interference, the United Nations should be able to establish the fact and prevent it," the editorial said. "If the United Nations finds negative evidence, then who profits from prolonging this troubled situation in Lebanon?"

Hope Fades For Miners Trapped In Flooded Mine

FUKUOKA, Japan (AP)—Hope faded today for 25 miners trapped in flooded Honseida Mine as rescue workers were hampered by excessive water leakage and threats of cave-ins.

Wives of the trapped miners kept up an all-night vigil in the rain at the entrance of the pit in the mining region of southern Kyushu Island.

Seven of 32 miners managed to escape when water, believed to be from an underground current, suddenly poured in Friday afternoon some 250 yards from the entrance. Two pumps were unable to drain the pit overnight.

Clergyman Takes Back Errant Wife

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A clergyman has taken back his errant wife whose brief romance with an ex-convict cowboy came to light after the cowboy was arrested on charges of defrauding her of a $203,000 inheritance.

The Rev. James A. Doubleday, 39, and his wife emerged solemnly from their suburban Kirkwood home to see newsmen Friday.

The clergyman, rector of Grace Episcopal Church in Kirkwood, would say only that there had been a reconciliation and "there will be no divorce."

He would not let reporters question his wife, Mrs. Barbara Fox Doubleday, 33.

Mrs. Doubleday, mother of two, went to Reno four months ago and filed suit for divorce. There she took up with Raymond Lewis Headspeth, 37, a husky, tattooed former Texan working on a dude ranch.

The FBI said she cashed $200,000 in bonds, which she inherited last spring from her grandfather, and went with Headspeth to Tucson, Ariz., where they registered at a motel eight days ago.

Next morning she found her cowboy friend, her money, car and other belongings were gone. She went to the FBI Monday.

Headspeth, seized in Miami Thursday after attracting notice by his free spending, insisted she gave him the money.

PLAIN TRUTH

By Glen W. Lundy: Gospel Evangelist

Anticipating our forwardness and pride in our own wisdom the writer of Proverbs warns, "There is a way that seemeth right unto a man but the end thereof are ways of death." (Prov. 14:12. Aggravating the case with which man may be led astray, Jeremiah declares: "I know that the way of man is not in himself; it is not in man that walketh to direct his steps." Why should we feel that we have the intelligence to direct our steps by our wisdom in such a way as to please God? How can we direct our steps to a place we have never been (heaven)? Jeremiah again speaking for the Lord, admonishes: "Let not the wise man glory in his wisdom—nor the mighty man in his might—nor the rich man in his riches—but let him that glorieth glory in this, that he understandeth and knoweth Me, that I am the Lord."
