Church Activities

Dinner Honors Oakland Pastor Who Is Retiring

A dinner honoring Dr. and Mrs. Homer M. Noble was held Sunday evening at the Oakland Community Presbyterian Church.

About 150 people attended with guests from Drain and Roseburg. A gift of money was given the Nobles who are building a home at Port Orford.

Speakers were George Wilcox, elder of the church; Rev. John E. Adams and Donald Kelley of Roseburg, and Dr. Noble.

Dr. Noble, who has been minister of the Oakland church for the last six and a half years, is retiring. He and his wife left early this week to make their home on the coast where their two sons live.

Rev. and Mrs. Richard Wayne will arrive sometime this week from San Francisco to take over as minister of the church. He recently graduated from San Anselmo Theological Seminary.

It was announced the Roseburg church has given $250 to the Oakland church, which will be used for the kitchen. James Whipple of Drain has offered material for the ceiling in the fellowship room.

There will be a meeting of the congregation this Sunday to vote on the sale of the old parish house, according to correspondent Edith Dunn.

Westside Church Slates Earlier Worship Service

Beginning this Sunday, the Westside Christian Church will have an 8:30 a.m. worship service in addition to the usual 9:45 Bible school and 11 a.m. worship.

The two worship services will be identical in most respects. The order of service, communion and sermon will be the same at both services. Each service will also have a special musical number. It is planned to emphasize family worship at the early service and several young people will participate in it by providing special music.

Parents are encouraged to bring their children to the worship service. However, there will be a nursery where parents may leave their babies if they so desire. There will also be a nursery during the 9:45 a.m. service.

It is the hope of the minister, George Knox, and the official church board, that having an 8:30 service will not only increase attendance but will meet a need and serve the residents of West Roseburg in a better way.

Television Courses Set For Higher Education
