Cancer-Stricken Chennault Cheered By Mme. Chiang

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A sad-headed Madame Chiang Kai-shek headed for New York Saturday with the knowledge she has brought comfort to an ailing comrade of China's war against the Japanese, cancer-stricken Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault.

The former commander of the Flying Tigers of World War II was reported in brighter spirits following the visit by the First Lady of Nationalist China.

Chennault has been under periodic treatment for lung cancer several months. Last weekend he suffered severe respiratory difficulties.

The general, daily growing into a shadow of his robust, fighting youth, met his long time friend for possibly the last time from his bedside.

"I can't talk very well," he said in a voice barely audible.

"You always talked too much anyway," Mme. Chiang replied. "I want to do the talking this time."

"You have that wonderful fighting spirit," she told Chennault. "You never were defeated, certainly not by the Japanese."

Mrs. Chiang and Chennault recounted memories of the general's days in China when he led the small band of fliers against the overpowering Japanese air armada. The general's condition allowed the reunion to last only 15 minutes.

Whether he wins this battle or not, he will always be remembered as the man who never gave up a fight.

Gruesome Letter Makes Writer Mental Patient

NEW YORK (AP) — "I will kill myself the 13th of July at 12 o'clock by gas in an apartment house."

This was the opening sentence of a tortured message received Monday by the New York Daily News. It was signed John Doe and set off a search that five days later — Friday — turned up the writer of the letter.

"I live my life in great suffering and I have no friends or do they or you care. But before I die I will kill my family of 3 girls 2 boys, my wife by blowing up our apartment."

"I work very hard for $42 per week after deductions. I am in debt for the rent. I have no food and my kids is ragged...they are better off dead and so am I."

News reporters, the police and the Welfare Department began a needle-in-a-haystack search by checking the thousands of letters written by rangers and filed at police headquarters. The handwriting of one of them matched the letter to the News. The Welfare Department scoured its files.

Dawson was sent to Bellevue Hospital for mental observation.

Bail Forfeited By Some Accused Boat Operators

Several boat operators cited over the July 4 holiday weekend for speeding on Diamond Lake already have forfeited bonds in the district court of Judge Warren A. Woodruff.

State police, using a swift outboard motor boat to patrol the waters, wrote 23 citations. Only one of the boaters was from Douglas county.

Judge Woodruff has set next Monday and July 16 as dates for hearing the complaints.

Operators of power boats exceeding the 10-mile Diamond Lake speed limit are assessed the following fines: $15 for traveling above 10 and not more than 15 miles an hour; $20 for going 10 miles over the speed limit; and $25 for being clocked in excess of 20 miles an hour on the lake.

Diamond Lake, primarily a fishing area, is one of several Oregon bodies of water where a boat speed limit has been placed by state law, police pointed out.

Berserk Man Kills Woman, Himself, Wounds 3 Men

SANDPOINT, Idaho (AP) — A 73-year-old retired rancher ran amok in this north Idaho lumbering community Friday night and, wielding a pistol with deadly accuracy, killed one woman and wounded three other persons.

Emil Okonen, who opened fire in a tavern-cafe without any apparent provocation, then drove to his nearby home and killed himself with a rifle as lawmen poured shot after shot into the barricaded house.

Killed in the tavern was Mrs. Ruth Tanner, 66. Wounded, none seriously, were Robert Hunter, 46, bartender; Bud McMertry, a customer; and Police Chief George Elliott.

McMertry was running toward the back door of the tavern in an effort to escape when one of Okonen's shots wounded him.

Okonen's wife was sitting in one of the tavern booths. Bullets ripped up both padding on both sides of her but she was unhurt.

Elliott was wounded after Okonen barricaded himself in the house.

Lawmen from nearby St. Maries and Coeur d'Alene were dispatched here. Washington State patrolmen were called in.

The officers fired steadily at the house. Soon they noticed their shots were going unanswered.

Rush to the house found Okonen had killed himself with a 30-30 caliber deer rifle.

Business Will Get Larger Boost From Uncle Sam Next Year Than Budget Indicates

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The recession-blit economy will get a bigger boost from Uncle Sam in the next 12 months than the federal budget indicates.

The budget, according to expert estimates, will be 10 to 12 billion dollars in the red for the 1959 fiscal year that began July 1.

That much deficit spending — spending of borrowed money, in effect — can add a good bit of zip to the business outlook. But that's the only part of the deficit story.

Uncle Sam keeps still another set of books, and government experts are now guessing that these will show a deficit one to two billion dollars bigger than that in the regular budget.

The second set of books is kept on a cash flow basis. That is, it records the amount of money the government receives from the public, balanced against federal payments to the public.

Means Push For Business
Economists say cash flow is a good measure of the impact of federal financial operations on the income of the public as a whole.

For example, if the cash figures show a 12-billion-dollar deficit in the current fiscal year, the government in effect will be adding roughly this amount to the public income.

A fiscal transfusion on that scale would prove a potent prop under the economy. And if the recession has already touched bottom, as some economists believe, it could give business a big push upward.

It's also significant that the effect of the deficit will be greater in the first half of the fiscal year, through Dec. 31, than in the second half. This is so because government revenues are scanty in the July-December period. Corporation tax payments are heaviest in the second half of the fiscal year.

Surpluses Disappear
The cash flow figures ordinarily show a smaller deficit than the budget statistics. For fiscal 1958, for example, some government economists estimate the cash deficit will be about a billion dollars less than the budget deficit.

The cash accounts include Social Security and highway trust funds and some other items that aren't part of the regular budget.

These special funds have shown a surplus in recent years. In fiscal 1959, however, more money will be paid out of these accounts than will be taken in.

That's why the cash figures this year will add to the economic impact of the budget deficit, instead of blunting its effect.

A lot of Americans who normally don't like red ink spending by the government may say it could not have happened at a better time — particularly if they are among the 5½ million unemployed.

Jaycees At Sutherlin Get Two New Members

Don Gifford and George Enlow were installed as new members at a recent Sutherlin Junior Chamber of Commerce meeting.

Reports were made on Shopping Days scheduled for July 25. Some Sutherlin merchants still have to be contacted regarding advertising space on a Roseburg radio station, Art Bennett, said.

Dr. Max Post was appointed chairman of an annual picnic to be held on Scallons Beach July 19. See Siskstrom, News - Review correspondent, reports.

Trainmen Think 'Twas Sputnik They Glimpsed

Three Southern Pacific train crewmen from Roseburg reported they sighted what appeared to be a Sputnik Friday night.

The three are E. W. Duvall, Virgil Utterback and L. A. Dale. Duvall said they were aboard a local freight between Dillard and Green when they spotted the object at 9:35 p.m.

Duvall said the object, traveling from southwest to northeast, flashed intermittently and was visible for about 20 seconds. He said it was as bright as the more prominent stars.

The time, however, was nearly one-half hour later than the scheduled appearance of the Sputnik III carrier-rocket. The satellite was slated to flash over Oregon skies at 9:27 p.m.

The Oregon Moonwatch Team of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory in Portland said the Sputnik rocket will appear tonight at 9:32 p.m. It will be in the north-west sky.

No Settlement Yet In Strike Of Engineers

PORTLAND (AP) — Negotiating meetings between the striking Operating Engineers Union and the Associated General Contractors will continue Monday before a federal mediator.

A four-hour meeting in Portland Friday failed to end the strike-lockout which has idled more than 20,000 men in Oregon and southwest Washington, tying up 350 million dollars worth of construction projects.

Federal Mediation Service mediator Roy Smith declined to say what progress, if any, had been made Friday.

The dispute centers around wages and working conditions. Contractors in a later meeting were advised to fill out blanks to prevent payment of unemployment compensation to workers not involved in the dispute.

Copies of AGC offers to the union were distributed. These included a wage increase of 25 cents an hour retroactive to Jan. 1, 1959, and by 18 cents Jan. 1, 1960.

The proposed increases, which include pension benefits, would amount to $4.80 a day over the two-year period.

Paul Robeson Finally Departs For Russia

NEW YORK (AP) — Paul Robeson left here by plane Thursday for London with his first passport since he was barred from foreign travel in 1950.

Robeson's concert schedule includes appearances in Prague and the Soviet Union.

Asked if he planned to stay abroad, the Negro singer replied: "This is my land. My grandfather and my father were born here too and I don't plan to leave it."

He received his passport after the Supreme Court invalidated the State Department's requirement that he sign a non-Communist affidavit.

Robeson has supported various Communist-front causes and was a winner of the Stalin Peace Prize.

Peace Feeler Thrust Out To Goldfine

More Evidence Rather Than Contempt Charge Preferred By Probers
By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. John Bell Williams (D-Miss) tendered a peace feeler to Bernard Goldfine today. He indicated a contempt citation may not be voted for time — if at all.

"We are not anxious to cite him," said Williams, a senior Democrat on a House subcommittee investigating relations between Boston millionaire Goldfine and Sherman Adams, President Eisenhower's chief aide.

Williams said "we are much more anxious to get the information" about some of Goldfine's finances — information which Goldfine has refused to give so far on grounds it is not relevant to the inquiry.

"There would be no need to cite him if we get the information," Williams said.

Williams spoke in an interview as Goldfine was given a long week end to ponder his troubles with the subcommittee and plan strategy for his scheduled reappearance on the witness stand Tuesday.

Goldfine said he would think over a subcommittee plea that he answer more questions. But he gave no sign of yielding as he and his wife prepared to fly home today.

Firm 'Milking' Charged

The House inquiry into Goldfine's relations with his friend Adams and with federal regulatory agencies hit a climax Friday when the Boston industrialist refused to answer 23 questions specially drawn up under threat of contempt if he didn't answer.

The questions took the line that Goldfine milked a company he controlled, but did not completely own, of $104,973 in easy loans in 1945-48.

Goldfine talked freely about gifts to high federal officials. But he said his financial transactions were none of the subcommittee's business because (1) they didn't deal with regulatory agencies
