By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Soviet government called on the United States Wednesday to withdraw at once from Lebanon and said Russia "cannot stand by as a spectator."

Moscow Radio broadcast the government statement in Arabic on the American landings in Lebanon.

Moscow said it considers the situation in the Middle East "a threat to world peace."

The Soviet government said it "reserves for itself the right to take the necessary measures to protect peace and security."

In Washington a State Department spokesman, when told of the Soviet threat, commented only "I am sure the Soviet propaganda pumps are going full blast."

fring a resumption of diplomatic relations broken three years ago.

The spokesman charged the Marine landing in Lebanon was an act "not only against the Lebanon but against other peace-loving nations of the Middle East."

U. S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson was summoned to the Foreign Ministry just before the news conference began, and handed a copy of the statement.

The statement demanded that the United States withdraw its forces from Lebanon and that the U. N. Security Council act promptly to end the "aggressive action of the imperialists."

The statement linked the United States, Britain, and Turkey, in responsibility for creation of a dangerous situation in the Middle East.

The Soviet note bristled with condemnation of the United States and its "rude intrusion" in affairs of Middle East nations.

It made no threat of active retaliation beyond saying that "the Soviet Union states that its government cannot remain indifferent to the events creating serious danger in this region adjacent to her border and reserves the right to take necessary measures to preserve peace and security."

Dag Hammarskjold Says U. N. Team Enough For Job

By MAX HARRELSON

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold said Wednesday the U. N. team can do the job of stopping outside aid to Lebanese rebels.

U. N. diplomats interpreted his statement as a move to put the skids under a U. S. proposal for an international military force to stabilize the strife-torn Middle East country.

Hammarskjold was said to be annoyed by the landings of U. S. Marines and by the U. S. plan for a new security force.

His fellow countryman, Gunnar V. Jarring of Sweden, was reported consulting other delegations on a proposal that the U. N. observer group be withdrawn as a result of the American intervention.

Jarring was scheduled to address the security council Wednesday afternoon, but he told a reporter he still had not decided whether he would submit the proposed plan.

In any event, it seemed unlikely that such a proposal would get the necessary seven votes for approval. The same prospect faced a Soviet demand for the withdrawal of the U. S. Marines.

The secretary general addressed the 13-nation Security Council briefly just before U. S. Delegate Henry Cabot Lodge formally called for the establishment of a security force to supplement the U. N. observer group now in Lebanon.

In his speech Lodge commended the work of the observer group but said the proposed international force was intended to give it added strength.

Lodge repeated the U. S. promise to withdraw American forces as soon as the U. N. is in a position to protect the independence and integrity of Lebanon.

Soviet Delegate Arkady A. Sobolev is expected to veto the U. S. proposal.

Wednesday morning the Soviet delegate renewed his attack on the United States. He accused the United States of hypocrisy in claiming that outside help to Lebanese rebels had increased alarmingly since the revolt in Iraq.

He called the U. S. claim "the big lie, the big mockery, the big cheat."

The council must act, he said, to "stop this precipitate sliding into another war."

tion after returning home in March from a Middle East visit with his wife and 14-year-old twin daughters, Stephanie and Carol.

Burns wrote several books on wild life and fishing and a book on the combat career of the aircraft carrier Enterprise. "There Was One."

Colley, about 56, executive vice president of Pacific Bechtel Corp., overseas subsidiary of one of the nation's major engineering and construction firms, was inspecting oil company construction jobs in Iraq.

Colley's wife, Marmorie, was reported on a motor trip in Mexico.

Burns was born in Moscow and came to the United States as a child. He was naturalized in Seattle in 1929. Before starting a writing career with the Honolulu Star Bulletin, Burns studied at the University of Washington and Harvard and taught English at the University of Idaho and Albany College in Oregon.

Burns parents were White Russians, who escaped from the Communists into China and later sent him to the United States.

He worked in logging camps and as a forest ranger at Grand Canyon and in Hawaii before becoming a college instructor.

Undersecretary Ordered Immediately To Lebanon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Deputy Under Secretary of State Robert D. Murphy broke off testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Wednesday to answer an urgent summons from Secretary Dulles to fly to Lebanon.

Engaged in debate with Democratic senators over the administration's passport bill, Murphy was interrupted by a telephone call in the committee room.

He informed the committee that Dulles "has just called me to report back to him at the State Department, and leave for Beirut this afternoon."

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore.) said he thought it was "the utmost importance" that Murphy obey the summons. But he told the under secretary he would delay questions on the passport issue until Murphy's return.

Jury Awards $1,500 Damages Against County

A circuit court jury late Tuesday awarded Gerald K. Lane of rural Roseburg $1,500 damages for a county right-of-way across his property on Happy Valley Rd.

Lane and others had brought suit against the county asking $4,500 after a county appraiser had placed a value of $600 on the land.

Recently the county straightened the highway east of the South Umpqua River about 4 1/2 miles from the city but cutting across the Lane property. About 86 acres was involved.

The trial was held before Circuit Judge Carl E. Wimberly.

Douglas Not Taking Part In Civil Defense Alert

Douglas County is not actively participating in a national civil defense alert which was called at 8:30 this morning.

The local civil defense office will only carry out progress reports received from the warning station at Medford, according to Arthur Selby, county civil defense director.

The county decision to not participate was made in view of national conditions, Selby said. He emphasized that the alert was planned more than a month ago and has nothing to do with current world conditions.
