By STERLING SLAPPEY

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union shot into a 199-153 overall lead over the United States Monday after 29 events in their giant dual track and field meet here.

The Russian women defeated the Americans 63-44. The U.S. men led their Soviet rivals in points but did not have enough to make up the women's deficit.

Jim Grelle, of the University of Oregon, scored a surprise victory for the American team in the 1500 meter run (metric mile). His time was 3 minutes, 46.7 seconds. His American teammate, Ed Moran of James City, Pa., finished third.

The Russians had been conceded a good chance to win the event. Earlene Brown, 220-pound Los Angeles housewife, set a world record in the women's shot put.

Mrs. Brown hurled the shot 54 feet, 3 1/3 inches. Miss Zybina's best effort was 52 feet, 11 1/2 inches. Sharon Ann Shephard of Mapleton, Ore., finished fourth with a throw of 44 feet, 8 1/2 inches.

Girl Goes Home With 100 Pebbles Still Inside Her

SALEM (AP) — Connie Holland went home from the hospital Sunday with 100 pebbles still inside her.

Doctors have removed 50 of the small rocks from the 10-year-old girl, and hope nature will take care of the rest still clinging to the walls of her stomach and intestines.

Connie came down with pneumonia late last week, started spitting up pebbles and was rushed to a hospital. Doctors discovered the rocks inside her after X-rays were taken. More X-rays are scheduled in about a week.

The doctors believe the child probably had been eating the smooth little pebbles for six months or more.

"They taste good," Connie said. A doctor speculated the child might have been trying to compensate for a mineral deficiency in her system.

The child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Holland of Salem. He is a sheet metal worker.

Mrs. Holland said she had no idea her daughter had been swallowing the pebbles, which were about the size of a fingernail.

Funeral arrangements are being arranged by the Chapel of the Roses. In lieu of flowers, the family has requested that donations be made to the book fund of the Osborne Carnegie Library.

Khrushchev Accuses Ike Of Trying To Scuttle East-West Conference

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet Premier Khrushchev accused President Eisenhower Monday of trying to scuttle an East-West summit conference proposed for New York.

He offered as an alternate to convene the talks in Moscow or any other place in Europe suitable to the four other powers.

By the four other powers he meant the United States, Britain, France and India.

He said the Soviet government would guarantee the safety and security of the participants if they met in Moscow.

He was making this offer, he said, because American diplomats and the American press had expressed concern about the difficulty of guaranteeing security of the participants if the meeting were held in New York.

Would Please DeGaulle — Khrushchev also said a meeting in Europe — in Geneva, Vienna, Paris or any other place — would support proposals of French Premier Charles de Gaulle.

Khrushchev's proposal and shortly worded charges were contained in letters addressed to Eisenhower, De Gaulle and British Prime Minister Macmillan.

The tone of the replies seemed to indicate Khrushchev was pulling sharply away from the idea of a high level U.N. Security Council meeting.

Khrushchev said it was up to the five powers to settle the Middle East problem, because the Security Council had been discussing it and done nothing.

Accusing President Eisenhower directly, he said, "you do not work for peace."

He declared the Middle East was becoming "more like a powder keg," that the U.S. troop buildup in Lebanon was still going on, that Robert Murphy, President Eisenhower's envoy, was interfering in the domestic affairs of Lebanon, and that King Hussein of Jordan "dares to brandish arms and threaten a crusade on Baghdad."

"We continue to insist on a withdrawal of the interventionist troops from Lebanon and Jordan," he said.

Remarks On Session — As for his proposal for a five-power summit meeting, he declared:

"It seems that an effort is made to bury the previous idea of the conference. We cannot accept this."

Khrushchev went on: "Apparently you do not want to take steps to stop aggression in Jordan and Lebanon. This cannot but evoke alarm among the people. The people of the world are anxious lest the states responsible for peace in the Middle East try to lull public opinion and prepare quietly for further aggression."

In Washington, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty said there would be no comment until Eisenhower has received the full text of the Soviet Premier's letter. Hagerty said a copy had not yet been received at the White House.

Space Flight Not To Be Halted By Death Of Air Ace

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. — Plans for the first Air Force flight into outer space went ahead today despite the death in a jet crash of Capt. Iven Kincheloe Jr., who had been chosen to make the initial attempt.

The Air Force disclosed the name of the pilot previously selected as Kincheloe's replacement.

He is Capt. Robert M. White, a New Yorker who at 34 is a 16-year Air Force veteran. White is an engineering graduate of New York University and an eight-time winner of the Air Medal.

He becomes part of the three-man team assigned to the secret, shrouded X15 rocket plane that has been described by the secretary of the Air Force as "the first step toward a manned satellite."

Kincheloe, a rugged blond whose face once said belonged on a recruiting poster, had dreamed of being one of the first space pioneers to blast up into the mysterious void beyond the earth's atmosphere.

"I definitely want to be part of orbital flying," the quiet-spoken Korean War jet ace once told a reporter.

Kincheloe, 30, who liked to drive an old Model A Ford around the base already had flown to an American altitude record of 128,000 feet in the needle-nosed X2-fore-runner of the X15.

Then, last Saturday he was killed when he ejected himself from his crashing F104 jet fighter.

The Air Force also announced that White's replacement — or "back up" pilot — is Capt. Robert Rushworth, 33, Norridgewock, Maine. He has a wife and infant daughter.

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Rambling waters which brought one of the worst floods in this city's history to a drop in water level after leaving thousands homeless.

Three persons were reported lost as rescue workers toiled through their flooded homes.

President Arturo Frondizi mobilized civilian and military forces to fight the River Plate flood as firefighters, police and troops were dispatched to the stricken areas by truck and helicopter.

Argentine doctors who have been on strike for several weeks called a truce to assist rescue teams.

Frondizi sent word he could put 200 homeless at the presidential mansion. Hundreds of others spent the night in hospitals and barracks. Communications were paralyzed by waters which felled power and telephone lines.

One sailor in a rescue unit was swept away by the swirling waters and dashed to death against a bridge. Police also reported that a woman and child disappeared in the flood.

The storm, accompanied by a cold wave, struck Buenos Aires after weeks of unusually mild weather.

Sergeant Arrested For Harsh Treatment

FT. CHAFFEE, Ark. — A veteran sergeant was arrested today after a complaint of disciplinary measures he allegedly ordered for a group of green Army trainees.

Thirty-one soldiers, including two who were hospitalized, suffered second and third degree burns on their hands while doing pushups Saturday on hot asphalt.

Capt. Arlie Metheny, Ft. Chaffee public information officer, said the record of Sgt. Roy C. Cobb, 29, Atlanta, Ga., showed that he had been in no serious trouble before.

Cobb has four years of active duty with the Army and three of inactive time.

Cobb ordered the pushups for the men because they moved after the sergeant had called them to attention, Metheny said.

Prince Of Wales Brings To Mom Top Report Card

LONDON (AP) — The new Prince of Wales, 9-year-old Prince Charles, is top of his class in Geography. And his French is coming on well, too.

He cheered up his ailing mother, Queen Elizabeth II, by bringing home this bright report card to Buckingham Palace over the weekend. The queen is recovering from a sharp attack of sinusitis.

Charles, who is at Cheam School 40 miles west of London heard his mother's recorded television announcement Saturday that she was naming him Prince of Wales. A few hours later the term examination results were posted on the school notice board.

The young heir to the throne isn't so good at arithmetic. "I don't think he would make an accountant," a school spokesman said. "But a thorough knowledge of foreign countries and languages will stand him in good stead for the future."

"He was very pleased with the examination results."

One strange language the prince hasn't started to learn yet is Welsh.

Thousands of people living in the remotest part of Wales, the mountainous southwest corner of Britain, still speak the ancient language. They will expect their prince to have a smattering of it.

The last Prince of Wales—the Duke of Windsor—spoke a few sentences in the tongue at his investiture ceremony in storied Caernarvon Castle in 1911.

Westerners Appear Safe In Iraq For Present

BAGHDAD, Iraq — Westerners appear to be safe in Iraq now, and this ancient capital's large foreign colony reports no trouble at all since the July 14 revolution.

On that day three Americans, a German and a Briton were killed by mobs but the rioters were quickly brought under control by the new republican regime.

Most foreigners here seem convinced the army and the new government did not anticipate anti-Western violence during the uprising. The army's fault lay in letting the mobs get out of control.

Since July 14 the army has taken special precautions to protect foreigners.

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The July death toll on Cyprus climbed to 84 Monday in another day of killings.

Portland Zoo Keeper Leaves For Copenhagen

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Jack Marks, director of the Portland Zoo, left here Monday by air for Copenhagen where he plans to visit the zoo.

Marks arrived in Brussels last week to exchange four Oregon beavers for four cub bears from Russia.

He said that despite the fact his bears are at present being cared for in Antwerp zoo, and the beavers are already in Moscow, he has been unable so far to reach any Soviet official to sign the documents of transfer which the Russians claim are indispensable.

"Well, anyway, I got my bears and they got their beavers and my cubs are leaving for Portland July 31," he added.

A planned formal beaver exchange at the World Fair last Saturday was canceled after the Russians abruptly flew the beavers to Moscow.

Arrests Near 200 As Authorities Push Plot Probe

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Arrests near the 200 mark Monday as authorities pressed a nationwide hunt for participants in last week's abortive plot to topple Venezuela's provisional government.

Officials had said the crisis ended with the exiling of about 15 high ranking Army officers led by Defense Minister Jesus Maria Castro Leon. But the junta appeared determined to prevent any new attempt by diehard followers of ousted dictator Marcos Perez Jimenez.

The government announced the arrest of Eduardo Sanchez Lanza, former governor of Bolivar state, and five others in Caracas. Police said 30 more suspects are being sought in the capital. The newspaper El Nacional said Dr. Alberto Caldera, director of the multi-national dollar chemical industry under Perez Jimenez, was under arrest.

Police launched a wide search for the clandestine radio station which had called on the people to revolt, as intelligence agents hunt suspects in towns throughout the nation.

The widespread arrests indicated revolt leaders had counted on partisans of Perez Jimenez to stir up trouble in strategic sectors to help unseat the junta.

There was also increasing evidence that the plotters jumped the gun and made their move before preparations were complete. The government announced July 24 that it had foiled the plot to seize power.

Bill Aimed At Preventing Killing Of Wildlife, Fish By Use Of Poisonous Spray

By JOHN KAMPS

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill on "Laboratory Studies on the Use of Toxic Substances" calls for a study aimed at preventing the poisoning of fish and wildlife by forest and crop sprays.

The Senate completed congressional action Wednesday on the bill which would authorize an annual appropriation of $250,000 for a continuing investigation of the effects of insecticides, herbicides, fungicides and other pesticides upon fish and wildlife.

If the President signs the bill investigators will have to look for ways to spray forest crops, wetlands and meadows with minimum losses of fish and game.

Need Said Urgent — "The urgent need for study needs little demonstration," said the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee in approving the bill. "Testimony before the committee showed that the maximum amount of DDT, first of the newest of insecticide being used presently, was two pounds per acre."

"Although amounts in excess of that had extremely bad effects on many forms of wildlife, one, diel-drin, has a potency 20 times that of DDT and is being used in about the same quantities as DDT," the committee said, it added:

"Laboratory studies on the effect of DDT on quail have demonstrated that excessive amounts absorbed by breeding birds adversely affect their fertility and that absorption by the young tends to make them completely barren, the combined effects of which could be elimination of the entire species if research is not instituted to find means to secure necessary pest control without undue harm to the birds.

200 Different Kinds — "There are over 200 highly toxic insecticides and pesticides in general use and their effect in wildlife is almost completely unknown. Leffler said sprays used to control the yellow aphid are having an 'appalling serious' effect on bird populations.

Spraying of forests in the fight against spruce budworms has caused serious losses of salmon, he reported.

Liberal Wins In Texas Vote; Daniels Victor

DALLAS — Liberal U. S. Sen. Ralph Yarborough decisively won re-nomination in Texas' Democratic primary Saturday but Gov. Price Daniel's conservative forces appeared to have retained control of the party organization and the Texas delegation to the 1960 national convention.

In a clear-cut liberal versus conservative contest, Yarborough, seeking his first full six-year term, outdistanced William A. Blakely, Dallas multimillionaire who once served four months in the Senate under an interim appointment.

Virtually complete returns last night gave Yarborough 701,985 votes, Blakely 497,219.

Daniel, who won a thumping clear-cut majority for the gubernatorial nomination, had urged a strong turnout of conservatives at precinct conventions to retain control of the state organization, which has been sought by the liberal organization, the Democrats of Texas.

Daniel's backers claimed that conservative voters have rallied down 2,588 of the 4,788 delegates to the
