LOCAL NO. 701

PICKETING in a small way finally appeared on the Roseburg labor scene. Two members of the Hoisting and Portable Engineers have been manning a picket line since a union business agent reported finding supervisory personnel operating Salem Sand & Gravel Co. equipment. The company had shut down work on the city's sewer project in response to an employers' lockout call. The job hadn't been struck. At the left of the strike sign is Joe Fry, shovel oiler, and on the right, Ben Rose, shovel operator. The other picture shows the equipment which bosses purportedly were operating. The work came to a screeching halt. (Paul Jenkins)

Mediator Trying For Settlement In Teamster Rift

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A federal mediator is trying to reopen negotiations and end a strike-lockout that is stopping trucking operations in 11 Western states. George L. Hillenbrand of the Federal Mediation Service said Wednesday he planned to talk with industry representatives after an unofficial session Tuesday with Einar Mohn, president of the Western Conference of Teamsters. About 2,300 members of Teamsters' Union Joint Council 38 in California's San Joaquin Valley walked out Monday demanding wage boosts matching those of San Francisco Bay area pickup and delivery drivers. The latter receive from $2.45 to $2.72 an hour. The joint council 38 rate is $2.25 an hour. Sixteen transcontinental companies and numerous interstate trucking firms closed down then and a spokesman for the California Trucking Assn. said a strike against one was a strike against all. Mohn contended employers "had no right to lock us out," and told a news conference the union would file a federal court suit asking one million dollars a day for wages lost by lock-out drivers. There are about 40,000 Teamster members in the 11 Western states. Nearly all long-haul highway trucking in California is shut down. It was expected to be several days before transcontinental trucks on the road when the lock-out began would reach the end of their runs. No shortage was reported yet at retail outlets. Unaffiliated are company-owned truck fleets, such as those of bakeries and dairies, and movers of household goods. The strike-lockout involves common carrier highway hauling and "for hire" pickup and delivery service operating out of freight terminals. The California Employers Assn., in a statement accused Teamster president James R. Hoffa of scuttling a contract agreement reached last May. It said he made additional demands when employer and union representatives met in Seattle June 25 to sign the agreement. Faced with the trucking tie-up, the Southern Pacific Railroad sent barged shipments of less than carload lots Tuesday night. Because of clogged terminals, the railroad said, it couldn't accept small shipments for delivery to or from points in California, Oregon, Arizona, New Mexico and Nevada. The Santa Fe Railroad said for the time being it would continue to accept all shipments, large and small.

Second Atomic Sub Crosses Under N. Pole

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States staked a new claim to mastery of undersea pioneering today after a second atomic submarine had crossed under the North Pole. The U. S. Skate reached the pole at 8:47 p.m. EST Monday — just six days after its older sister, the Nautilus, emerged from an historic 1,800-mile trip across the polar cap. The Nautilus arrived yesterday in Portland, England, and got a big welcome. The Navy released word of the Skate's achievement last night without any fanfare in a two-paragraph statement. This contrasted sharply with the special White House ceremony arranged last Friday to announce the Nautilus' voyage. The bare announcement last night said the Skate surfaced in an ice field some 40 miles from the North Pole to radio word of the trip. The Navy said the Skate, the third U.S. atomic sub built, was continuing under-ice explorations. The Skate's path to the pole was just the opposite from the Nautilus, which began its journey from the Pacific. The 265-foot (Continued on Page 2 Col. 2)

First Of Three Fair Deadlines To Come Friday

The first of three deadlines for entries in the Douglas County Fair will come Friday, according to Fair Manager Dick Turley. All livestock in the open class must be entered on that day. Entry fees are 75 cents a head for beef and dairy cattle. Entries for sheep, goats and swine cost 50 cents a head. Poultry and rabbits also are entered then. Sunday will be the second entry day, Turley said. All non-perishable displays must be at the Fairgrounds then. That includes food preserves, bakings, textiles, arts, photographs and hobbies. Perishable items must be entered by next Wednesday, the day before the fair's opening day. Fruits, vegetables and flowers must be entered by that date. It also is the date for commercial exhibits to be in place for the Thursday opening. Aged Man Survives Lightning Bolt, Fire TITUSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A thunderstorm that struck an 81-year-old John E. Williams dozed in a chair at his home gave him a rude and rough awakening. A lightning bolt which Williams said sounded "like a ton of dynamite" struck nearby about 5 p.m. Boards from the ceiling fell on him. A newspaper he was holding in his hand caught fire. Williams stuffed the newspaper into a stove and climbed out of the house through a window. A son who lives nearby helped light a fire that broke out in the lean-to kitchen that had collapsed in ruins. The house was wrecked by the bolt. Williams said he wasn't hurt.

S P Locomotive Officially To Be Given At Dedication

The Southern Pacific Co. tonight will officially give old No. 1229 to the City of Roseburg. The presentation will be made during a 30-minute Stewart Park dedication ceremony. The dedication will honor Dr. Earle B. Stewart, for whom the park is named. A baseball game between the Lockwood Motors American Legion junior baseball team and Eugene's entry in the state Connie Mack League will follow the ceremony. The dedication will take place in front of the grandstand at Legion Field at 7:45 p.m. The class of locomotives of which No. 1229 is a specimen had an interesting, although undistinguished, history, according to George Abdill, Roseburg engineer who also is known for his writings of rail history. Built For Yard Service Roseburg's engine was built in 1914 by Lima Locomotive Corp. It was designed strictly for yard service, Abdill said, quoting G. M. Best's "Locomotives of the Southern Pacific Co." The class of engines, which includes later models built by Baldwin Locomotive Co., was on main lines only during transfers in service. Later, SP built some of its own engines in Sacramento. No. 1229 came to Roseburg from Sacramento, where it had been moth-balled after being removed from service. It appears that the engine spent most of its active railroading life in that vicinity, although there are no records readily available tracing its history. It probably was retired only recently, Abdill said. This particular "yarder" has what is known as a 0-6-0 wheel arrangement, meaning that there is no leading truck, as on the main line engines. All are driving wheels. Larger locomotive, besides a leading truck, have wheels under the cab for support. Speed Not Intended Analyzing the engine, Abdill pointed out that "it wasn't designed for speed. All the weight rests on the driving wheels, giving them increased traction." No. 1229 and its contemporaries are being taken out of service as diesel-powered engines, more economically operated, replace them. Another Roseburg SP engineer, L. S. McCarty, has an interesting tale to tell about this class of locomotives. He said his first job as a fireman was on No. 1218, a similar engine, in the Brooklyn yards in Portland April 13, 1920, at 3:59 p.m. More than 21 years later, on Aug. 8, 1941, his first job as an engineer was on No. 1218 in the Brooklyn yards at 3:59 p.m.

Gromyko Answers Eisenhower, Says U. S. Main Peace Threat

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko, answered President Eisenhower's Middle East peace bid Wednesday with a charge that the United States was the main threat to peace in that area. The Soviet leader addressed the emergency Middle East meeting of the 81-nation General Assembly shortly after Eisenhower had outlined a broad program for U.N. action, including creation of a standby police force and a regional agency to finance better living. Refusing to take the President's cue for playing down East-West differences, Gromyko charged that policies of the United States and Britain "threaten to hurl mankind into the abyss of a new war with all its consequences." He accused the United States of trampling the U.N. charter under its feet by sending military forces into Lebanon. He also charged that indirect aggression was a firm part of U.S. foreign policy. "Oil and oil again," Gromyko said. "That is what is tempting the monopolists of the United States and United Kingdom in the Middle East and that is what prompts them to take military intervention in the Arab states." President Eisenhower, appearing here for the first time in nearly five years, told the assembly the United States is ready to support both a Middle East peace force and a hold new agency to help finance economic projects. He was given a rousing round of applause as he concluded his 30-minute speech. The Soviet bloc delegates and some of the neutralists, however, did not join in the applause. The President left the U.N. immediately after his speech and headed back for Washington. A British spokesman welcomed the U.S. proposals and said the speech was "full of constructive ideas which we believe should be followed up." Gromyko opened up his blast shortly after the President had left. He chided the United States (Continued on Page 2 Col. 6)

Accuses Russ Of Stirring Up Hysteria

Six-Point Plan Offered To Effect Renaissance In Arab Countries

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — President Eisenhower Wednesday set forth a sweeping six-point plan for building enduring Middle East peace — including swift creation of an emergency U.N. police force and an international economic development program. In a dramatic personal appearance before a tense extraordinary meeting of the United Nations General Assembly, the President at the same time accused Russia — without naming the Soviet Union — of stirring up war hysteria with tactics of "ballistic blackmail." Eisenhower laid down his proposals for peace and economic stability in a major foreign policy speech carried coast-to-coast on television and radio, and beamed around the world by the government's Voice of America radio. Arab Renaissance He said his program would promote "a true Arab renaissance." The alternative, he asserted, is: "The danger that nations under aggressive leadership will seek to exploit the horror of war by confronting the nations, particularly small nations, with an apparent choice between supine surrender, or war." Again without naming Moscow, Eisenhower compared the Kremlin's conduct with someone who cries "fire" in a crowded assembly. The President's proposed six points: A standby United Nations peace force. An Arab-run Middle East economic development loan fund and a technical assistance program; financed jointly by the Arab states, the United States and other countries, presumably including Russia. A constant U.N. check to curb inflammatory propaganda broadcasts to and from the Middle East nations. Control of Arms Shipments A U.N. study of possible con- (Continued on Page 2 Col. 3)

Pre-School, Ninth Grade Students Need Health Exams

Parents of pre-school children and ninth graders have been urged to provide their children with health examinations by their family doctor as soon as possible. This is necessary so that the examinations can be completed prior to the opening of school. The announcement was made Monday night at a meeting of the Douglas County Health Department, County Medical Society and the Douglas County School Superintendents. Health examination forms are available at doctor's offices and the County Health Department. Purpose of the examination is to discover if there are any defects which might interfere with normal progress and development of the child in school. Purpose of Monday night's meeting was to discuss the physical examinations for children and school bus drivers. A committee was appointed to gather information concerning the examinations to the public. The committee consists of Leo Crisman, superintendent of Elkton Schools; M. C. Deller, superintendent of Roseburg Schools; Tom Hueston, superintendent of Reedley Elementary Schools; Dr. Robert R. Moores, president of the County Medical Society; Dr. D. M. Jeppeson, Dr. G. N. Early Settlement Probable In Big Construction Tieup

SALEM (AP)—Early settlement of the five-week construction tie-up in Oregon and Southwest Washington was virtually assured Tuesday night when negotiators agreed on a return-to-work pact. The agreement, subject to approval by the Associated General Contractors and the Hoisting and Portable Engineers Union membership, was reached in a lengthy session with Gov. Robert Holmes. The talks began at 10:30 a.m. and ended shortly before 9:30 p.m. The governor's press secretary said that if terms of the agreement are accepted by both sides, "it seems reasonable that work could resume by next Monday." Terms of the proposal were not announced. Resolve Differences Holmes said in a statement that

Foreign affairs: Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko says he believes the question of RECALL OF WESTERN TROOPS FROM LEBANON AND JORDAN is the most important question to be discussed at the forthcoming special session of the U. N. General Assembly in New York. He made the statement to newsmen at Idlewild airport in New York Monday morning when he arrived aboard a Scandinavian Airlines plane with 28 Soviet aides. He added: "The Soviet government has considered and continues to consider that the withdrawal of American troops from Lebanon and the British troops from Jordan is a very serious question."
