I, Chas Doerner, County Clerk of Douglas County, Oregon, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true and correct statement of the financial condition of Douglas County, Oregon, at the close of the fiscal year ending June 30, 1958, as the same is shown by records and reports on file in my office, as I verily believe.

Dates this 29th day of July, 1958.

Charles Doerner, County Clerk

Persons Idled By Strike But Not On Strike Themselves Eligible For Compensation

SALEM (AP) — Workers idled by the Operating Engineers' strike who are not themselves members of the striking union or who did not refuse to cross picket lines, may draw unemployment compensation.

R. F. Baxter, supervisor of the benefit section of the Unemployment Compensation Commission, said Tuesday that this is the situation:

Those who did not themselves take action to become participants in a labor dispute—and who are otherwise eligible for benefits—may file valid claims.

Members of the striking union are not eligible. Others who refused to cross a picket line are not eligible.

Not Picketed

However many of the construction operations were shut down by employers and were not picketed.

Baxter said the situation at every one of more than a hundred idled construction sites in the state is being investigated. It will be the end of the week before all of the material is at hand, he said.

How many valid claims might result from the strike-lockout Baxter said he would not guess.

The procedure of approving claims of workers idled by lockout—if they had no role in the labor dispute—is not new, Baxter said. However, a complicating factor is absence of any mention of lockout in the compensation law. Each case, he said, needs individual investigation.

He declined comment on the current lockout of Teamsters Union members in Ore[illegible]. He said it would be next week, likely, before any determination was made in that work stoppage.

The general provisions of Oregon Unemployment Compensation Act will be outlined to union business agents in Portland Thursday afternoon by commission members. This meeting was set up as a result of requests, a spokesman said, and is not related directly to the current strikes and lockouts. It will be for discussion of the law and not for determination of any issues.

Another Reformatory Escapee Is Apprehended

MONROE, Wash. (AP) — One of nine youths who escaped the Washington State Reformatory here two weeks ago was reported caught Tuesday after an auto-pedestrian accident near Las Vegas, Nev., Monday night.

Reformatory Supt. E. Timpani said he is believed to be William Civil Brown, alias William Pennington, 18, of Longview, Wash.

Four of the nine escapees still were at large.

Brown, Timpani said, is reported to have been seriously hurt, apparently while hitchhiking. He had one leg amputated as a result of the mishap, reports here indicate.

Aluminum, Cement Plea Asks Parity With Wood

OLYMPIA (AP)—Several weeks ago, Gov. Albert D. Rosellini issued a letter encouraging the use of lumber in structures for the Century 21 exposition at Seattle.

The letter prompted aluminum industry officials to request similar treatment.

So Rosellini put out a second letter praising Washington aluminum as a building material for the exposition.

Last week, the third letter was issued.

This time the governor extolled the merits of cement products for buildings at the fair, after urgings from state cement producers.

WHEAT FOR LEBANON

BEIRUT (AP) — The United States began distributing five million dollars worth of free wheat to Lebanon this week. The steamer Moline Victory began discharging an initial cargo of 3,500 tons. In all, 65,000 tons is being rushed to Lebanon.

Engineers Strike Affects 2,000 In Washington

OLYMPIA (AP) — The operating engineer strike in Southwest Washington has affected some 2,000 persons and tied up about 12 million dollars worth of highway projects, state officials disclosed Tuesday.

State Highways Director W. A. Bugge said completion of many of the projects, originally scheduled for this year, has been postponed until sometime in 1958.

Included in the list is work on the seven million dollar interstate bridge project at Vancouver and a $300,000 contract for building the north approach to the span.

Bugge said all highway construction projects in Cowlitz, Wahkiakum, Clark, Skamania, Klickitat and the southern part of Pacific counties are at a standstill.

A half million dollar paving job north of Vancouver for which bids were to have been called Tuesday has been indefinitely postponed because the strike has blocked completion of the grading, he added.

Peter R. Giovine, state employment security commissioner, estimated that the labor dispute has added about 400 names to the state's unemployment compensation rolls.

He said about 2,000 persons are affected directly or indirectly, but that only those indirectly affected and who haven't refused to cross picket lines are eligible for jobless benefits.

Meatcutters In Four Plants Receive Raise

PORTLAND (AP) — Workers in four Oregon meat packing plants will receive a 7½-cent hourly pay raise under terms of a new contract announced this week.

The agreement covers Amalgamated Meatcutters and Butchers Workmen at the Nebergaul packing plant in Albany, the Valley Packing Co. in Salem and the Swift and Armour plants in Portland.

New minimum scales, ranging from $2.23 to $2.85½ per hour, go into effect Sept. 1, the union said.

Foster Parents Of Child Revealed By Plane Crash

SALISBURY, Southern Rhodesia (AP) — Michael Lycett flew to Benghazi, Libya, this week to the side of the 4-year-old girl he and his wife adopted from an English noblewoman who no longer held any love for the child.

The child was burned and injured in the flaming crash of a Central African Airways airplane into the Libyan hills Saturday. Her foster mother perished with 35 others.

The child is Anthea Lycett, formerly the daughter of Lady Diana Miller and her husband, Robert Miller, who live in Southern Rhodesia. Lady Diana is the daughter of the Countess of Yarborough.

The crash broke the secret of the identity of the foster parents of the Miller child.

Lycett, a wealthy Salisbury insurance broker, received word of the crash as he canoed down the Zambezi River on a scientific expedition. A message was dropped to him from a plane.

Adopted Last Year

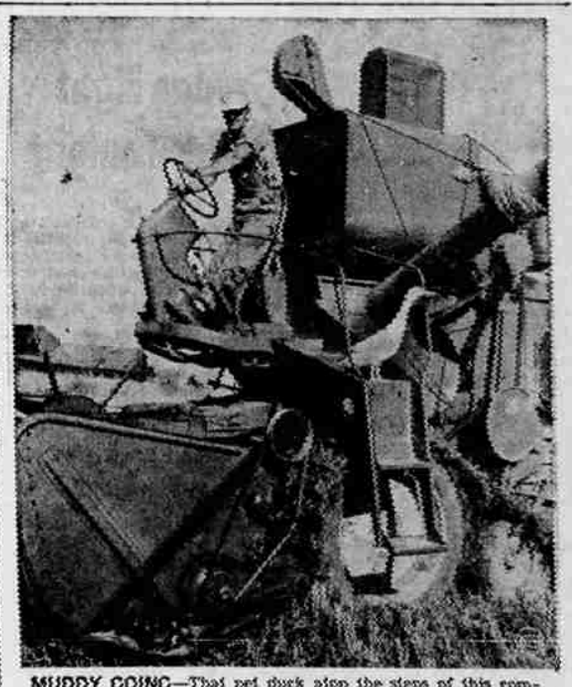
The child was adopted by the Lycetts last year. They changed her name from Marcia Miller. Mrs. Lycett and Anthea obtained space on the doomed plane only because of a cancellation. They were en route to a family reunion in London.

At the time of the adoption, Lady Diana said she "no longer held any love for the child."

In Britain, the Countess of Yarborough, 63, the child's real grandmother, broke into tears when told the child had been hurt and the foster mother has been killed. The countess was bitterly opposed to her daughter's giving up the child.

"What a hopeless position for me to be in," she said. "I want to go and claim the child, to love her and bring her up as my own. But my hands are tied. You see I have no legal claim or right to interfere in any way. If I did it might make things worse for everyone and I don't want to reopen this bitterly painful affair for the child's sake."

FUN FOR SOME—Judy Turee, nine-year-old Lakewood, Colo., lass, is bug-eyed with delight as she takes a close-up look at a grasshopper. To Judy the little grasshopper means fun, but to the farmers in the state, grasshopper spells headache. Crops have been severely damaged by swarms of the insects.



MUDDY GOING—That pet duck atop the steps of this combine ought to be a mudhen. Abnormal rains halted the wheat harvest in central Missouri early in July. The Boone County Missouri Farmers Association estimates that half of the wheat grown in the county is still in the fields. LeRoy Kircher, seen on combine, and his brother Allen, who farm near Columbia, are getting out some wheat after equipping their self-propelled combine with half-tracks. These enable them to get through fields where ordinary combines and tractors would bury themselves in the mud.

Commissioner Disclaims Responsibility For Fire

SALEM (AP) — Clarence Hyde, state real estate commissioner, Monday disclaimed responsibility for the condition of a house he owns in Eugene.

The Eugene fire marshal has said the house was left in a hazardous condition following a fire that killed two persons in May.

Hyde said a tenant had the house under a five-year rental lease agreement which provided that the tenant would maintain the property at her own expense.

The commissioner said the tenant gave him another piece of property two years ago in exchange for a five-year lease on the house.
