22 Persons Killed In Airliner Crash

(Continued From Page One) bearers, carrying the injured and the dead. It was hours before many of the dead were identified. Some were horribly burned. At the controls of the Convair was one of Northeast Airline's most experienced pilots, John Burcham, 35, of Mansfield. Also killed were the copilot, David Carey, 23, of Nantucket, and Stewardess Arlene Dabek, 23, of Manchester, N.H.

George Gardner, Northeast Airline board chairman, said the last contact with the plane was at 11:34 p. m. when the airline office noted the altimeter had failed. Visibility was four miles with scattered clouds at 12,000 feet.

George Lusk of the airport maintenance crew said the pilot "apparently came down too low and hit some low pine trees and scrub growth, cutting a swath 500 feet long. The plane shattered and wreckage was strewn all about."

Other Disasters Recalled The crash occurred just 11 months after a Northeast plane crashed in New Bedford, Mass., with the loss of 12 lives. Twelve others were injured on that flight from Boston to New York, via the Islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard.

On Feb. 1, 1957, a Miami-bound Northwest airliner crashed on Rikers Island in the East River in New York City. Twenty were killed.

One woman who was waiting at the airport last night as the plane to land was the crash and became hysterical. After being treated for shock at the hospital she identified herself as Mrs. Florence Smith.

It was reported she was awaiting the arrival of Harry Bannister of Brooklyn, N.Y., Columbia University pre-medical student, who was to be a weekend guest at her home. Bannister was listed as one of the dead.

Transit Lines' Drivers File Liens On Wage Claims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Petitions in federal and circuit courts seek money from City Transit Lines at Salem and Eugene. Union drivers and mechanics formerly employed by the company filed them.

Buses were on near normal schedules in Eugene and Springfield, run by a new company which also promised service Monday in Salem, a week after City Transit quit.

A petition filed in federal court in Portland by Salem bus drivers Pete Schlotthauer, Norman Yagle and Charles Chittick, asks that City Transit be declared bankrupt.

The three drivers alleged the company owes them more than $1,000 in back wages and vacation pay.

In Eugene, representatives of Local 1955 filed 38 liens against the company's assets in Lane County Circuit Court. Paul Bailey, union attorney, said each lien represented wages or vacation pay which drivers or mechanics claim is due them.

Bailey said an additional complaint was filed by the union seeking a judgment for $742,500 plus interest from July 1 for dues which the union claims were deducted from workers' checks but not paid to the union.

It is claimed by union drivers and mechanics that the company owes them about $16,000 in back wages and accrued vacation pay when it went out of business last weekend.

The $16,000 figure was questioned by Louis Soukup, operator of the firm. Soukup said he agreed that most of the drivers had been paid only through July but said the vacation pay was not paid.

The change in companies brought labor trouble to Eugene where the old drivers are picketing the new company, claiming the new drivers are non-union. Drivers in Salem said they were prepared to picket any non-union operations.

The new company, Cascade Transit, has Roy J. Sinnott, Albeny, as its principal incorporator. Sinnott said Soukup has been retained as an adviser.

100,000 Catholics Seek Relief From Attack On Church

By COLIN FROST

CZESTOCHOVA, Poland (AP)—More than 100,000 Catholics pilgrims gathered beneath the walls of Jasna Gora Monastery Friday and heard a monk call for their prayers against Communist attacks on their church.

Thousands more pilgrims were trooping into town every hour for a procession Friday evening honoring the black madonna, the mystic picture of Virgin and Child housed in the monastery.

The huge crowd stood silent as the monk, one of 35 Paulist monks who run the monastery, spoke from a pulpit high on the wall.

"The Polish press is writing very much about our church," he said. "One of the papers has insulted the Mother of God and our blessed picture."

"I call on you to pray for the rights of our church, to pray for atonement and for peace.

He announced that from Sept. 1, 40 Polish bishops will gather at the monastery for six days of continuous prayer as atonement for the Communist press campaign.

This is part of a 12-week prayer program announced Monday by the Polish primate, Stefan Cardinal Wyszyński.

The press campaign is now back in a minor key. It grew out of the church-state crisis set off by the July 21 raid on the monastery by pro-Communist agents. The state charges that the monastery was used as a cover for illegal anti-Communist publications. The church contends its publications were legal.

Crewmen Tell Of Attempts To Get Under Icecap WARWICK, R.I. (AP)—Two crewmen have written home that the nuclear submarine Nautilus attempted to pass under the North Pole two months ago but was repelled by an 80-foot wall of ice.

"We tried to get under the ice pack a couple of months ago but didn't quite make it," Engineerman 2.C. William J. McNally Jr. wrote his parents.

"The captain turned back when we ran into a solid wall of ice 80 feet thick.

The distance from the surface to the ocean floor is about 130 feet. Subtracting 80 feet of ice leaves the Nautilus with 50 feet of water, not quite enough.

"We also ran into a couple of near collisions with icebergs. So the captain decided the attempt wasn't worth the possible loss of his crew. That's when we turned around and headed for Hawaii."

Robert E. Simonini, 27, engine-man first class, wrote that "we ran into too much ice so we went to Pearl Harbor to wait for better ice conditions."

One Trucker Strike Settled Union Gets Wage Boost At Oakland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Teamsters and employers completed plans today to reopen negotiations in San Diego Wednesday in the docked trucking strike-lockout in 11 Western states and reached agreement to end a one-day strike by Oakland, Calif., Local 70.

About 200 teamsters from Local 70 reported for work this morning after voting overwhelmingly in favor of a new contract agreement reached at marathon negotiations.

The Oakland strike had halted the delivery of fresh produce and other food products to 270 Northern California chain grocery outlets of Safeway, Lucky and Hagstrom.

Art Hellender, assistant secretary of Alameda Central Labor Council and a negotiator, said the negotiations ended at 1:30 a. m. today. The Teamsters met immediately and approved the contract two hours later.

Hellender said it provided a 52 day across the board pay increase plus some 20 other improved benefits in the contract. He described the one-year contract as "one of the best I've negotiated in many a moon."

The two increases raises Teamster pay to $22 a day.

Einar Mohn, Western Conference of Teamsters president, announced he accepted federal mediator Arthur Viat's invitation to the San Diego meeting on the 11-state strike, which affects about 100,000 Teamsters.

The announcement of the pending conference was the first major move in the 6-day-old shut-down. Viat said three mediators would sit in on the discussions.

In Sacramento, where the strike began, Teamsters Joint Council 38 said it had signed interim contracts with 25 more smaller firms, bringing the total number signed to 78.

Court Monitors Suspend Teamster Vice President On Money Juggling Charge

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP)—The general counsel for the Teamsters indicated today the giant union will comply with an order by court-appointed monitors to suspend Teamster Vice President Owen (Bert) Brennan from office.

Atty. Edward Bennett Williams said he wanted to study the order and discuss it with Teamsters President James R. Hoffa before commenting fully.

But he told a reporter the union has complied with other orders of the three-man board of monitors and "this would be a departure if we did not."

The monitors, by a 2-1 vote yesterday, set Aug. 25 as the deadline for the Teamsters to charge Brennan with misappropriation of union funds — a charge aimed at his expulsion from the scandal-plagued union.

At the same time, the monitors asked that Hoffa be disqualified from taking part in the proceedings against Brennan — an old friend and close associate of the Teamster chief.

The monitors were appointed by a federal court to oversee Teamster affairs after dissident Teamster groups challenged Hoffa's elevation to the presidency.

Other Developments The demand of the monitors came as the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee completed its second week of a new look at Hoffa and his union amid these developments:

Rep. Wint Smith (R-Kan.) denied bowing to political pressure to end an abortive House investigation of Hoffa in 1953. He asked to tell his story before the rackets committee, and Chairman John L. McClellan said he probably would get his chance next Tuesday.

Smith said the probe ended for one simple reason — there weren't any more witnesses.

Committee members hinted that Allen Dorfman, Chicago insurance man who writes policies for Teamster locals, might be indicted for contempt of Congress. Dorfman fired off an angry statement against the committee yesterday, then invoked the Fifth Amendment on several occasions when he testified.

Gus Zapas, an Indianapolis Teamsters Official, was asked if he had ever discussed getting rid of some kidnap money. The witness, an ex-convict, said he hadn't.

Hoffa Voices Denial During Friday's session, Hoffa denied that he received from employers any of $80,000 represented in his tax returns as gambling wins and bitterly rejected loans from Teamster business agents were fabricated to conceal the true source of large sums.

"If you don't want to accept my word for it," Hoffa snapped at Kennedy, "there is no way to convince you."

In accusing Brennan of misuse of funds, the monitors cited testimony that he received from employers any of $80,000 represented in his tax returns as gambling wins and bitterly rejected loans from Teamster business agents were fabricated to conceal the true source of large sums.

Tentative Strike At Moon Planned In 3-Stage Rocket CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Lunar zero hour — the most auspicious moment for man's first tentative strike at the moon — swept closer today with the Air Force still silent as to its launch plans.

The moon rocket, a three stage Thor-Vanguard composite never before test flown, was known to be on hand at the Missile Test Center.

The Air Force, freely admitting that the chances of a successful firing are slim, kept its plans secret.

Registration Book To Be Fair Feature Lumber and Sawmill Workers Local 2949 of Roseburg is turning its talents to making a registration book which will get a lot of use during the next year.

Members of the union have agreed to construct the fancy book from finished plywood donated by Roseburg Lumber Co. It will make its first appearance at the Douglas County Fair in the Oregon Centennial Commission's booth in the display pavilion.

Iris Hellwell, chairman of the Douglas County committee for the centennial, said the book will be used to register the names of volunteers who will help community sub-committees around the county in staging the county's part of the centennial.

Then, next year, the book will be used to register the names of visitors to centennial headquarters in Douglas County, Mrs. Hellwell reports.
