Segregation Retained In 5 States Pending High Court Decision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The South's deep-seated resistance to integration is being tested in the courts and applauded in the emergency states' rights meeting of the Arkansas Legislature today as the U.S. Supreme Court prepares for its historic session.

The nine justices meet Thursday at stake is whether the high court will grant Little Rock's Central High School a breathing spell in its year-old integration program or force immediate acceptance of Negroes into its classrooms.

Gov. Orval E. Faubus of Arkansas said the opening session of the Legislature Tuesday for power to close the schools rather than bow to any federal race-mixing order. He said integration never could be constitutionally enforced upon a school.

As a last-ditch measure, the governor offered the lawmakers a bill to set up segregated classrooms within an integrated school. Within hours, a special House Education Committee recommended passage of a total of 12 segregation bills.

The Little Rock School Board filed a brief with the Supreme Court saying it would be unable to operate Central High under present conditions in the city.

At Gainesville, Fla., University of Florida announced that a Negro had qualified for admittance this fall to do graduate work.

No Violence Thus Far
So far there has been no integration violence.

Many developments on the integration front featured legal maneuvering by courts and school boards as the opening day of school approached. They included:

Virginia — The state's policy of massive resistance to integrated schools suffered another setback when U.S. Dist. Judge John Paul declined to approve in its entirety the school districting plan of the Charlottesville School Board.

Tennessee — Fifteen Negro first-graders enrolled without incident for desegregated classes in seven Nashville city schools. The plan created a new district around Nashville city schools.

North Carolina — The Charlotte School Board rejected the application of 23 Negro children for transfer to white schools. At Winston-Salem, 135 pupils at the white Easton Elementary School, where 3 Negroes have been assigned for the fall term, asked for transfers to other white schools.

Oklahoma — Two Negro children showed up at Preston Elementary School and became the first to attend that previously all-white school. At Muskogee the NAACP filed suits charging integration was being avoided in two other Oklahoma school districts.

Mississippi — A constitutional amendment to strengthen segregation laws won overwhelming approval in the state's Democratic primary.

Louisiana — The Shreveport City Council unanimously approved the first reading of an ordinance designed to retain segregation on the city transit system.

Campaign For Republican Congress On Debt Reduction Issue, Eisenhower's Plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he will campaign for a Republican Congress this year on the issue of reducing the government's deficits.

Eisenhower told his news conference he is going to stress in campaign talks the necessity for cutting the deficit and putting the economy on a sound, healthy basis.

The President gave no indication of how much campaigning he expects to do. He said he had not promised, for instance, to campaign in New York.

As a preliminary to voicing his own views on reduction in red ink spending, Eisenhower said he is going to study every major item of a forthcoming governmental budget to see if it can be cut for the benefit of America.

In response to a question, he said he had no comment at the moment on the possibility of a tax increase.

Other Subjects Discussed

OFFSHORE ISLANDS—The offshore islands held by the Chinese Nationalists—lands which in the last week or so have been under heavy attack by Communist China—have taken on increased importance to the United States in its overall strategy dealing with defense of Formosa.

However, Eisenhower once again refused to say whether the United States would consider a Red invasion of Quemoy, Matsu and other offshore islands a matter for U.S. intervention.

Discussing the increased importance of the islands, Eisenhower said Nationalist China now has deployed about one-third of its military forces there.

Previously, he said, those islands were regarded largely as an outpost.

CONGRESS — Eisenhower said he wants another week or 10 days before coming up with a final appraisal of the record of the recently adjourned Democratic-controlled Congress.

He did say, however, that he believes Congress did a constructive job in the foreign relations field. He qualified that by adding that he was greatly disappointed that the legislators gave him less money for the foreign aid program than he requested.

Eisenhower also expressed disappointment that legislation to curb corruption in the labor-management field was shelved.

Eisenhower also said he felt there was a tendency in Congress to spend more money generally than he had recommended.

Fire Control Prospects Rest On Weather Change

at least temporary control this morning over the grazing land fires that have troubled them most of this week.

The Little Lookout Mountain fire, 40 miles southeast of Baker in high country overlooking the Snake River, jumped out of control Tuesday and raged all afternoon. Wind whipped the fire across a double bulldozer line, spreading it from 600 to 1,600 acres.

Other fire crews controlled three fires burning big brush and grass in the Lakeview grazing district. Two fires, one estimated at 700 acres, were blamed on antelope hunters in the area.

A third blaze was trapped after it burned about four acres on the Burns-Lakeview highway near Lake Albert. The fire was caused by a dropped cigarette, Bureau of Land Management officials said.

The cooling cloud cover which drifted over northwestern Oregon early this morning, leaving traces of rain, should provide relief from the state's heat wave through Thursday, the Weather Bureau said.

After that, the forecasters said, things will warm up again and clear skies will return. Most of the state continued hot today missing out on the fresh bit of cool air.

Medford had the Oregon high Tuesday at 94 degrees. It was 93 in Grants Pass, 91 in Pendleton, 89 in Roseburg and 87 in Redmond, Baker and Klamath Falls.

SAN FRANCISCO — A legislative subcommittee will meet in emergency session Saturday to consider investigating a survey that charges maladministration and staff dissension in a few California hospitals.

Sen. John F. Thompson, Senate Public Health Interim Committee Chairman, called utterly shocking such reports in Blum's survey ax:

Two hospital doctors carried guns in fear of a third.

A dying patient was refused treatment by a doctor who hated the patient's group insurance plan.

Rival N. Y. Parties Name Candidates For U. S. Senate

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
In political developments in the United States Tuesday:

1. Republicans and Democrats in New York state finally settled on their candidates for senator in the November elections. Rep. Kenneth B. Keating, after an indirect prod from the White House, agreed to accept the Republican nomination. Democratic leaders, headed by Mayor Robert F. Wagner, urged Mayor Robert F. Wagner of New York City to make the run, finally settled on Dist. Atty. Frank S. Hogan of New York City as their candidate despite opposition from Gov. Averell Harriman.

2. A three-man race for the Senate loomed as a possibility in New York when the Liberal party nominated Thomas K. Finletter, former secretary of the Air Force, as its candidate for senator. Finletter had sought the Democratic nomination but at the party's convention received only 66 votes and ran a poor third behind Hogan and former Atomic Energy Commissioner Thomas E. Murray. Finletter could refuse to accept the Liberal party nod, making it possible for Hogan's name to be substituted.

3. Mississippi voters approved a proposal designed to strengthen the state's anti-integration laws by making it easier to adopt amendments to the state constitution.

Two congressmen who faced Democratic primary opposition, Representatives William Colmer and Arthur Winstead, gained re-election. Sen. John Stennis and four other congressmen had no opposition and automatically qualified to run in the general elections, which the Democrats traditionally win in Mississippi.
