Official Ring Worn By Pope Pius Smashed

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The fisherman's ring that was the official symbol of the authority of Pope Pius XII was formally smashed today in the presence of 16 cardinals.

The ceremony, customary after the death of each pope, was carried out at a closed conference of cardinals in the Apostolic Palace, where decisions are being taken on the consistory which will select the next pontiff.

The ring was taken from the hand of Pope Pius in his death chamber at Castel Gandolfo immediately after Eugene Cardinal Tisserant officially confirmed the pontiff was dead.

A new ring will be placed upon the right hand of the next Pope immediately after he accepts election.

Also in the presence of the cardinals, including Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, the Pope's official seal was smashed. The seal depicted St. Peter and St. Paul and carried the words Pius PP XII.

Word 'Peace' Frequently Used On Lips Of Pope Pius During Long Papal Term

By FRANK BRUTTO

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The word "peace" more than any other was on the lips of Pius XII.

His concern with it had preceded his elevation to the papacy. In 1917, when he was only 42, Pope Benedict XV named him papal nuncio to Bavaria and instructed him to appeal to the Kaiser to end World War I.

Almost the first public words that Pius XII expressed—the day after his election March 2, 1939—were in behalf of peace, that "sublime gift from Heaven."

A few months later with the world again on the brink of war, he appealed to people and rulers of the world.

"Nothing is lost with peace; all may be lost with war," he warned.

When war came, eight days after his broadcast, Pius XII turned his attention to alleviating its suffering as much as possible.

At war's end, recalling the havoc he had witnessed in Germany in 1918 he centered his efforts toward the establishment of "just and true peace."

But the end of World War II brought no peace to Pius XII or the church he headed.

It brought, instead, a bitter expanding attack of atheistic communism which produced new catacombs in the East. The Pope referred to "the church of silence that points to the fresh graves of her martyrs, the chains of her confessors." The end of the war left more than 50 million Roman Catholics under Communist control.

From Yugoslavia to China and Korea, fierce Communist attacks were to result in a few years in slaying, jailing or banishment of priests and nuns, bishops, archbishops and even cardinals.

The church's struggle for existance in a large area of the world was the constant, deep sorrow of Pius XII. Correlated with it was his anxiety lest world warn on atomic scale, should break out once more. All his Christmas messages and countless other speeches hammered on the need for peace.

He described atomic weapons as "murderous and inhuman."

"Another world war", he said, recalling Genesis, "would be so destructive as to make the earth 'void and empty, a desolate chaos, like to a desert over which the sun is not rising but setting."

A dove bearing an olive branch and perched above stormy waters was the emblem on Eugenio Pacelli's papal seal.

But when the "unwearied advocate" for peace, as he had called himself, at last closed his eyes in rest, the dove of peace had not yet reached that true and just haven for which Pius XII had spoken, fought and prayed.

Senator Morse Assails Hatfield On Utility Issue

ALBANY, Ore. (AP) — Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) Friday night stepped swinging into Oregon's campaign for governor.

Morse said Secretary of State Mark Hatfield, the Republican candidate, was a protege of Paul McKee, chairman of the Board of Pacific Power and Light Co.

McKee has helped stifle Oregon's maximum industrial development, Morse said.

The senator said both McKee and Hatfield are trying to obscure power as one of the vital issues of the campaign.

"The time has come for you to smoke Hatfield out on the power issue. Find out if he is ready to submit to a political operation that will sever him as a Siamese twin of McKee," Morse said in his speech text.

The senator added: "He will never do it because his political life-blood is dependent upon the heart of McKee's political coffers.

"You will find that the reactionary monopolistic power policies of McKee for the last 20 years have stifled maximum industrial growth in Oregon.

"This same man is one of the group who in 1946 told you that Bonneville (Dam) would be a white elephant and never be able to sell its full power," Morse said.

Of Hatfield, Morse later said: "The people of Oregon should never forget that he is a captive of the reactionary Republican machine of this state, supported by the private utility monopoly crowd. He is their boy."

Morse urged the reelection of Gov. Robert Holmes, whom he said had helped gain vast federal projects for Oregon.
