

Tragedy Of The Coal Mine Recalled By Little Old Lady

By JACK WHITE

BISHOP, Va. (AP) — Tears rolled down the little old lady's face as she huddled in a corner of the crowded mine office here—oblivious of the swirl of human activity about her.

"They carried my husband home many years ago," she said, "but all my life has been spent in the coal fields and what time I have left will be spent here."

Mrs. Ada Turner, 72, was speaking. Words, though, did nothing to comfort her sobbing daughter-in-law, who sat dazed nearby.

To Ethel Sutherland, 56, the importance of the moment lay in the fact that her husband, Holiday, 48—Mrs. Turner's son—was somewhere below in an explosion-wrecked mine with 21 other ill-fated miners.

"This is all so familiar," Mrs. Turner cried. "My life seems to have been filled with troubles. I can't go home now, the house is empty," the young wife said. Then she thought of the four children.

Husband, Sons Dead

Mrs. Turner's husband died on Thanksgiving Day, 1926, in a state fall at nearby Amonite mine.

Sinatra Says He Didn't Come To London To Marry

LONDON (AP)—Frank Sinatra told Queen Elizabeth II and 2,000 other first nighters Monday night that he didn't come to London to get married.

The singer made his declaration in obvious answer to newspaper speculation about him and Lady Beatty, the American-born divorcee with whom he has been gadding about London.

Sinatra spoke out as master of ceremonies at the premiere of Danny Kaye's movie "Me and the Colonel."

"I came to England to introduce the stars of this movie, and for no other reason," he told the audience. "I didn't come here to get married. Some people would have me married as often as Farouk."

The Queen and Prince Philip smiled. Most of the audience cheered. Lady Beatty wasn't present.

Porter Brings Ballot Campaign To Roseburg

Charles O. Porter, Democratic Congressman from the 4th District, is slated to return to Roseburg today with his handshaking campaign. His schedule calls for him to tour the supermarkets meeting and greeting and to pound the downtown streets seeking support for his bid for re-election.

Friday, Porter is scheduled to make a major address at a Democratic dinner at the Riddle High School. Sharing the platform with him will be Sen. Wayne Morse, Oregon Democrat.

Former Roseburg Woman Lela Alba Rhoades Dies

Former Roseburg resident Lela Alba Rhoades died Oct. 17 in San Francisco, Calif.

Born Feb. 24, 1891 in London, Ore., Mrs. Rhoades lived most of her life in Roseburg, leaving two years ago for California. She is survived by a sister, Mrs. O. B. Davis, Roseburg and a daughter, Dolores Rhoades, Venice, Calif.

Services were held Oct. 21 at the Little Chapel of the Chimes with interment at the Forest Lawn Memorial Park, Hollywood Hills.

Alone, she had raised her 10 children.

Two other sons besides Holiday are dead from the mines. Silicosis, dread mining disease of the lungs, killed them. Another son now is bedridden from the same disease.

"When my boy left home last night, I walked to the car with him," Mrs. Turner said. "It seemed he didn't want to leave. I had never seen him like this before."

"He asked me to go over to his place . . . spend a few days with the children. But it was raining and I had things to do at my own house. Now I'm sorry I didn't go."

Ethel started crying again as Mrs. Turner helped her to her feet and said softly: "Now we must go home and make ready for another body."

Faubus Promises Retaliation In Case Of Bombing

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—Gov. Orval E. Faubus has promised retaliation against anyone who would bomb Arkansas schools or churches in the heat of race or religious prejudice.

The governor's statement Monday followed hoax threats to bomb white schools in Jacksonville and Hot Springs and earlier reports, which proved false, that two Jewish synagogues in downtown Little Rock would be bombed.

Other developments in the integration conflict here included:

1. The admission of 218 juniors to an expanding white high school established by the Little Rock Private School Corp., which was formed to provide instruction for white students displaced from the closed public schools. It has been operating classes for seniors since last Tuesday and plans to admit sophomores this week.

2. Enrollment of 35 Little Rock white students at a new High School Baptist college at Conway, 32 miles northeast of here. Classes will begin next week.

Father Of Four Pleads Guilty To Morals Count

A 31-year-old Myrtle Creek man and father of four children today pleaded guilty to an indecent exposure in Roseburg municipal court.

He was arrested Monday night sitting almost nude in his car in a southwest residential neighborhood.

A few minutes earlier an 18-year-old girl telephoned police saying a man was sitting in front of her apartment holding a light and exposing himself. She said she was ironing before a front room window when he drove up in his sedan and parked.

Police, cruising the neighborhood, found Wallace M. Brown sitting in his car not far from the girl's address. He was unclothed except for shoes, socks and skivy shirt.

Investigating officers said the man was "in a very confused state" when they found him. At police station, under questioning, he signed a confession telling what he did, but said "I just don't know what came over me . . . I don't know why I did it."

The girl complainant identified him at police headquarters.

Judge Randolph Slocum fined Brown $100 and sentenced him to 10 days in jail. Jail sentence was suspended, providing he pay the fine. He was released this morning.

Hunter Charged With Firing At 2 Near Prineville

PRINEVILLE (AP)—Two Prineville hunters were wounded by a flurry of bullets Sunday night, and state police later arrested two Portland hunters.

Charges of assault with a dangerous weapon were filed today against Donald Graysey and James Maxwell, both of Portland. The pair were held in jail here on $2,500 bail.

State police said the arrests were made after a rifle bullet wounded Lester Hollenbeck in the shoulder and George Wachus was hit in the head by a bullet fragment.

They told police this story: As they were returning from hunting along a logging road 37 miles east of here, they stopped in the darkness to check a road sign.

Moments after they shined a flashlight on the sign, a flurry of shots crashed through the night.

The men jumped back into their car and sped off. But another bullet smashed through the car's rear window.

A fragment of the bullet hit one man, and the majority of it struck the other.

Two other persons in the car were unhurt. They were James Grover and his young son, Mike, both of Prineville.

State police, informed of the shooting, arrested the two Portland men in a car parked along the logging road.

Police quoted the men as saying they fired their rifles only after someone else shot at them.

Albany Woman Found Injured; Husband Grilled

SILVERTON (AP)—A 40-year-old Albany woman was found Monday lying in a pool of her own blood, a broken sauce bottle on the back seat beside her in her own car.

She was Levetta L. Ferguson, a hospital attendant said she was in fair condition today. Pieces of glass had been found in the wounds.

Police Chief R. R. (Buck) Main said it was not clear just how Miss Ferguson was injured, but her 27-year-old divorced husband was questioned. It was he who called an ambulance for her.

The man, Royal Edward Nigery, told Main he couldn't remember anything from the time he and the woman left an Albany restaurant at 7:15 p.m. Sunday night.

Nigery said he recovered when the car registered to Mrs. Ferguson, a broken sauce bottle, two miles southwest of Silverton on the Little Pudding River. Police said the car showed no signs of damage.

Main quoted Nigery as saying he went to the farm house to call an ambulance after he noticed the woman was injured.

Marion County sheriff's deputies, called into the case, refused to comment immediately.

Angelo Roncalli Chosen New Pope For Catholics

of the new pope was announced. A throng in the square before the church cheered hoarsely and madly, waving handkerchiefs wildly.

A tremendous shout arose from the square and from adjoining streets, crowded to overflowing. Thousands and thousands had sped into the area on word that white smoke had come from the Sistine Chapel, indicating the cardinals had elected a pope who apparently was the 12th ballot of a conclave that started Saturday.

Appears On Balcony

The pro-dean of the college, Nicola Cardinal Canali, appeared on the balcony of the basilica to announce the news.

Emotion was so intense that the pro-dean had difficulty in clearly enunciating in Latin the traditional phrase:

"I announce to you tidings of great joy. We have a pope."

A roar rose, louder than ever. The pro-dean then announced the new pope's name. He had a little difficulty with it, but finally, in loud voice, amplified to a roar by the loudspeakers, said:

"The Most Rev. Lord Cardinal Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli."

The papal flag was draped from the balcony.

Then the new pope appeared on the balcony to give his first blessing—"Urbi et Orbi"—to the city of Rome and to the world.

The throng roared again and again:

"Viva il Papa! Viva il Papa! 'Long live the Pope!'"

The cry became a continuous roar.

The pontiff's voice in the blessing rang clear and strong over the hushed multitude. There was a tremendous response of "Amen."

Not since Pope John XXII died in 1334 has the church had a Pope John.

Never before has there been a pope with this high a number—XXIII—after his name.

Boychoir Charms Local Audience Monday Evening

By LEROY INGRAM

The Columbus Boychoir of Princeton, N.J., will be long remembered in Roseburg for its outstanding choral performance under the direction of its conductor, James J. Conroy.

The group of 28 boys and their director Donald Bryant sang Monday night in Central Junior High School auditorium and presented a well-balanced program of classical and modern music, including portrayals of a concert opera, which brought overwhelming plaudits of the near-capacity audience.

For the opera portrayal of Gian-Carlo Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors," four adult singers carried the roles of the mother, the father, the king, and the boy. The boychoir sang offstage and then appeared as shepherds and shepherdeses and sang and danced, all to the off-stage accompaniment of Director Bryant.

Bryant, in addition to doing a beautiful job of directing the choir of boys, ranging in ages from 9 to 14 years, accompanied them for some of their selections, and drew additional applause for his piano interpretations of three Chopin selections with a Mendelssohn encore.

Outstanding voices, well-blended and harmonious, were evidenced in the serious and difficult selections by composers Handel, Antonio Loti and Pergolesi.

In the latter portion Di Lasso's "The Echo" was performed with precision. The off stage echoing voices sounded almost like a true echo. An American folk song, "The Dear Old Woman," Tchaikovsky's "Waltz of the Flowers," and a medley of Cole Porter selections completed the program. Three encores, were included with "The Lord's Prayer."

Committee Advocates Community College Here

son, because "it is far less expensive to go to college while living at home than it is when you have to live away from home."

He noted that part of the discrepancy is due to temporary out-of-county residents, but declared that the number of persons who attend college out of their home counties is small.

Living Expenses Less

Noting that the largest item of expense for college students living away from home is the cost of room, Hakanson said establishment of a community college near Roseburg would enable "hundreds of people to get through at least the first two years of college or enroll in a vocational course." Other expenses, he said, are the cost of education, these persons "would not find it possible to live away from home and attend any kind of school."

A community college also would be useful in the field of adult education, said Hakanson, contented, stressed the board and members of the board, and showed that many adults will enroll in one or another type of vocational course if they can do so while holding their present job and living at home.

Hakanson also claims a community college would act as a cultural and recreational center of the area. Lovers of art, music, drama and sports would be able to participate both directly and indirectly in these fields, he added.

Last-Minute Filings Fill Slate At Riddle

Last-minute filings for Riddle city offices filled the election slate for the Nov. 4 ballot.

Those filing for the office of mayor were Clinton D. Hedberg, rector, and Frank Cumiskey, retired Army officer.

Seeking four-year terms as councilmen are Albert Stingley, second-hand dealer; John W. George, high school teacher, and Russell Welmer, grocer.

Riddle voters will cast ballots for city offices in the city hall.

Incorporation Filed For Property Dealings

Articles of incorporation were issued Monday for Pansac, Inc., Roseburg, with three Roseburg people listed as incorporators.

Named as incorporators were Dr. H. W. Krueger, R. H. Cary and F. Von Borstel Jr. The firm was incorporated with a par value of $5,000. The state said the company will deal in property.

President Uga Campaign Effort In Monday Talk

ora and Milwaukee network Eisenhower told a cheering airport crowd at Charleston, W. Va., in a last of the Democrats:

The voters should "repudiate with our whole strength, with our whole souls, those plenary doctrines that would merely put the private citizen in a wheel chair furnished him by the federal government."

Eisenhower came to New York to boost the state GOP ticket led by Nelson A. Rockefeller, the candidate for governor, and Rep. Kenneth B. Keating, bidding for the U.S. Senate.

Rockefeller and Keating rode from the airport with the President and shared the midnight welcome he got from Times Square crowds on the way to his Astor Hotel suite.

The two candidates then conferred with Eisenhower about 25 minutes and arranged to accompany him this afternoon to a couple of party worker rallies.

The President planned informal talks at each of the rallies. He scheduled conferences later in the day with Rep. Robert Keen, New Jersey GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate, and Fred R. Zeller, the party's nominee for governor of Connecticut.

Football Medal

Eisenhower, once a fullback at West Point, tonight will receive the first gold medal award of the National Football Foundation and Hall of Fame.

Two Medford Women Treated For Injuries

Two Medford women were treated for minor injuries early today at a Roseburg hospital following a one-car crackup on Garden Valley Rd. near Calkins Rd.

Driver of the car, Arla Sue Bismark, 28, told state police she lost her way in the heavy fog about 6 a.m. and thought she was on Highway 99.

She suffered a lacerated nose when her angle sedan missed a sharp curve turn and plowed straight ahead through a ditch into a field.

A passenger, Mrs. William S. Youngblood, 45, reportedly received numerous body bruises and a strained back.

The driver said she was traveling about 45 miles an hour when the accident occurred. The vehicle received front end damage and had to be towed to a garage.

Canyonville Council OKs Garbage Franchise

The Canyonville City Council Monday night accepted terms of a new five-year franchise allowing Sough Umpqua Disposal Co. to haul garbage in the city.

Only change from the old franchise is a 25-cent monthly raise per account, according to correspondent Mrs. Virginia Proctor.

The old franchise expired in September, but the company had been working under its terms since.

The council meeting was called especially to consider the new franchise.

Funeral services previously scheduled for Earl Salisbury for 1 p.m. Wednesday have been changed to 1 p.m. Thursday at the Calapooia Free Methodist Church. The Rev. Harvey Timm will officiate and burial will follow in Fair Oaks Cemetery. Stearns and Little Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.

Metropolitan Opera Company Observes 75th Anniversary

By HENRIETTA LEITH

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Opera celebrated its 75th anniversary Monday night—and probably one of the last few opening nights in the old Broadway opera house—with an air of nostalgia and tradition hanging over it all.

The Met, which hopes to open its 1961 season uptown in a big modern auditorium in the Lincoln Center of Performing Arts, went "way back" for its 1958-59 opener.

The opening night opera was Puccini's "Tosca," first performed at the Met in 1901 and having its third airing at an opening night. Old-timers could remember Farrar, Caruso and Scotti as the stars of the opening night "Tosca" in 1919, or Jertica, Martinelli and Scotti in 1922's opening night performance.

Monday night it was Tebaldi, Del Monaco and London, no novices at helping the opera company put on a good show for the opening of its season.

Equally traditional was the performance of the opening night audience.

It was composed of diplomats, stars and former stars of the opera world, the rich and the aristocratic, and the usual sprinkling of celebrities from other parts of Broadway.

In this year of "high" fashion, when every shopgirl is wearing a new Paris look and waistlines and hems are moving into various strange places, even the fashions of Monday night's gala were amazingly traditional.

The right thing to wear to the opera still seems to be, in the minds of most lady patrons, an elegant ball gown—satin preferred—with the waist where it belongs, the figure shown off to its best advantage and the whole picture framed by mink, ermine or chinchilla and the best display of real gems available.

Australia's Big Aviation Mystery Finally Solved

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australia's greatest aviation mystery—the disappearance of the Southern Cloud 27 years ago—was solved today.

The three-engine Fokker disappeared March 21, 1931, on a flight from Sydney to Melbourne. It carried two pilots and six passengers, including American theatrical producer Clyde Hood.

A search party following the tip of a construction worker found old wreckage of a plane half buried on the side of one of the Snowy Mountains, 5,000-foot World's End.

Civil aviation officials today identified the engine numbers as those of the Southern Cloud. They found fragments of bone in the wreckage and a metal luggage tag inscribed "Hood Care Capitol Theater," the property of the American passenger.

Over the years trees had grown large through the twisted nose and fuselage of the plane.

The Southern Cloud was one of three Fokkers operated by the Australian National Airways.

The plane was found in rugged country where few people had been until recent months.
