REBEKAHS ENTERTAINED AT HALLOWEEN PARTY

Witch costumes replaced period dresses when the Canyonville Centennial Dowager Queen Anne Worthington Cassidy and her court entertained Canyonville Rebekahs and Myrtle Creek Rebekahs and friends at a Halloween party Thursday evening at the IOOF hall in Canyonville. The hall was decorated to simulate a haunted house.

Miss Bessie Clough, who acted as mistress of ceremonies, kept the program moving for the 100 guests. Mrs. Ted McPherran, noble grand of Bertha Rebekah Lodge 138 of Canyonville greeted the group after which humorous readings were given by Mrs. Ralph Goodell, Mrs. W. Frank Brown and Mrs. Julia Davis; music by Mrs. Charles Ziska, soloist; C. L. Cleveland, violin, accompanied by Mrs. Cleveland and Agnes Hendrix, clarinet soloist.

An unusually clever stunt, a comic fashion show written and put on by the Rebekahs, featured literal interpretation of the usual fashion cliches and included Mrs. David Payne as commentator with Mrs. Gid Assey, Mrs. Bill MacDonald, Mrs. Harry Erkenbeck, Mrs. Ken Hendrix, Mrs. Dick Powell and Mrs. Bill Thompson as models.

Mrs. McPherran told the history of Halloween after which the witches, who had been swishing in and out of the crowd all during the evening, arrived en masse and unmasked, revealing Queen Anne and her court: Mrs. Howard Green, Mrs. Della Devore, Mrs. Madge Gazley, Mrs. Herman Bauer and Mrs. Ira Poole. Following witch-like capers, the queen presented her court, Mrs. Ralph Weaver and Bess Clough with aprons in Halloween costumes. During the program, Mrs. Charles Ziska and her court, Mrs. Dick Powell and Mrs. Bill Thompson as models.
