

Labor May Have Stronger Hand In Business Next Term In Shaping New Laws

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor may have a stronger hand than business, it appeared today, in shaping legislation in the next Congress to curb union corruption.

If so, it will mean that business strategy backfired in helping kill off the Kennedy-lives bill with its requirements that business and unions report to the government various types of management-labor spending.

The labor bill was a bipartisan compromise effort, sponsored by Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Irving M. Ives (R-N.Y.). Business felt the bill was too lenient on unions and too restrictive on management.

The AFL-CIO, which supported the Kennedy-lives measure, now says it wants a similar bill but more favorable to labor.

Leaders of the AFL-CIO interpreted Tuesday's voting as a mandate to enact things labor wants.

The AFL-CIO Executive Council said in a statement Thursday that voters have "sharply and publicly rebuked those cynical politicians and big business reactionaries who sought to make political capital out of the isolated instances of corruption in labor's ranks exposed by the McClellan Committee."

Last year's drive to enact a labor control bill was spurred by disclosures before the Senate committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.).

The AFL-CIO called also for a general overhaul of the Taft-Hartley law plus housing, education, civil rights and other measures.

The federation demanded repeal of the Taft-Hartley law's section 14b which sanctions the state laws that ban the union shop whereby workers are required to join a union.

George Meany, AFL-CIO president, said labor wants Congress to enact legislation of the Kennedy-lives type to help curb corruption—not only in unions but, he said, among employers who "subvert union leaders through bribes and gifts."

Fort Clatsop Memorial Cost May Top Estimate

PORTLAND (AP) — Sen. Richard L. Neuberger (D-Ore.), who was author of legislation creating the Fort Clatsop National Memorial Shrine, said in a statement today the cost of the project might exceed the $325,000 originally estimated.

The senator said that officials of the U.S. National Park Service are considering relocation of a logging road in the park area. This would cost an additional $150,000.

Fort Clatsop is where the Lewis and Clark Expedition spent the winter of 1805-1806.

LEWIS OUT OF HOSPITAL

The comedian had been under treatment for a perforated ulcer and minor heart condition.

Dr. Marvin S. Levy said Lewis will remain at home at least 10 days and then will be on a restricted work schedule for an indefinite period.

CLOSE CALL—Some 7000 paratroopers filled the sky in the termination of war games staged at Fort Bragg, N.C., by the 101st Airborne Division. Rather unusually, there were no injuries, although there were close calls like this one, where one paratrooper is coming down on top of another one's chute. Both men landed safely, with nothing worse than a case of jitters.

California Loses Chairmanship, But Gains Influence

Associated Press Special Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the basis of seniority, California will lose its one congressional committee chairmanship in the new Congress convening in January.

But the loss may be offset by gains in other positions of influence.

Clair Engle (D) of Red Bluff is surrendering the chairmanship of the House Interior Committee to become California's freshman senator. But on the basis of his experience in the House, Engle probably will have priority over 11 other Democrats taking Senate seats for the first time.

Engle thus may have a chance to land an assignment on the Senate Armed Services Committee.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel (R), California's new senior senator upon the retirement of Sen. William F. Knowland, will move up to the position of second ranking Republican on both the Interior and Public Works committees of the Senate.

Britain's Buying On Cuff Has Business Worried

LONDON (AP) — Britain's stampede to buy on the cuff has businessmen worried.

Government relaxation of controls on credit buying Oct. 29 started a nationwide rush for washing machines, autos, television sets and similar items.

In just five days, retail auto and household appliance sales rose 30 to 50 per cent.

One of London's biggest auto dealers slashed terms to 5 per cent down, 50 months to pay — a far cry from old restrictions requiring a third to a half down and a maximum of two years to pay it off.

It takes a GIANT to deliver just what 225,000 doctors ordered

The man in white, carefully compounding the doctor's prescription, is a druggist. He is one of 110,000 dedicated pharmacists across the land who contribute to safeguarding the health of all of us.

Throughout the year, these druggists stand ready to give you exactly what the nation's 225,000 doctors order. It's a giant task—a conscientious task.

Your local druggist is also a business man, a retailer of many diversified products in addition to drugs. His wares may range all the way from toiletries to toasters.

That's why 73% of the total advertising budgets of all drug stores is invested in newspapers.* Drug store operators have found that newspaper advertising is the most effective and efficient way to keep you informed about products and prices. They also know it gets results.

Like the druggist, most advertisers depend on newspapers for results. That's why, year after year, they invest more money in newspapers than in radio, TV, magazines and outdoor combined!

All business is local...and so are all newspapers
