Laramie Man Appointed Roseburg City Manager

By BRAD SLACK News-Review Staff Writer

Roseburg City Council, meeting Monday night in special session, named businessman-engineer H. John Warburton of Laramie, Wyo., new city manager.

H. JOHN WARBURTON, new city manager

The 34-year-old former administrator for the Wyoming city of 19,000 population took over his new duties today.

He replaces George Farrell who resigned the Roseburg manager's post last Feb. 1 after serving five years.

Also stepping aside is Mrs. William Hill, city recorder-treasurer, who has been acting city manager since Farrell quit.

Warburton was unanimous choice for the managerial post over several men interviewed last Thursday night by councilmen.

More than 45 persons applied for the Roseburg job with a starting salary of $8,400 a year plus car expenses.

A screening committee headed by Council president Pete Serafin narrowed the field to four men before calling them in last week for personal interviews.

The new manager's record at Laramie where he served for nearly two years was a convincing argument for his selection.

Among other things, he completely reorganized the Wyoming city's police force to increase efficiency and to handle operation of the street, water and sewage departments of Laramie, he contributed a sewage lagoon system giving the city its first adequate treatment plant in its history, and installed a machine accounting plan to replace hand billing and posting of city financial records.

Another accomplishment of his term at Laramie was to increase the cash posture of the city's general fund by $25,000.

Warburton drew from a wide practical and educational experience to manage affairs at Laramie. He graduated from the University of Wyoming with an accounting degree, and later worked for 2 1/2 years as a mechanical engineer.

He was a public accountant in the Wyoming city for two years, and for a similar period worked production foreman for Aluminum Oxide Division of Monolith Portland Midwest Co. there.

For another two years Warburton was assistant manager for the Grothe Lumber Co., Laramie, and also served as laboratory technician for a time with the National Resources Research Institute at the University of Wyoming.

Married and the father of two sons, age six and nine, Roseburg's new city manager plans to move his family to the city at the close of school this spring.

The soft-spoken Warburton was given top recommendations from every source, Serafin noted in announcing the selection committee's recommendation for a new city manager.

Leading men in public and private life said of him, "He's forceful without being obnoxious," and "he gets things done without spinning his wheels."

The City Council was particularly pleased with his business and accounting experience and training. He is a registered professional engineer and a member of the city under a strict austerity program and facing a similar climate of operations for the next two years while paving off a long list of outstanding city obligations.

Safeway Clerks Deciding Union

Employees of the three Safeway stores in this area, aside from meat counters, are voting today on what union they wish to represent them, according to Ellis Landrum, manager of Safeway's City Drive in.

The other two stores affected are the Cass Ave. store in Roseburg and Safeway's Sutherland Store. About 25 employees at City Drive in are affected, about 15 at the Roseburg store and 8 at Sutherland.

The Roseburg and Sutherland stores employees have been affiliated with the Retail Clerks, City Drive in employees were affiliated with the Teamsters Union at the time Safeway purchased the store.

A working agreement has been continued with the Teamsters until the present time.

Because of a certain amount of confusion of dealing with two different unions the NLRB was petitioned for an election, according to Landrum.

In the election, which is being conducted by the NLRB, the employees will determine which union they wish to represent them in the three-store operation.

Meat cutters, under a separate union, are not involved in this election.

2 Pacific Highway Projects Scheduled

The Oregon Highway Commission said Monday that contracts to complete part of the new Pacific Highway in Linn County and start construction on a new unit in Lane County will be awarded soon.

Bids on the two projects will be opened in Salem May 5. The jobs will be estimated 14 projects, costing an amount $6,100,000, on which the commission will open bids.

The Linn County job is for paving of 12.32 miles of the Halsey interchange-Lane County line section east of Halsey and Harrisburg.

The Lane job involves grading of 4.19 miles of the McKenzie River section north of Eugene.

No Douglas County projects were listed for the bid opening.

Ex-Commie Finn Ordered Deported

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Immigration Service again is ordering the deportation of William Heikkila, a one-armed draftsman it hustled off to Finland and then had to return.

Monroe Kroll, an Immigration Service hearing officer, ordered the deportation Monday, ruling that Heikkila is exportable as an alien who is a former member of the Communist party, who obtained a visa by fraud and is not in possession of a visa.

Heikkila, who has lived in this nation all but 2 1/2 months of his 32 years, said he would appeal the ruling. He has been residing in deportation for 11 years.

Referee C. F. Addison held that the 700 workers were locked out, and that "unemployment due to a strike, lockout or other labor dispute is not insured under Oregon law, even for non-participants, when they are in the same class of employment as those who are participating."

Lower House Also Votes Astoria Span

By PAUL W. HARVEY, Jr.

SALEM (AP) — Legislation to provide $24 million dollars in bonds to build the Astoria bridge and 4 millions in bonds to improve Highway 42 between Roseburg and Coquille was passed 43-17 by the Oregon House of Representatives and sent to the governor today.

The action came on the 10th day of the Legislature, as hopes began to dim that the session might end Saturday, as leaders had hoped. Both houses face mountainous calendars for the rest of the week. It is possible that the session might run through next week.

The House originally passed the bill to provide the bonds for building the highway toll bridge over the mouth of the Columbia, provided that the state of Washington pays half the cost. The Senate amended it to add the Highway 42 bonds.

Today's action was on agreeing with the Senate amendment, which the House did after a vigorous debate.

Coos Port Aid Seen

Rep. Clarence Barton (D-Coquille) argued that Highway 42 is badly in need of rebuilding in order to develop the port of Coos Bay. He envisioned the day when it will be a segment of the proposed Winnemucca-to-the-sea highway.

Rep. William Holmstrom (D-Astoria) argued that the bridge is vitally needed to develop the Astoria region.

Then the opponents leveled their guns. Rep. Stafford Hansell (R-Astoria) contended that the state can't afford any more debt and that it is wrong for the Legislature to tell the Highway Commission what projects it should build.

Rep. George Annala (D-Hood River) called it a "lousy bill" and said that the state's enough highway revenues in sight to support the bonds and other building needs, too.

A statement that the policy of having the Legislature choose the highway projects would make "a political football" out of highway legislation was made by Rep. Joe Rogers (R-Independence).

Bonds Said Unfair

Then Rep. Verne Cady (D-Burns), chairman of the House Highway Committee, said that authorizing the bonds would deprive all other sections of the state of their fair share of highway construction money.

The Senate approved 21-7 a House bill to increase inheritance taxes about 3 million dollars in the biennium. The vote was on reconsideration of a bill it had defeated last Saturday.

The Joint Ways and Means Committee voted to introduce a bill to issue 40 million dollars in bonds to take care of building needs for colleges and institutions for the four or six years beginning in 1961. The measure would be on the 1960 general election ballot.

The bill will go back to the committee, which might change the amount to $5 millions.

About 11 millions worth of buildings is being provided in the regular budget.

The House Education Committee introduced a resolution to create an interim committee to study many phases of education, including school organization, salaries of teachers, curriculum, scholastic achievement, buildings, special programs, and purchasing policies.

Rep. Vernon Cook (D-Troutdale), chairman of the House Local Government Committee, sponsored a resolution to create an interim committee to study local government problems.

Air Pollution Eyed In A-Ban

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower has put directly up to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev a proposal to ban nuclear weapons tests which dangerously pollute the atmosphere.

A first-stage agreement to outlaw tests beyond 100 miles in the atmosphere, Eisenhower wrote Khrushchev, could ease the deadlock among negotiators now seeking a way to halt all weapons testing.

Details of the President's appeal to the Kremlin leader were made public as Eisenhower arranged to take a two-week vacation at the Augusta National Golf Club and fly back to Washington. He scheduled his departure aboard the plane Columbine III for mid afternoon.

Presidential press secretary James C. Hagerty said Khrushchev had not replied to the Eisenhower letter. It was made public Monday night only after a Soviet official had talked about it, apparently by accident, in Geneva where East-West talks have been blocked since October.

Ranger Station Work Awarded

A. T. Barnhardt, Gates, Ore., contractor, was awarded a contract Monday to build three residences, an office, a gas and oil house and a water system at Toketee Ranger Station.

Barnhardt's low bid on the Umpqua National Forest project was $163,963.

The new station will be about a mile west of California Oregon Power Co.'s Clearwater Camp, overlooking Toketee Reservoir and the Clearwater canyon. The buildings will replace the old U. S. Forest Service ranger station at Big Camas.

The station will be for the staff of the Diamond-Lake Ranger District.

One part of the proposed construction will be to re-advertise Herb Rudolph, Forest service spokesman said. This is the drilling of wells. Two bids received on this portion of the project were both rejected for technical reasons, he stated.

Barnhardt, the low bidder, was also low bidder six months ago when the Toketee project was first offered, according to Rudolph. Other bidders were Donald W. Thompson of North Bend and Ausland Construction Co. of Grants Pass, according to Rudolph.

Under terms of the contract Barnhardt has 10 days to accept the contract and another 10 to begin construction.

Umpqua National Forest supervisor Vondis Miller said today the Forest Service "hopes to move in by Thanksgiving."

The bids were opened and the contract awarded by the regional office of the U. S. Forest Service in Portland.

Court Date Awaits Accused Trespasser

No date has been set in the U. S. District Court at Portland for the arraignment of a 32-year-old Days Creek man charged with unlawfully removing timber from federal land, the FBI reported Monday in Portland.

Raymond Marion Wilder, Days Creek, is charged with removing some 22,000 board feet of Douglas fir from O&C land in the Poole Creek area about 4 miles southeast of Days Creek, the FBI told the Associated Press.

The complaint against the Days Creek man was filed Thursday and he was arrested the following day by the FBI and cooperating state police. Wilder was lodged in the Douglas County jail until released Saturday on $1,000 bond.

The FBI said the maximum penalty upon conviction would be one year in jail, a $1,000 fine, or both.

Crowding Of Facilities Noted By Forest Service

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Forest Service said Tuesday that there was crowding and overuse of camp and picnic facilities in national forests last year.

An expansion of such facilities is failing to keep pace with the increase in visitors, the agency reported.

It said there were approximately 68 1/2 million visitors to the forests last year. This was 12 per cent more than in 1957.

Herter Wins Quick Okay Of Committee In Senate

WASHINGTON (AP) — Christian A. Herter won quick and unanimous approval of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee today to succeed John Foster Dulles as secretary of state.

The committee acted after hearing the 64-year-old Herter, who has been chief aide to the cancer-stricken Dulles, say the U.S. air route to Berlin will be defended out not necessarily at the risk of nuclear war.

Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright (D-Ark) announced that the nomination of Herter would go before the full Senate later today if possible. Quick confirmation would allow Herter to take office before leaving this weekend for the Western foreign ministers meeting in Paris.

Herter had told the committee he did not believe atomic and hydrogen bombs would be justified in the early stages of war developed over Berlin.

But, Herter told the committee, "if it became clear that Russia was resorting to all-out war, I think we would have to consider a change in our position."

Morse Examines Herter Herter gave this view under prolonged questioning by Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) at a hearing in which the applause of other members suggested overwhelming approval of his nomination.

Herter said that "without any question" Congress should be consulted before this country entered all-out war. He added the reservation that such consultation could not hold up instant retaliation in the event of attack.

Members of the committee contented themselves with complimentary speeches about Herter, Morse raised policy questions.

Cavalcade Nags Nips Young Girl

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — A 6-year-old girl is the first casualty of the Oregon Centennial wagon train.

Jo Ann Marshall, a spectator, was bitten on the right shoulder and thrown to the ground by one of the horses Monday. She was treated for a bruise, given a tetanus shot and taken home.

Jo Ann was among 1,000 persons who watched the seven wagons pass through Olathe.

The train camped near here Monday night and will make a short 10-mile move to Gardner today. At Gardner the Oregon Trail split off from the Santa Fe Trail and angled northwest.

Ahead lies most of the 2,000-mile journey to Independence, Ore., dramatizing the history of the old Oregon Trail. The train left Independence, Mo., Sunday.

All along the route, the train has attracted considerable attention. Monday, en route to Olathe, knots of curious residents gathered at street corners to watch the construction of the proposed recreation center. The total to date also represents 36 per cent of the $182,500 special goal, set by Mar Hutchins, chairman of that phase of the drive, told workers.

Hutchins told campaigners Monday that his committee hopes to have the bulk of the special gifts goal pledged by the time the general drive opens. Special gifts are designated as business, industrial or other large donations.

Some 80 contributions comprise the current special gifts total.

Harold Hoyt, general campaign chairman, noted that more volunteer help is needed to bring the drive up to top efficiency. He said persons interested in donating time toward the campaign should contact Y.M.C.A. campaign headquarters in the Rose Hotel Building.
