PORTLAND (AP) — An infant boy brought to Doernbecher Memorial Hospital for Children in Portland by two women was transferred Thursday by police to the Waverly Baby Home.

Waverly is seeking the mother. It says if she wants the baby, she can have him. Otherwise the home would like to gain legal custody so it can seek adoptive parents for him.

SECHELT, B. C. (AP) — A pair of life jackets and a lunch bucket were all that was found Thursday in a day-long search for six loggers who vanished in storm-swept Georgia Strait.

The air and sea search was launched after the men's capsized 16-foot outboard motorboat was spotted at daybreak near this community about 40 miles north of Vancouver.

Winds with gusts up to 60 miles an hour whipped the strait, which runs between Vancouver Island and mainland British Columbia, Wednesday night.

Polaris Missile Firing Succeeds

SAN CLEMENTE ISLAND, Calif. (AP)—The Navy Polaris missile today was a step closer to operational use aboard an atomic submarine after a successful test launching from 100 feet below the ocean surface.

The 28-foot bottle-shaped missile like a bright yellow whale, broke the choppy Pacific Thursday and zoomed up 1,800 feet despite a 25-knot wind.

Then, its five seconds of solid fuel expended, the missile arched gracefully back to a splash landing in the sea near this island off Southern California.

The Navy hailed this first underwater launch as a giant step toward the day when submarines can fire atomic-armed missiles from beneath the sea at any potential enemy.

A high-ranking Navy official in Sacramento described the U. S. meanwhile, as five to six years ahead of the Soviet Union.

Rear Adm. William F. Raborn, director of special projects for the Bureau of Naval Weapons, said the Navy plans to build 45 missile-launching subs. These, he told a dedication of a new rocket fuel installation, "would be as nearly invulnerable as any weapon that could be imagined."

The 15-ton missile was blown from the launching tube on the ocean floor to the surface by compressed air. It was the 67th launching from the underwater tube but the first with a real Polaris. The others were dummy models.

Two nuclear powered Polaris submarines — the George Washington and the Patrick Henry— are to receive the missiles next summer. The Polaris has a potential range of 1,200 miles.

Glendale-Azalea Boosters Proposed

A group of Glendale and Azalea people have launched a movement to form a community booster organization, reports correspondent Mrs. G. B. Fox.

Temporarily named "Glendale-Azalea Development Program," it is being designed to study ways of bringing new industry and other development to the Cow Creek Val-Walter Kinkaid.

Mrs. Fox reports the formation of the group was spurred by the recent announcement that the Robert Dollar Co. mill would shut down operations May 20.

The organization will study possibilities of developing small industry to take up the slack and will work for construction of an irrigation and flood-control dam on Cow Creek at Galesville. The site of such a dam has been given preliminary study by the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation.

A public meeting will be set when data has been collected by the booster group, Kinkaid said that when the public meeting date is set, invitations will be sent to Wolf Creek, Canyonville and Riddle, as well as Glendale and Azalea.

Youth Play Hookey In Stolen Cruiser

ASTORIA, Ore. (AP) — Two youths playing hookey from high school in a stolen 44-foot cabin cruiser were caught Thursday because they pulled up to a marine dock here and told the attendant to fill her up.

The two gasoline tanks on the craft each held 225 gallons and as it turned out the boys were presenting the gasoline credit card of the owner in the attempt to get gas, police said.

Manager Gordon Hutchinson of the marine dock decided to check and found that the boat had not yet been missed from its Portland anchorage, 100 miles up the Columbia River.

While Hutchinson was calling owner C. Wade Hanson of the craft, the Gemini, the two youths fled without the gas and started back upstream. Coast Guardmen in pursuit found them aground on a nearby bar.

Police said later the two 16-year-old juniors from Lincoln High School in Portland are Herb "Skip" Thatcher and Thomas Waltmon, who had sailed the craft out of Portland on Tuesday.

And Waltmon turned out to be an ex-beau of Hanson's daughter, Carole, a 16-year-old Wilson High School junior.

Both boys were held in the county jail here until their parents arrived from Portland to take them back home.

At Astoria, the craft's value was estimated at $50,000 and it was reported damaged when it was run aground. But in Portland, Hanson said it was worth only between $14,000 and $18,000. He is a well-to-do accountant.

The boys told Sheriff Carl Bondietti they had left Portland Tuesday, spent the night in Ranier, Ore., and slept aboard the craft Wednesday night in Astoria. They told him they had planned to sail down the Pacific Coast to San Francisco.

District Judge Rules 'The Lovers' Obscene

CHICAGO (AP) — The French motion picture, "The Lovers," is obscene, and censorship is constitutional, U.S. Dist. Judge William J. Campbell ruled Wednesday.

He held in a 41-page decision that the film "is completely centered around and dominated by sexual play and gratification."

The Chicago Censor Board, in September, 1959, forbade showing of the film in the city. Zenith International Film Corp. of New York, the distributor, sought in federal court to override the findings, contending that the film is not obscene and that censorship is unconstitutional.

"The Lovers" has been under attack in Portland, Ore., where police have arrested the manager of the Guild Theater, it exhibitor.

Police Chief William Hilbegner said his censors found bedroom and bathroom passages obscene. The manager, Miss Nancy Welch, was arrested after an order to cut the scenes was ignored.

She is scheduled to appear in municipal court today on a charge of violating a city ordinance.

The Guild suspended showings of the movie pending outcome of the court hearing, at which there will be a challenge of the ordinance's constitutionality.

CHICAGO (AP) — A 53-year-old engineer was arrested by FBI agents Thursday night after he told an airline clerk at Midway Airport he had a bomb in a paper bag.

Robert Carey Clark of Raytown, Mo., was charged by the FBI with making a false bomb report at an airport. He was held in jail. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of a $1,000 fine and one year in prison.

Pardon Paves Way For Return To Job

CONCORD, N. H. (AP)—New Hampshire today forgave a Templeton, Mass., man for an admitted boyhood crime, and paved the way for his return to the job he loves—that of a small town police chief.

"Thank you, gentlemen, from the bottom of my heart," John L. Whipple told Gov. Wesley Powell and his executive council as they voted unanimously to pardon him.

Whipple, 55, was given indefinite leave as Templeton police chief March 19 because of a Massachusetts law which prohibits anyone with a record for felony from serving as a police officer.

Whipple admitted he took part in an attempted holdup 38 years ago in Rindge, N. H. He received a suspended sentence for what Atty. Gen. Louis C. Wyman said was "the only offense in his life."

Joseph B. Moulton, chairman of the Templeton board of selectmen, who has been serving as temporary police chief, said "now we'll put the real chief back into action as soon as we can."

Carole, Dr. Finch Return To Court

LOS ANGELES (AP) — When slim and chic Carole Tregoff met her doctor lover for the first time since their 11-week murder trial she cried and her lips silently formed the words, "I love you."

The court meeting Thursday between red-haired Carole and Dr. R. Bernard Finch was to clear up minor details prior to their retrial May 23. They are accused of the ambush slaying of Finch's estranged wife, Barbara, to prevent her from getting a large part of the doctor's fortune via a divorce settlement.

Miss Tregoff, 13 pounds slimmer than when she stood trial, didn't speak to the doctor. However, he whispered a few words to her before he was led back to jail.

She was freed on $25,000 bail after the trial that ended with a deadlocked jury.
