Cleveland Jones Is Called Biggest, Little Grid Player

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — You heard about the youngster who does everything for his team but carry the water bucket. The Oregon Webfoots have such a lad on their football team.

Looks Like Little Water Boy

The situation is sometimes confused since this Jack-of-all-phases of football offense looks more like the water-boy than the water boy himself.

Cleveland Jones is his name. He's 143 pounds dripping wet, and stands 5 feet, 3 inches tall. Oregon Coach Len Casanova refers to him as the "biggest little man in football."

Good Pro Material

Asst. Coach Jack Roche comments that you have to see Jones to believe it. Roche, without the trace of a smile or hint he is joking, says the pros would do well to look twice at the small halfback.

Listing just a few of his accomplishments in helping the Webfoots to a 7-2-1 record and a spot in Saturday's Liberty Bowl game against Penn State at Philadelphia Stadium disclose the following:

1. He led the team in scoring with 5 touchdowns, a pair of two point conversions and 12 for 20 placement conversions for a total of 46 points.
2. He was tops in punt returns

3. He was the No. 1 kickoff returner with 12 for 241 yards and 4 touchdowns.
4. He led the pass receivers, 25 caught for 402 yards and 4 touchdowns.
5. He was second in rushing, 80 carries for 339 yards, an average of 6.4.
6. He completed 3 of 7 passes for 33 yards and 2 touchdowns.

Jones says he isn't bothered by his size, no inferiority complex. He hopes the pros won't be bothered by it either. He'd like an opportunity to play for pay.

"I hope they remember another little fellow by the name of Buddy Young when they hold that pro draft and start weighing" whether I'm worth a chance," says the diminutive halfback. "I'm asking only what I've had to ask all my athletic life, a chance."

Casanova is hopeful he'll get big things from his small package against favored State Saturday.

Liberty Game On Television

Football will be back in the spotlight for University of Oregon fans Saturday when the Ducks clash with the Penn State Nittany Lions in the second annual Liberty Bowl in Philadelphia, Pa.

The contest will be telecast locally on channels 4, 11 and 13. KPIC, channel 4, will carry the pre-game activities at 9:45 a.m. with the play-by-play action starting at 10. The entire game will be carried with Lindsey Nelson and Frank Albert acting as the commentators.

If you are not near a TV set you can listen to the Liberty Bowl on radio station KQEN. The broadcast will start at 9:45 with the lineups and pre-game activities.

The Liberty Bowl, in its second year, will originate from the 100,000 seat Municipal Stadium in Philadelphia. The Ducks will be making their first trip east of the Mississippi to appear in a post-season bowl and the Lions will be making a return appearance to the Liberty Bowl.

In the first Liberty Bowl played last year the Lions edged Alabama 7-0 in a real thriller. Experts are looking for another thriller this year with Penn State holding down the favorites position by less than one touchdown.

Liberty Bowl To Draw About 25,000 Persons

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Bud Dudley, president of the Liberty Bowl which will be held in Philadelphia Stadium Saturday, says opponents Penn State and Oregon should each take home between $50,000 and $60,000.

Dudley said some 17,000 tickets had been sold as of Thursday night. He said he expects a crowd of between 20,000 and 25,000 for the nationally televised game. NBC is paying $100,000 for the TV rights.

Last year more than 31,000 persons attended the first Liberty Bowl game. Penn State and Alabama each got $98,000, according to Dudley.

He conceded heavy snows and subfreezing temperatures this week hurt the ticket sale.

"The Dodgers have the best staff," says relief ace Labine. "They have those hard throwers — five of them — Williams, Drysdale, Koufax, Podres and Craig. And Roebuck and Sherry in the bullpen.

"The Orioles might be second, but not better than the Dodgers."

QUARTERBACK DAVE GROSZ exhibits the form that led the University of Oregon Ducks to a 7-2-1 record during the 1960 gridiron season. Grosz and crew will be back in action Saturday as the Webfoots clash with the Penn State Nittany Lions in the post-season Liberty Bowl at Philadelphia, Pa. During the season Grosz passed for 910 yards and picked up 207 rushing to bring his three year total for the Ducks to 3,006 yards gained. The flashy signal caller was named as the 1960 recipient of the Hoffman Award which goes annually to the outstanding Duck of the season. The Lions will go into Saturday's action a slight favorite, but the Ducks are determined to bring a Liberty Bowl victory back to Oregon as the contest promises to be a thriller.

Willamette's Stan Solomon To Play In All-American Football Bowl Tilt

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Halfback Stan Solomon, the greatest yard gainer and scorer in Willamette University's history leaves Sunday for what may be his final football game.

Solomon is on the small college all-star squad for the All-American Bowl at Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 28. Unless he plays pro ball, and he might if the chance comes, that will end the career of the biggest gainer and scorer ever at Willamette.

In four years, Solomon gained 2,859 yards and scored 268 points. He was named to the Associated Press second all-coast team this fall.

In addition to his deceptive running, Solomon passed on occasion, making him a constant danger to opponents. And after a touchdown, he pulled off his shoe for a barefoot goal kick.

"This not uncommon Hawaiian practice was picked up in his grade school days. He was playing football as far back as he can remember. At Honolulu's McKinley High, he was a halfback, as he has been at Willamette.

In college game programs he was listed at 181 pounds.

"A little high," he calls that. He was weighed recently at 165 pounds.

When he learned that Oregon's 5-foot-3 Cleveland Jones was on the big college squad that will oppose his group in the All-American Bowl, Solomon said he was glad.

"Now I know I won't be the smallest guy on the field," he said.

Size, he said, was never a concern to him. In leading Willamette this fall to its first undefeated season in 47 years, Solomon hit just as though he was the biggest man around.

Whether it will be a handicap if he should want to play professional football is to be seen. He says he hasn't thought much about that but "might give it a try if the offer was right."

If he should go into pro ball, he likely would favor the American Football League over the National Football League.

"I think my chances of getting to play would be much better there," he said.

But he may return to Hawaii with his wife and their son, Mike, now 4 months old. It depends on what opportunities arise.

Until after Dec. 26 however, he has scant time for such matters. His last football game as a collegian has his full attention.

Indian JVs State Games

Roseburg's Junior Varsity under coach Bill Harper will face the Grants Pass Junior Varsity Friday night at Grants Pass and then return home for Saturday's game against the Marshfield Junior Varsity.

Game time both nights will be 6:15 for the Jayvee action as the Jayvee games will be played as the preliminary contests before the Roseburg Indians' battles.

The local Jayvees have a 1-1 record losing their opener to Glide and then returning the next night to stomp the Wildcats from Glide.

Starting for the Roseburg Jayvees will be forwards Jim Wassom and either Jerry Bouccek or Bill Howard, center Bruce O'Neill, and guards Paul Brothers and Spike Moore. Wassom and Howard are the top scorers for the Jayvees with 38 and 31 points respectively in the first two games. O'Neill gives the Jayvees rebounding power as the lanky center stands at 6-4.

While the Roseburg Jayvee team is made up entirely of sophomores, the Grants Pass Jayvee squad will have sophomores and juniors on the floor. The probable starting lineup for Grants Pass will be forwards Rich Henner and Jerry Robertson, center Joe Weedman, and guards Norm Sturgill and Gary Reddick. Weedman stands at 6-2 for the Grants Pass Jayvees and is backed up by 6-3 Larry Lindquist.
