Lawrence Welk Star To Appear With Douglas County Honor Band

Bill Page, a Lawrence Welk orchestra star who plays 15 reed instruments, will be guest soloist with the Umpqua Valley League Honor Band which will play in Roseburg next Monday.

The concert will start at 8 p.m. in the Douglas County Fairgrounds Community Building.

100-Piece Honor Band
The 100-piece honor band will be comprised of the top band students from Riddle, Myrtle Creek, Douglas, Glide, Oakland, Sutherlin, Yoncalia and Canyonville high schools.

Proceeds from the concert will be divided among the participating schools to be used in furthering individual school music programs.

Though only in his thirties, Page is regarded as one of the leading doubling artists in the popular music field. He has also appeared in numerous moving pictures and on television shows. In recent months, he has gained considerable popularity as a reed instrument clinician.

Page's first big job came when he was only 16, with Boyd Raeburn's band. He played the clarinet. Sometimes, special arrangements called for other instruments, so Page began taking lessons on saxophone and flute so he could fill in. Later, when he toured with Rudy Vallee's band, he took lessons on piccolo and bass clarinet.

After the war, he joined a service band which toured Europe with an entertainment troupe led by Mickey Rooney. His versatility finally led him to free lance recording. Then, in 1953, he was hired by Lawrence Welk.

Beside solo work at the concert Monday, Page will perform in a saxophone trio with Sutherlin's Lois Jackson and Leonard Leeper.
