

Indian Tribes Seeking Greater Opportunity, More Independence

SPOKANE (AP) — American Indians want more independence and economic opportunity without uncompensated loss of treaty rights.

That is the theme underlying talks by representatives of 50 tribes meeting in Spokane with a five-man Interior Department "Indian task force."

The five men are hearing recommendations from the tribes and will report to Interior Secy. Stewart Udall and President Kennedy.

With them is the new Indian commissioner, John O. Crow, who did a little dance for the pleased delegates Tuesday and was initiated into the Assiniboine-Sioux tribe of Ft. Peck, Mont. Crow is a member of the Cherokee tribe.

Most of the tribesmen pleaded for more local authority in directing tribal affairs, asked for more government help in developing tribal land and resources and asked for regulation from district offices rather than from Washington.

William W. Keeler, part Cherokee and a vice president of Phillips Petroleum Co., replied. The head of the so-called task force said Udall wants the five men to recommend changes in policy which can make the Indian Affairs Bureau more effective.

Joseph R. Garry, chairman of the Coeur d'Alene Tribal Council and former president of the National Congress of American Indians, said he would like to see the Indian Bureau appoint "strong, highly-qualified agency superintendents" who would report directly to the Indian commissioner.

"Such a man," he said, "could work with a tribe and impress upon it the importance of unity."

"Too often we note that superintendents remain aloof. After all, our enemy is not from within. He is from without. He is the big lumber company, the big mining firm, the business organization that is trying to get its hands on our resources."

Frank W. Moore, president of the Colville Indian Association, said the association and other members of the tribe have petitioned Congress for an amendment to the constitution under which the confederated tribes of the Colville Indian reservation operates.

Nuclear Power Plants Won't Cut Hydroelectric Power Demands

WENATCHEE (AP) — Development of nuclear power plants is not expected to decrease the demand for hydroelectric power, an Interior Department official said recently.

Kenneth Holm, assistant secretary for water and power, addressed the convention of the Northwest Public Power Association.

Holm said proposed addition of power generating facilities to a reactor built at the Hanford Atomic Works would add some 700,000 kilowatts of firm power to the Northwest grid.

"However, atomic power is not expected to supply significant amounts of power during the next few years," he added. "Consequently there is little reason to believe that nuclear power plants will decrease the value of hydroelectric power generation."

Holm also said a task force now studying a proposed intertie between the Bonneville Power Administration and California will not approve it unless the Northwest is guaranteed adequate power.

Another speaker Thursday was State Rep. John Goldmark, Okanogan Democrat. He said private power interests are waging an intensive campaign to infiltrate ranks of Democratic legislators in order to secure passage of legislation in which private power is interested.

John Birch Founder Says Organization Isn't Secret

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The founder of the controversial John Birch Society says it isn't a secret society — and it has only two secrets.

"We don't tell how many members we have, and we'll not tell the names of our members," explained Robert Welch, of Belmont, Mass., when interviewed on a local television program Sunday night.

Welch appeared with Dr. James W. Fifield Jr., minister of the First Congregational church of Los Angeles, on the latter's weekly program on a local TV channel.

The retired candy manufacturer arrived Saturday for Southern California speaking engagements. He will speak Tuesday night in 6,000-seat Shrine auditorium. All the seats are sold.

Welch, 61, said the John Birch Society, named for a missionary and Air Force intelligence officer who was killed by Chinese Communists, is "trying to prevent the breakdown of morality."

He said it opposes "the disease of collectivism. We've got to stop the Communists first. Our primary objective is to educate our neighbors and fellow citizens to what is happening."

Fifield said he had heard that a purpose of the society is to get Chief Justice Earl Warren deposed.

Some congressmen have called for investigation of the organization. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy said last week he thinks the society is ridiculous, that its members "make no contribution to the fight against Communism here in the United States, and in fact I think if anything they are a hindrance."

The California Senate fact-finding committee on Un-American Activities announced Saturday it has scheduled an inquiry into the society for some time after the legislature adjourns in June.

House Committee Kills 3-Way Bill

SALEM (AP) — The three-way industrial accident insurance bill was killed this week by a 6-3 vote of the Labor and Industries Committee.

The bill had passed the Senate by a bare majority. It would have given employers the option of taking their industrial accident insurance through the state, self-insurance or insurance companies.

The state now provides the coverage. The action wasn't surprising. Rep. W. O. Kelsay, D-Roseburg, committee chairman, has been predicting for weeks that his committee would kill the bill.

The action came after the eighth hearing on the bill.

The bill was supported by insurance companies and some employers. Labor fought it, arguing that it would increase the cost of industrial accident insurance.

State Finance Director Freeman Holmer said the bill might increase administrative costs as much as $1 million a year.

Student Counterfeiters Sought By Feds At OSC

PORTLAND (AP) — The Secret Service is looking for a gang of student counterfeiters on the Oregon State College campus.

Frank Kenny, of the Secret Service office here, said students have been using acid to reduce the size of pennies so they will fit in dime vending machines.

Federal laws are severe about the mutilation of coins with intent to defraud. The maximum penalty is five years in prison and a fine of $2,000.

Kenny said the converted pennies have been found mostly in the vending machines and men's dormitories and the chemistry building.

He said a small number of students was involved in the scheme. Kenny declined to say how many pennies had been altered but he added: "It's a considerable amount."

Store Giving Free Broadloom Carpet!

In a most unusual and dramatic move to reduce their carpet stock, Carstens is giving 10 square yards of carpet free when the customer buys 35 additional square yards of the same carpet.

Mr. Donald Munson of Carstens said, "You simply select any one of special broadloom values in our store. Just buy 25 square yards and we will give you 10 additional square yards of the same carpet. So the customer gets 35 square yards, but pays for only 25 square yards. Prices start at 4.35 per square yard."

Munson explained that with larger purchase, more free carpet is given. Included are nylons and wools from America's leading carpet mills. Terms available, up to 3 years to pay.

The free carpet is located at Carstens Furniture Co., 829 S.E. Cass Avenue in Roseburg, Oregon.

If you would like a representative to bring carpet samples to your home without obligation, call O'Reichard 2-4013. In toll areas, call collect.

Boland Says World Events Influenced Greatly By UN

EUGENE (AP)—The course of world events since 1945 has been measurably influenced by the United Nations, Frederick H. Boland said Wednesday.

Boland, president of the 1960-61 General Assembly of the United Nations, and permanent representative from Ireland to the UN, discussed international affairs at a Wednesday press conference.

Boland came to the University of Oregon to speak at a model United Nations, which opened Wednesday night.

"I think the most historic, most epochal event of our time," he declared, "has been the emergence of the new nations of Africa and Asia into independence. I don't think that would have taken place without the United Nations."

As a world organization, Boland said, the UN has given new nations essential protection and encouragement. Without UN support, he said, "many of these countries would have run for cover." Stressing the importance that new countries have in the United Nations, Boland said one of the major issues facing the UN is the relation between the old and the new world.
