Mother's Day is The Ideal Time To Take Her Out To Dinner

Many Favorite Shows Are Dead At End Of The Current Season

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — There is something sad about the death of a TV show.

Think of all that effort, all the story conferences, all the agent dickering, the ulcer aggravating, the long days' shooting, the revised format — all this down the drain at the whim of the networks.

Some casualties deserve their fate, but let's think kindly of them. And let's shed a tear for good old friends who will be missed. This, then, is a salute to the losers of 1960-61.

Sa lang, Groucho. We'll miss your sidelong leer and the wagging eyebrows. What a record — 14 years with the show, 11 on TV! Hope you're back soon with another show that lets you be your own grouchy self.

Goodbye, Loretta. Next winter we'll be hankering for the swish of taffeta as you whip through the door and into the living room.

And a fond farewell to June Allyson and Barbara Stanwyck, too. What'll we do for a good cry with you girls gone?

Speaking of tears, we'll miss Ralph Edwards with his book locked underneath his arm. How about doing that final show: "This is your life—Ralph Edwards!"

Don't waste your sympathy on the Redskins. Think of the cowpokes who are biting the dust. Wyatt Earp is one. Now he'll have more time for Princess Soraya. Bat Masterson has been licked, came and all, along with Josh Randal of "Wanted: Dead or Alive," "The Deputy," "Stagecoach West," "The Gunslinger" and "Zane Grey Theater."

The papa of the TV private eye, Peter Gunn, has been disarmed, along with Michael Shayne, Dante and Danter Man, whoever he is. Time has run out for "Asphalt Jungle" and "Mallory Knight," the land version of "The Aquanauts." Sorry, lads.

Come back soon, Shirley Temple, Ernie Ford and Ann Sothern. We hope you have the fare back from Hong Kong, Rod Taylor. The same for all those folks who took "One Step Beyond."

Cancellation is no laughing matter to these comedy shows: My Sister Eileen, Tom Ewell, Peter Loves-Mary, Buddy, Guestward Ho, Harrigan and Son, Angel and Tab Hunter.

A special salute to "The Law and Mr. Jones." Lots of folks thought the verdict was unjust. Hope you win an appeal.

Mothers in the county usually are the harried chefs for holidays, but Sunday is their day. For that reason, several restaurants have compiled menus for the sons, daughters and husbands who agree that mother should have a day away from the kitchen at least one day a year. It's a perfect day to take her out to eat.

Cemetery Cleanup Slated At Sutherlin

The Sutherlin Past Noble Grand's Club has decided to assist the Sutherlin Rebekah Lodge in cleaning the IOOF Cemetery in Sutherlin Sunday, May 21.

The decision was announced at the May meeting of the Noble Grand's in the IOOF Hall, Grace Wood was hostess.

Initiated into the club was Esther Meyers of Yoncalla, a transfer.

The annual treasurer's report was given by Juanita Holgate. Hostess for the June meeting will be Charlotte Parker, who will direct serving of a noon luncheon at the hall, reports correspondent Barbara Liesinger of Sutherlin.
